

Russian People Given Odd Idea Of Life in U. S.

By Edward V. Roberts
(United Press Staff Correspondent)

Washington, Oct. 17 (UP)—Ivan Q. Public, the Russian man-in-the-street, is getting a pretty grim picture of the United States these days.

Moscow radio is telling him in effect, "If you think things are tough, comrade, you should see how it is in America."

With his newspapers censored and the "Voice of America" broadcasts effectively jammed, there is no one to tell Ivan any different.

Listen to one, Comrade Korionov, in a recent lecture broadcast by the soviet home service, Russia's No. 1 radio program:

"In our time, the clearest example of parasitic, rotting capitalism is the United States."

Comrade K., a recognized authority—soviet brand—on the United States, was addressing a cultural group known as "The All-Union Society for the Dissemination of Political and Scientific Knowledge." His survey of things American is typical of what Ivan hears about this country every day.

Highlights Given
Here are a few highlights from it:

1. The U.S. is run by a handful of big business magnates who also dominate hundreds of millions of people in other parts of the world. "Considering America their own property, the monopolists plunder its national wealth and doom the masses to poverty and complete lack of justice."
2. During all economic crises, "when millions are doomed to hunger and poverty," these monopolists order "destruction of foodstuffs to save their profits. Tens of thousands of gallons of milk are poured into rivers, thousands of tons of grain and coffee are used to stoke ships and locomotives, thousands of acres of crops are destroyed."
3. Industrial development in the U.S. is slumping while Russia's increase, "as is well known." The U.S. worker has a full-time job only in wartime "when Wall Street reaps huge profits from blood and suffering."
4. This, naturally, has brought tremendous unemployment. Six million are out of work, and 13,000,000 work only a few hours per week.
5. "Parasitic classes," like the police and the army, are growing, and they are corrupt and demoralized—so much so that even the capitalist-controlled press "reports scandalous instances."

The press and movies play a "shameful role" in the "moral corruption of U.S. people." Hollywood films "praise depravity, advertise violence and murder. It is sufficient to quote the titles—'The Male and the Female,' 'The Hell Cat,' 'Pink Undies,' 'The She Devil.'"

LAST RITES HELD
Graveside services were held at 11 a.m. today in Greenwood cemetery for Richard Ernest Schaub, infant son of Mr. and Mrs. Walter H. Schaub, 1052 Newport. The baby was born Oct. 9 and died Oct. 15. Rev. L. D. Dixon, Episcopal clergyman from Prineville, officiated at the graveside rites.

Truman Looms as Candidate In 1952; Strategy Outlined

By Lyle Wilson
(United Press Staff Correspondent)

Washington, Oct. 17 (UP)—Every day and in every way President Truman looks more like a confident candidate to succeed himself in 1952.

The present frantic windup of congress in a scramble for the farm vote is one of the factors influencing the judgment of political observers on that. Mr. Truman's overall political strategy for the 1950 congressional elections has formed a pattern. The same strategy will be followed if he again is a candidate for president.

It is to break forever the clutch of the solid south on the democratic party and to make a farmer-labor coalition the party's future foundation. That strategy includes holding the Negro and left wing vote to the democratic party—the left wingers, that is, outside the communists.

Republicans are congratulating themselves as congress nears adjournment that with the help of conservative democrats they rejected or basically modified a lot of Mr. Truman's domestic program.

While their spokesmen point to these achievements in a democratic congress over a democratic president, republicans are uneasy in their minds. They know that the political strategy Mr. Truman has been following is very like the late FDR's triumphant politics.

Assuming that business and employment continue at a high level, just about the only question regarding the likelihood of Mr. Truman running again for president is his age. He would be 68 years old on Jan. 20, 1953.

The farm vote scramble split both parties wide open. But Mr. Truman and Vice-president Alben W. Barkley are for the house bill and against the senate bill, which was sponsored by Sen. Clinton P. Anderson, D., N.M., who used to be Mr. Truman's secretary of agriculture.

Chairman Elmer Thomas, D., Okla., of the senate agriculture committee, contributed some interesting figures to the farm bill debate. He said the rigid high price guarantees of the house bill would give farmers a 1951 take of $21,000,000,000 for all crops. He said the senate bill would give them only $14,000,000,000. Thomas is for the house bill.

2 Oregon Youths Will Face Charges

Scottsbluff, Neb., Oct. 17 (UP)—A three-state search for two 16-year-old Oregon youths ended with their capture here yesterday.

Jack Cornelius and Robert Proctor, both of Tillamook, Ore., were caught after western Nebraska authorities had searched for them since Friday.

They arrived from Tillamook Friday with two 14-year-old girls in a pickup truck listed as a stolen vehicle. When relatives of the girls heard about the truck, the boys fled to Sidney where they abandoned the truck and allegedly stole another car.

They were caught yesterday as they attempted to go through here. Officials said they probably would be sent back to Sidney to face auto theft charges.

Sigmund Engel Out on Bail, Sets Up New Office

Chicago, Oct. 17 (UP)—Sigmund Engel, admitted swindler who says the way to a woman's money is through her heart, kissed his "one and only true love" goodbye today and headed for the office like any ordinary businessman.

Engel, who claims to have made $2,000,000 during five decades as a ladies' con man, said he was out to make another million—this time, by writing movies, plays, articles and stories about his career.

He rented an office on LaSalle street, amidst brokerages and banks, as his base of operations.

The 73-year-old lover boy found it easier to rent the office than to find a hideaway apartment for a second honeymoon with Mrs. Pauline Langton Engel of New York.

Just in the nick of time, however, he rented a kitchenette in a south side hotel before her arrival by plane with Antoine, a silver-blue French poodle, Saturday.

All is Forgiven

Mrs. Engel once charged that he took off with $50,000 of her jewelry following their marriage last year. But today, she said all that was past and they were ready for a life of bliss.

"They went to a night club Saturday but got to bed early "and spent the whole night talking."

"We didn't get to sleep until 6 a.m.," he said. "She's the most wonderful wife in the world."

As she straightened out his tie and sent him off to work, Mrs. Engel said "we're divinely happy."

"Sam (his nickname) is feeling so much better out of jail and is getting back his health," she said.

"Also his vim and vigor."

Engel, however, complained of catching a cold over the week end.

He also was somewhat unhappy because his lawyer, Charles Jones—who has $37,600 invested in him in the way of bonds—dropped around at 8 a.m. yesterday to make sure Engel was still in town. Jones and his father put up the money last week to get Engel out of jail.

Dog Eats Steaks

The white-haired Engel and his wife took "a beautiful walk" along Lake Michigan and Antoine, for whom he buys $6 steaks, accompanied them.

Engel said that offers to buy his writings have been pouring in and that some of his manuscripts already are completed.

California Pension Setup Due for Test in November

By Thomas Goff
(United Press Staff Correspondent)

Sacramento, Calif., Oct. 17 (UP)—California's new pension plan for about 700,000 state employees is set for a test in November.

The golden state, which originated "harm 'n eggs" and "thirty dollars every Thursday," was split over whether to repeal a pension plan passed a year ago.

State legislative auditor Roland Vandegrift said the state will go $75,000,000 into the red next year unless the voters repeal the plan at the Nov. 8 election.

To begin with, the plan made pensions a first lien on state funds. That means the state can't pay any bills unless the aged and the blind are cared for first.

The plan raised monthly pension payments by $10 to $75 for the aged and $85 for the blind. It lowered the age requirements from 65 to 63. Children, even though able to do so, no longer had to support their needy parents. The entire pension cost was transferred from the counties to the state.

Opponents charge the plan will bankrupt the state. They say McLain is politically ambitious and that Mrs. Williams fronts for him.

There is no question but that McLain could be in a position of political importance. Already, some have predicted he will be a leading candidate for governor in 1954 with a solid bloc of 250,000 pensioners behind him.

Quail Bag Limit Increased to 8

Portland, Oct. 17 (UP)—The Oregon state game commission has increased the bag limit on valley quail from five to eight a day. C. A. Lockwood, state game director, announced today.

Lockwood said the commission Saturday agreed to a recommendation to increase the limit for the season opening Friday, Oct. 21, to eight a day and not more than 24 in possession in the entire season. The limit formerly was five a day and not more than 15 in possession.

The commission also opened Klamath county and that portion of Lake county lying west of U. S. highway 395 and north of Valley Falls to quail shooting. Open area for valley quail hunting lies in counties east of the Cascade mountains and in Jackson and Josephine counties in southern Oregon.
