

Burgess Defends Disputed Text

Portland, Oct. 27 (AP)—James H. Burgess, a member of the Oregon textbook commission, today described Texans as "notoriously hotheaded" and defended Dr. Frank A. Magruder's civics text book banned by the Houston school board.

Magruder is a retired Oregon State college political science professor. His book "American Government," was banned in Houston because the old editions in use in Houston included a paragraph mentioning communism.

"The book only states the facts—unpleasant ones—and it should be supplemented with a course studying communism," said Burgess. "The way to abolish communism fastest would be to put a course in the high school teaching it."

The Portland Oregonian today editorially referred to the Houston school board as "dumb" and said its action in banning the book showed that "stupidity can go no further."

"That's the payoff," said the newspaper.

Magruder said he had "no interest in communism."

"All my books are opposed to revolution. I even think our own revolution never accomplished much. I have never voted for socialism or communism," Magruder said.

General Lee's Letter Humorous

New York (AP)—Gen. Robert E. Lee had a sense of humor, sometimes overlooked in the usually austere accounts of the great general. In a letter to his nephew Fitzhugh Lee, written less than a month before he died, the general refers to a large dog which his nephew is about to send him:

"Lexington, Va., 19 Sept., 1870.

"Your letter on the dog question has been unavoidably delayed. I thank you very sincerely for recollecting my wishes on the subject and your steps to comply with them.

"First I must inform you that it is not my purpose to put my dog to towing canal boats or hauling dirt carts, but want him to play the part of a friend and protector. His disposition is therefore of vital importance. He ought not to be too old to contract a friendship for me—neither is his size so important to me as a perfect form. In the second place, I am promised by our connection, Genl. Bier of Md., a St. Bernard and Newfoundland puppy which I have been expecting for some weeks. He can come from Goshen in the stage, but can your mammoth dog be accommodated? His plan would be to go to Lynchburg on the cars Monday, Wednesday or Friday, and take the packet boat that night and reach here the following morning. The expressman must request the captain in my name to take charge of him.

"Now having the whole ground before you, you have full authority to act as judge for me in the matter. I shall be very glad to get the dog and hope that he may reach me safely. Either draw upon me through Mr. Burke and the Bank of Lexington for the price of the dog and transportation or let me know the amount and I will remit it to you."

The letter is in the Stanley F. Horn collection and will be published in full for the first time on Oct. 21 in "The Robert E. Lee Reader," edited by Horn (Bobbs-Merrill).

by Mrs. Glen Shortreed, Mrs. Dale Campbell and Mrs. Herb Lawson.

Frank Von Borstel of Grass Valley visited with Mr. and Mrs. Robert Rohde Monday.

BRING 'ER DOWN!
Moultrie, Ga., Oct. 27 (AP)—Officials of radio station WMGA wondered how a Berlin, Ga., painter could make such a low bid on painting their 336-foot antenna tower, but they gave him the job. Yesterday they learned his secret. They found him loafing around instead of working and asked him if he wasn't ready to start. "Yep, but you're not," he answered. "You haven't taken the tower down for me."
