

Morse to Seek Anti-Filibuster Bill in Senate

Washington, Dec. 27 (AP)—Sen. Wayne L. Morse, R., Ore., says he plans to introduce anti-filibuster legislation immediately after the new senate convenes Jan. 2.

He said his bill would change senate rules to make the filing of a cloture petition—limitation of debate—applicable to all business of the senate. He said a "small group" of men take advantage of present rules to talk vital legislation to death.

At present, cloture can be invoked only against legislation itself and not against the proposal to take it up. Southern senators have used this device to prevent most civil rights legislation from reaching the senate floor.

Morse said on a broadcast (WPIK, Alexandria, Va.) that under his bill a motion for cloture could be filed by a majority vote.

Two-Hour Limit

"But after it was filed," he added, "it would be necessary to give each senator a two-hour period, if he wanted to use it, to debate the merits of any particular issue involved under the limitation rule."

He said that would guarantee any minority time to make its case "on the merits of an issue" and also guarantee to the people "time to make their wishes known to the congress."

He noted that "a small group of men" blocked national security legislation in the last session of congress. He referred to the filibuster by Sens. Glen H. Taylor, D., Ind., and William H. Langer, R., N. D., against the draft bill.

Morse said his bill would prevent such moves as well as any effort to talk down civil rights legislation, "or any other kind of legislation that a majority of the senate believes to be in the public interest."

"I think a change in the rules of the senate so as to prevent a filibuster is essential if we are going to put into practice in our democratic form of government the principle of majority rule."

Snow Storm Builds Igloo in New York

Leo Feurerisen of Kew Gardens, N. Y., fights his way through a waist-deep snow drift towards the igloo-shaped mound that must be his car. Yessir, it is his car, but a little obscured by a 20-inch snowfall, third worst in New York's history. Workers labored all night to clear snow off the streets, unsurfaced transportation.

School Election Ruled Invalid

Madras, Dec. 27 (Special)—After conferring by telephone with John W. Shuler, Portland attorney and authority on school bonds and elections, Wayne Foster, Jefferson county school superintendent, announced Friday that the consolidation of school district No. 9 with district No. 35 and district No. 43, approved by voters in the three districts March 6, is invalid.

The entire consolidation proceeding must be repeated, Foster said. Petitions calling for an election on the proposal were being distributed Friday.

Because the consolidation is invalid, a bond issue approved by the voters to raise $175,000 for additions to the district No. 9 building is also invalid, Foster explained.

The reason for the invalidity of the consolidation is that the county boundary board, in calling the election, did not allow sufficient time between the publication of the election notice and the time of the election, Shuler ruled.

The law requires that in districts such as No. 35 that the notice of the election be posted at the school, posing another technical problem in repeating the consolidation proceedings. After the March 6 vote the schoolhouse in district No. 35 was moved to Madras, leaving the district without a school building on which to post the notice of the repeat election.

Boggie Spends Christmas at Lebanon Home

Lebanon, Dec. 27 (AP)—Clarence Boggie, given a Christmas eve pardon by Gov. Mon C. Wallgren of Washington after Boggie served 13 years for a murder he said he didn't commit, spent the holidays with his aged parents and said, "I'm very grateful."

A chance that Oregon authorities might compel Boggie to complete an unfinished term for robbery was quashed, Boggie said he was informed his sentence expired in 1934.

Gov. John H. Hall of Oregon ordered parole officers not to arrest the pardoned man who spent Christmas here with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. E. L. Boggie.

Expects to Be Married
Boggie said he expected to be married soon but didn't give a date. He awaited the arrival of his bride to be, Mrs. Beatrice Nichols, widowed school teacher from Barre, Wis., with whom he corresponded while in prison.

"There will be two of us to think it over," he said. Mrs. Nichols was expected to leave Sterling, Colo., today for Lebanon where Boggie received the good wishes of friends and made plans for the wedding.

A last minute crimp in Boggie's hopes for freedom developed when Oregon authorities found his pardon by Gov. Julius Meier had been countermanded by Governor Charles Martin in 1936.

But Parole director Hal M. Randall said Martin's action was out of bounds because it followed the 1934 expiration of Boggie's sentence.

"We're all through with the case," he said.
