

Padres Regain Lead in Pacific Coast League

San Francisco, April 21 (UP)—The San Diego Padres, who swung plenty heavy baseball bats, regained their Pacific Coast league lead last night without even having to lift one.

The Padres were rained out in Seattle and Oakland did their stickwork for them by dumping Hollywood 6-4 to give the Padres a .014 percentage lead over the Stars. Los Angeles also benefited by the night's baseball as they whipped the San Francisco Seals 5-1 while Sacramento was splitting a doubleheader with Portland, winning 3-1 and then losing 4-5. The Angels moved into a fourth place tie with the Solons.

Oaks Get 7 Hits

Oakland made the most of seven hits as they defeated the red hot Hollywood team. A two-run rally in the ninth inning gave the Acorns their winning margin after Hollywood had tied the game with a three-run rally in the sixth highlighted by Frank Kelleher's home run. Ralph Buxton, who came to the aid of Matt Zidich in the sixth, turned in another fine relief performance and got credit for the win.

It was a rookie night in San Francisco as 23-year-old Don Watkins made his first Pacific Coast league start and held the San Francisco Seals to four hits. He walked no Seal batters and had a shutout until the ninth inning. Another youngster, second baseman Wayne Terwilliger, 22, provided Watkins with plenty of margin as he slammed out a home run, a double and a single and scored three times.

First Triple Play

The Seals turned in the year's first triple play in the ninth inning, but it was a losing cause. Lefty Al Lien was the victim of the hit Angel attack.

Portland and Sacramento got through a slow doubleheader by playing only 15 innings of baseball. The first game was a seven inning affair and the second was called at the end of the eighth because of the time limit. Don Johnson, Sacramento's ex-Yankee righthander, held Portland to three hits in the opener. The Solons got only four hits off Jake Mooty and Bill Fleming, including a homer by Jim Tabor.

In the second game Portland grabbed four runs in the second inning, saw the game tied in the fourth and then scored the winning tally in the sixth. Joe Marty homered for Sacramento.

New York, April 21 (UP)—Loquacious Leo Durocher, alias The Lip, predicted today that if the Brooklyn team he once directed could keep hitting just like it did to start the season it would have no trouble winning the National league pennant.

"But it won't," the New York Giant plot declared, as he sat in the dugout flanked by Coaches Frankie Frisch and Freddie Fitzsimmons and watched the Dodgers go through a hitting drill.

"They aren't going to keep hitting that way," Leo growled.

Frisch nodded in agreement but cautioned the boss that "they have a lot of speed."

Can't Steal First

"Yeah, but you can't steal first base," Durocher grunted.

The Dodgers were grouped around the batting cage and Pee-Wee Reese and Carl Furillo of the Dodgers yelled at their former boss that he was in for a trimming.

Spider Jorgensen, the Dodgers' reserve third baseman, a skinnier man whose flannels flap around him, had stepped in the cage and Frisch greeted him with a booming:

"Hey, what's a matter, don't you guys get any meal money?"

Leo let go a hard chuckle and pointed to Cal Abrams stepping into the cage.

"Watch him try to pull the ball," he said. "And he can't do it. He'll never be able to do it. And those guys ruin him trying to get him to do it."

Then it was Duke Snider's turn in the cage and the Giant bench watched the Dodger youngster carefully. Snider, a burly lad with a loose swing is addicted to taking a cut at bad pitches.

"He'll strike out a lot," somebody said.

"Yeah," snapped Durocher, "but he'll hit a lot of them, too. He can send it out there, don't forget it!"

Gives Advice

Durocher hopped down the bench a ways to sit with Sheldon (Available) Jones, his starting pitcher. They sat there, with their heads close together, as Durocher gave him tips on each Brooklyn hitter to step into the cage.

Montie Kennedy, the lean southpaw pitcher for the Giants, was warming up in front of the dugout with Fitzsimmons calling advice. Sid Gordon, the chunky third baseman, sat on the bench watching.

"Look at that Kennedy," he grinned. "He's as loose as a snake."

The sportswriters cornered Durocher now and were kidding him that this Dodger team, favored to be in the thick of the pennant fight, was the same club with which he started the season last year.

"Why didn't you keep all those guys out there now?" somebody asked. "Say, for instance, Roy Campanella?"

The truth is that the negro catcher was sent to St. Paul last season, on Branch Rickey's orders, to break the color line in the American association.

That case alone was proof that Leo wasn't the "boss" at Brooklyn. There's a suspicion he isn't at the Polo grounds, either.

WEATHER LESSON LEARNED
San Diego (UP)—The San Diego Gas and Electric Co. expects to spend almost $16,000,000 during 1949 to expand its facilities and prevent another gas shortage such as resulted in this winter's unprecedented cold spell.

BURGLAR GETS PENNIES
Quincy, Mass. (UP)—A burglar who broke into the home of the Rev. Sidney W. Powell, pastor of Boston's Tremont temple, escaped with four souvenir pennies.

Dr. Robert F. Hyland examined the Cleveland pitcher's ailing shoulder yesterday and then ordered the rest. The physician admitted, however, that it still is too early to decide whether the injury is of a permanent nature.
