Caravan Seeks Voter Registration

Part of the good-citizen caravan touring Oregon in the interest of increased voter registration visited Bend last night, made tours around town with a sound truck, then left for Eugene this morning. In Eugene, the group will join a unit that went to the Lane county city over the Willamette pass yesterday, following an appearance of both units in Klamath Falls. The tour is listed as "Operation Good Citizenship" and was inaugurated prior to the primary election this year by the Oregon state CIO Political Action committee. "It is the conviction of the Oregon State CIO Political Action committee that in order to have good government, all persons must assume and fulfill their responsibilities as citizens by registering to vote and voting in every election," the leaders declared. The committee reports that its work last spring resulted in an increase of about 20,000 in registrations throughout the state. From Eugene today, the group will return to Portland, for a seven-day program in Multnomah county designed to call attention of the people to the fact that in order to vote every eligible person must register by October 2. The caravan went down the Oregon coast, crossed to Roseburg and Klamath Falls, then divided at the Willamette junction yesterday. Various appearances in Lane and Linn counties have been arranged, with Salem and Oregon City also stopping points on the return to Portland.

Sponsoring organizations of the caravan are the regional office of the CIO, Oregon State CIO Political Action committee, International Longshoremen and Warehousemen's union CIO, joint maritime strike committee, International Woodworkers of America CIO, Textile Workers Union of America CIO, Cannery Workers Union IWA-CIO, United Furniture Workers of America CIO, United Construction Workers of America CIO, and United Steelworkers of America CIO.

Science at Work

By Paul F. Ellis (United Press Science Writer) New York, Sept. 24 — The development of a new heart testing machine—a delicate instrument that employs the use of atomic energy—was announced today.

The machine records the flow of a radioactive substance as it passes through the human heart. A group of scientists from Cedars of Lebanon hospital, Los Angeles, reported that more than 250 patients, or subjects, already had undergone the new type tests without ill effects.

The new device, which probably will be known as the radiocardio-graph machine, should have many clinical applications, according to the California group, headed by Dr. Myron Prinzmetal. It is a Geiger-Muller counter with an ink-writing attachment. The Geiger-Muller counter has long been used to record radiation emitted by radioactive substances. Its new duty in the device is to record radiation from radioactive sodium after it has been injected into the blood.

Recorder Placed on Chest The recorder, however, is placed on the chest directly over the heart. The radioactive sodium is injected into a vein in the arm. The experiments on human beings showed that it requires the radioactive material only a second to reach the right side of the heart. It causes a horizontal line on the graph to leap upward, and then descend as the radioactive substance is expelled from the pulmonary circulation and enters the left side of the heart.

In a normal heart, two distinct peaks can be seen on the graph. The lines, however, remain almost horizontal when there is evidence of certain types of heart disease, including enlargement of the heart. Dr. Prinzmetal, who reported the development of the magazine Science, publication of the American association for the advancement of science, said that the new technique may have application in the diagnosis of congenital heart disease.

Bulgaria Accused Of Violations

Washington, Sept. 24 (AP)—The United States today accused Bulgaria of violating its peace treaty by subjecting its people to "imprisonment, torture and execution."

For this reason, the state department said, the soviet satellite nation is not "qualified" for membership in the United Nations.

In an unusually blunt note, this government said Bulgaria had tortured, executed and banished to concentration camps "substantial numbers" of Bulgarians whose only crime was "a belief in the rights of man."

The note was delivered to Bulgarian foreign minister Vasil Petkov Kolarov in Sofia yesterday by American minister Donald R. Heath.

The note said that the Bulgarian government had "obliterated" all newspapers opposed to it and had stifled free speech. The soviet satellite also has abused its police powers and subverted the courts.
