The bride, given in marriage by her father, wore a white satin gown with finger-tip veil and carried a bouquet of white asters and pink roses.

Mrs. Lillie Smith, of Monmouth, former college classmate of the bride, was matron of honor, and Miss Lorene Knutson, sister of the bride, was bridesmaid. They wore matching gowns of light blue tulle and carried nosegays of pink and white daisies.

Refugee Flow From East Swamps Lower Saxony

Hannover, Germany (AP)—Housing and refugee officials in the state of Lower Saxony have issued a plea to less-crowded states to give asylum to the thousands of refugees who are pouring in from the east.

Officials state that 44 per cent of the population in that state have arrived recently from the Soviet zone.

The situation there is described as "desperate" and the state provincial government has asked assistance from military authorities, seeking barracks and blocks of apartments which are still requisitioned by the army.

Navy Fleet to Land Supplies In Mock Invasion

Point Barrow, Alaska, Aug. 5 (AP)—The navy's eight-ship resupply flotilla was anchored 60 miles off the ice-fringed coast of this northernmost American outpost today poised for an invasion-type landing.

The blunt-nosed icebreaker Burton smashed its way up and down the coast, clearing a path for the fleet. Shirt-sleeved longshoremen waited on the beach. Eskimo cat-skinners rumbled back and forth getting ready for landing parties. Every man knew his job well.

As the sun beat down on a cluster of quonset huts in the tiny Barrow camp, a curtain of fog shielded activity from the 14,000-ton attack transports, bulging with a year's supply of lumber, fuel, vehicles and food for the inhabitants of the top of the world. Navy ice patrol planes orbited. Progress of the Burton was relayed by voice radio back to the fleet commander.

Doolittle on Hand

Air force Lt. Gen. Jimmy Doolittle and other top-ranking officers were expected to arrive to witness the carefully planned "invasion."

Once safely through the crazily shifting ice, speed was of the utmost importance. A 42,000-ton load of supplies—larger than was out ashore in the first week of the Normandy invasion—must be swung onto docks before the polar ice can swing back again and shut off this isolated arctic outpost from the rest of the world.

Already the pack was so tight walruses waddled miles across the ice before finding open water. Eskimoes reported hunting excellent.

The fleet rocked in single file awaiting the signal to complete the last leg of its long voyage from Seattle.

Natives and the white population lined the sandy shore and anxiously watched every maneuver.

The triple threat of wind, tide and ice could sabotage this long-awaited annual expedition.

In Shopping Matters, Women Can't Lose

Memphis, Tenn. (AP)—The pajama sale brought out the bargain hunters. The clerk finally wrapped the last pair on the counter and the sale was over.

Three hours later, a woman shopper handed the clerk the money for a pair of blue pajamas that had been on sale. She had left her money home when she first arrived at the store.

She calmly explained that she had hidden the pajamas under garments on another counter and returned home for the cash.

Music While He Works Keeps Mower Happy

Memphis, Tenn. (AP)—Winfred C. Wingo, 64-year-old department store manager, cuts the grass at night and listens to his favorite programs without keeping his ear close to the radio in the house.

Wingo now mows his large lawn in the evenings because he works six full days a week. His electric mower has a long cord with the usual plug-in socket.

He attached a headlight for his night cutting and a portable radio "to keep me in good humor."

Few Auto Accidents Laid To Mechanical Defects

Madison, Wis. (AP)—If you bag your car into a culvert some dark night and then say it wasn't your fault, "the thingamabob slipped out of the whatzis," the chances are only about one in ten that you're right.

A study of fatal accidents in Wisconsin shows that about 90 per cent of the vehicles were in "apparently good condition" before the accident.

Of course, after it has hit a culvert wall, it's not easy to tell what state the car was in before the accident but the investigators apparently did it. Human errors, they maintain, far outnumber vehicle defects as causes of accidents.

Packet Service Back On Old Man River

St. Louis (AP)—After a year's absence, long excursion trips on the Mississippi river are available again this summer to those with a yen for steamboating.

The packet Gordon C. Greene, moved here from the Ohio river and a home base at Cincinnati, takes the place of St. Louis' last packet, the Golden Eagle, which sank in the Mississippi in the spring of 1947. On the Greene's itinerary this summer are three-day trips to Hannibal, Mo., and Cairo, Ill.; 10-day journeys to St. Paul, Minn., and Chattanooga, Tenn., by way of the Tennessee river, and week-long trips to Shiloh Battlefield, Tenn., and Muscle Shoals, Ala.

The boat is a steam-powered sternwheeler with sleeping accommodations for 175 passengers.

U.S. PAYS OFF ON MULE KICK

Birmingham, Ala. (AP)—It took 31 years for William Reese to get even with that mule. Reese was informed that President Truman has signed a bill which will give him $3,500 for injuries received when kicked by the mule. Reese and the mule were both serving in the U. S. army when the kicking took place.
