ELIMINATE THE ROUGH STUFF
Suggestion by Principal R. E. Jewell that Thursday's "rough stuff" initiation of high school boys into the letter club will probably be the last of its kind should meet general approval.

Something of the kind took place some years back when one of the paddle swingers in such an initiation decided that if the flat of the paddle was good, the edge of it would be that much better.

Thursday there was, again, too lusty paddle swinging. This, as is ordinarily the case, apparently took place in private. There were foot injuries resulting from some of the downtown funny business.

It is as well. Certainly such grotesque ceremonies have outlived their usefulness if, indeed, there ever were any. College "traditional" observances from which the "rough stuff" high school initiations have been copied, are to a large extent discontinued.

As we said to begin with, the clowning is probably all right. A considerable number of human beings seem to enjoy it, no matter how much out of keeping it may be.
