Jaycees Select Doctor As One Of Ten Leaders

Chattanooga, Tenn., Jan. 21 (AP)—A 34-year-old Memphis, Tenn., doctor credited with developing an anesthesia that eliminates child-birth pain was named one of the ten outstanding young men of 1947 today by the U. S. Junior Chamber of Commerce.

The young medical expert, Dr. Robert A. Hingson, is professor of anesthesiology at the University of Tennessee.

He recently received much attention in the medical world as one of the pioneers in the use of the hypodermic, a flashlight-sized injection gun that fires hypodermic injections into the skin tissues.

Although other researchers worked in developing the spray which may replace the old-styled "hypo" needle, Hingson was the first physician to use it.

Official Records

HONORABLE DISCHARGES
January 19: Thomas Boeke, Redmond, army; William Ross Neff, navy.

POWER OF ATTORNEY
January 19: Franciscan Capuchin Order of the Diocese of Baker City, to Rev. William Coughlan.

PROBATE COURT
The estate of Mitrofan Evyanov, who died January 15, at the age of 77, was admitted to probate January 20. His estate, consisting of real and personal property valued at approximately $2800, will revert to the state of Oregon, as there are no known heirs. H. H. DeArmond, attorney for the state land board, was named administrator, and C. V. Silvis was appointed appraiser.

ASSUMED BUSINESS NAME
An assumed business name for the Bend Cabinet shop was filed with the county clerk January 20, by Harold Chaucey and John Cripe, who also filed a co-partnership agreement the same day.

Tax Figure Given
The utility tax to be paid to the city by the Pacific Power and Light company in 1948 will amount to $459.81 per month in 1948, according to a computation made from figures on the company's gross operating revenue in Bend in 1947. The revenue was $292,039.05 in 1947 and the tax to be paid, based on 2 per cent of this amount, will be $5,417.74 to be paid in monthly installments in 1948.

Percy Drost, street superintendent, reported open winter weather has made it possible for street department crews to accomplish a large amount of improvement work and that the men and equipment are now hauling clinders and dirt to fill streets. City manager C. G. Reiter reported that a drainage improvement requested in the Hixon avenue area had been studied and that the improvement would require the installation of a catch basin and about 200 feet of culvert. The commission agreed that the work should be done as soon as possible.

Reiter said he had inspected Tumalo, Newport and Drake park bridges and reported that some pieces of the railings of the bridges had partly decayed, but that the railings are entirely safe. Screens have been installed on lights in Drake park and this should reduce breakage of bulbs, Reiter said.

Police Commended
Commissioner W. J. Baer commended the police department on doing a good job of keeping down noise of motorcycles and trucks. City manager Reiter reported to the commission that the state highway department will install a sign at the Wall street-Franklin avenue intersection to permit a northbound vehicle on Wall street to turn right onto Franklin avenue without coming to a stop. All commissioners were present last night.

Speakers for the program who will carry particular interest for conference members include: William O. Thornly of J. Walter Thompson Co. in Seattle, a collector of rare and old type faces and private printer; Clifford Kaynor, publisher of Ellensburg, Wash., Daily Record, and chairman of the non-metropolitan daily newspaper section of the National Editorial association; William L. Blizzard, publisher of the Oswego Review; Quincy Scott, cartoonist from the Oregonian; David Eyre, assistant news editor of the Oregon Journal; Fred Lockley, Oregon Journal historical columnist; Dr. Harry K. Newburn, president of the University of Oregon, and Dr. Laurence Campbell, professor in the university school of journalism.

Working on the program committee for the conference are President Swenson, Dean Turnbull, who is secretary of the conference, and Carl C. Webb, assistant professor of journalism and ONPA manager.

tives of the band, Carl J. Lindh, W. B. Cone and Don P. Pence. Lindh said a municipal band would provide about 10 concrete a year and would be available for water pageant events. He said it would provide additional musical training for the better musicians in the high school band and would give them an opportunity to continue in band work after leaving school. He said the municipal band still had a good library of music and some instruments. Uniforms would be a problem, he said, as the last uniforms were purchased in 1928.

Band Seeks $3000
The band men asked that $3,000 be included so that it could have full consideration of the budget committee and city commission when final work is done on the budget.

A lease was completed last night with the McCann Sign company for a sign board located on city-owned property on Wall street near Portland avenue. The company will pay $36 a year for having the board on the property and the lease will be subject to cancellation at any time the city sells the property. A further stipulation was included that no posters advertising beer or other alcoholic liquor may be placed on the board. The sign board has been located on the property for several years.

Drivers' Licenses Being Renewed
Licenses that expired as long as seven months ago have been brought to the drivers' license office at the courthouse in recent weeks for renewal, according to Mrs. Leon Devereaux, license clerk.

This indicates that a number of people are driving with expired licenses, Mrs. Devereaux said. All licenses with numbers from 5R1 to 5R231,000 should have been renewed before December 31. Licenses due to be renewed in January include those numbered between 5R231,001 and 5R264,000. Licenses with numbers between 5R264,001 and 5R297,000 are to be renewed in February.

Missing Prodigy Found In Hotel

San Francisco, Jan. 21 (AP)—Jacqueline Horner, 14-year-old Hollywood piano prodigy who has been missing for a week, was found here early today in a hotel room with a sailor, police reported.

Inspector Joe Norton said two other officers, acting on a tip, located the girl in a hotel room with Wallace Wells, 19, a sailor stationed at Hunters Point here. Wells was booked on charges of violating the state welfare and institutions code, which covers offenses involving minors.

BOB FELLER SIGNS
Cleveland, Jan. 21 (AP)—Bob Feller, strikeout king and highest paid player in baseball history, today signed a 1948 contract with the Cleveland Indians that may give him more than the $87,000 earned last year.

City manager Reiter reported to the commission that the state highway department will install a sign at the Wall street-Franklin avenue intersection to permit a northbound vehicle on Wall street to turn right onto Franklin avenue without coming to a stop. All commissioners were present last night.

Speakers for the program who will carry particular interest for conference members include: William O. Thornly of J. Working on the program committee for the conference are President Swenson, Dean Turnbull, who is secretary of the conference, and Carl C. Webb, assistant professor of journalism and ONPA manager.

Tank Explosion Kills 1, Hurts 3

Corvallis, Ore., Jan. 21 (AP)—An explosion followed by a flash fire left one woman dead here today and three other persons in the Corvallis general hospital in serious condition.

The dead woman was Mrs. Mack Andrews, 67. Mrs. Andrews' husband, about 60, and two young Oregon State college students, Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Sabo, both of Klamath Falls, were in Corvallis General hospital with burns classified as "serious."

Corvallis firemen said the explosion and fire resulted from efforts by Sabo to repair a butane tank in his trailer at a camp south of here. The tank exploded enveloping the Andrews' and Sabo's trailers in flames.

Gabrielson To Aid In Game Study

Succeeding Lew Wallace, who resigned following his announcement that he will seek the democratic nomination as governor of Oregon, William Niskanen, Bend, has been named chairman of the state's legislative interim committee now studying wildlife restoration. Although resigning as chairman, Wallace is to remain on the committee.

Niskanen, who is also representative in the state legislature from Deschutes county, returned last night from a committee conference in Portland. He has announced that February 2, the committee will start its western Oregon hearings, with the first to be in Portland. Later, the group will swing through western Oregon and over to the coast counties.

Gabrielson to Aid
Members of the committee serving with Niskanen are Wallace, Portland, John Eblinger, Klamath Falls; Carl Hill, Days Creek, and James Loder, Salem.

Niskanen announced today that at the Portland meeting, the committee met with Ira N. Gabrielson, former national director of the fish and wildlife service. Gabrielson has agreed to spend a month or two in Oregon this season, to work with the interim committee in studying plans for the restoration of the state's wildlife resources.

Gratke To Speak At Conference

University of Oregon, Eugene, Jan. 21 (Special)—Heading a list of topflight speakers scheduled on the program of the 29th annual press conference on the University of Oregon campus February 20-21, is Charles E. Gratke, foreign editor of the Christian Science Monitor and alumnus of the University of Oregon.

Gratke is being brought to the campus, according to Dean George Turnbull of the university's school of journalism, through the courtesy of the Eric W. Allen Memorial fund, to address the conference and lecture to the school of journalism. This is the second annual lectureship under the fund. The first was held last year by J. S. Russell, farm editor of the Des Moines Register-Tribune.

The Monitor's foreign editor has had an inside view of affairs in Europe for many years. Being in Germany when Hitler first came to power gave him a ringside seat at events which were culminated in the second world war.

Sponsored by the university school of journalism and the Oregon Newspaper Publishers association, the conference will open under Press conference president R. B. Swenson, publisher of the Monmouth Herald.

Speakers for the program who will carry particular interest for conference members include: William O. Thornly of J. Walter Thompson Co. in Seattle, a collector of rare and old type faces and private printer; Clifford Kaynor, publisher of Ellensburg, Wash., Daily Record, and chairman of the non-metropolitan daily newspaper section of the National Editorial association; William L. Amendment Try Loses In House

Washington, Jan. 21 (AP)—The house today rejected a move to strip the secretary of interior of power to authorize reclamation projects he decides will be able to repay their federal investment.

The move was in an amendment to the so-called Rockwell bill. It was offered by Rep. Ben Jensen, R., Ia., and was defeated by a teller vote of 74 to 66.

Jensen's was the first of several amendments to be considered by the house.

Crawford Opposes Move
Rep. Fred Crawford, R., Mich., said adoption of the Jensen amendment would amount to "scuttling the basic reclamation law of this country."

"If you want to get your necks out, just let us rewrite the irrigation and reclamation act," he said. "I am not going to scuttle that operation and I am not going to be a party to scuttling it."

OVER THE COUNTER
New York (AP)—Gimbel's department store added a Shetland pony holiday for the Christmas holidays. One pony, named Cinderella, was put on display, complete with small stable and trappings. The store announced it could deliver 5,000 ponies.
