Many Library of Congress Books Are Not Returned

By Frank Eleazer
 (United Press Staff Correspondent)
 Washington (U) — An only slightly abashed public official dumped on the Library of Congress counter a book he had borrowed in 1934.

The librarian who restored it to its place among 8,689,638 other volumes presumably had her own thoughts on the quality and speed of the official's reading.

However, she is said to have suppressed a polite yawn and then to have checked off the volume on records that had carried it year after year as "out on loan."

Public libraries fine readers who keep books out too long. The Library of Congress, which lends to lawmakers and some government officials, just smiles at its slow readers, and says "please."

After all, congress often does the same.

Just Overdue
 "We almost never consider a book lost," said one library official. "We just call it overdue."

Daniel Webster went to congress in 1813. Sometime thereafter he lugged home the library's copy of the proceedings of the 1787 convention at which the constitution was drafted.

One of his heirs returned it, about 10 years ago.

Webster was neither the first nor last congressman to exceed the 30-day limit on borrowings, but he holds the record for tardiness. Most lawmakers say assistant librarian David Means, are "meticulous" about observing the limit.

Means is reluctant to say much about those who aren't. It is a fact, however, that many a ta, Vermont and Washington. One state, Arkansas, cut its tax, from 6 to 4 cents per package.

Massachusetts, Minnesota and North Dakota as well as the District of Columbia raised rates on distilled spirits, beer and wine. Arkansas, Florida, Georgia, Oregon and Vermont revised their wine levies upward, and Georgia and Vermont also raised beer taxes.

Kansas, which repealed its constitutional prohibition on the sale and manufacture of liquor last year, imposed an alcoholic beverage excise for the first time.

Three states and the District of Columbia levied no new taxes. Florida imposed a sales tax, Delaware adopted a cigaret tax, Kansas entered the liquor field, and Washington, D.C., taxed sales and cigarets.

Eight states raised income taxes, 16 boosted motor fuel taxes, four increased their sales taxes, four hiked taxes on distilled spirits, and 10 raised tobacco taxes.

States raising income tax rates were California, Delaware, Georgia, Massachusetts, Minnesota, New York, Vermont and Wisconsin. But in a reversal of the trend, Maryland cut its income tax from 2.5 to 2 per cent.

Increases in state gasoline tax rates ranged from one-half to two cents per gallon. The states which imposed the increases were Nevada, Vermont, Delaware, Georgia, Kansas, Minnesota, Montana, Nebraska, North Carolina, Oklahoma, Oregon, Pennsylvania, Missouri, New Mexico, North Dakota and North Carolina.

Sales tax rates were raised in South Dakota, Indiana, Connecticut and California.

Cigaret tax rates were increased in Florida, Massachusetts, Minnesota, Nevada, New Mexico, Wisconsin, Georgia, North Dako-

Violence Flares In Mine Region

Canon City, Colo., Jan. 21 (U) — Miners who rebelled against the United Mine Workers and formed a new union were attacked today as they crossed a picket line en route to work.

One of the group who crossed the line said a barrage of rocks was thrown at the trucks in which the men were riding and that one of the latter, a 28-year-old Canon City man, was injured seriously.

The secretary-treasurer of the newly-formed coal miners of the Rocky Mountain Empire, Inc., Thomas Sheinut, identified the miner as John Moscott. He said Moscott was hit in the melee and that he believed his injuries were serious.

The attack, Sheinut said, occurred six and one-half miles south of Florence, Colo., in the south Fremont county fields. A picket line of United Mine Workers members had been established there several weeks ago in an effort to secure contracts with a number of small independent mine operators.

Formation of the new union was disclosed yesterday. Officials of the new group said they were dissatisfied with UMW policies.

"It looks pretty rough," Sheinut said today, "but we're going to continue going up there and they can't stop us."

His organization, he said, has signed a contract with the W. D. Corley Coal Co. mine in the field. The contract contains similar provisions to UMW agreements, but by-laws of the new union provide that walkouts shall be called only upon a vote of the membership.

VOTE SUNDAY
 Pittsburgh, Jan. 21 (U) — United Mine Workers throughout Pennsylvania and West Virginia will vote today and tomorrow on whether to continue their "rebellion" or heed John L. Lewis' order to return to work Monday.

The miners will decide either to return to a three-day work week or maintain their "no contract-no work" policy which idled 89,000 soft coal miners in six states.

John P. Busarello, president of UMW district 5 sent more than a score of lieutenants into the fields to ask the miners to obey Lewis.

"I'm quite confident," Busarello said, "that a large majority of the men in my district will resume work Monday on a three-day schedule."

Busarello said he has instructed the 28,000 miners in his district to disregard any pickets which might be sent into his area from district 4 around Uniontown, Pa., where the "revolt" against Lewis apparently is centered.

A new outbreak of violence was reported yesterday at Kittanning, Pa., where 300 roving pickets attacked a five-truck coal convoy.

August Truskell, 62, one of the pickets, was wounded in the leg when one of the truck drivers opened fire with a pistol.

At Wellsburg, W. Va., Circuit Judge J. P. O'Brien sentenced three United Mine Workers to nine months in jail and fined them $1,000 for violating an injunction against interference with the operations of the Colliers, W. Va., mine of Pittsburgh & West Virginia Coal Co.

Charles Eno, president of the Colliers UMW local, and two members, William Fillingim and Paul Murphy, were accused of trespassing on the company's property Jan. 9 and threatening miners in violation of an injunction issued last Dec. 23 by Judge O'Brien.

Pig's Foot Bandit Baffles Police
 Atlanta (U) — Among the unsolved cases in police files here is "The Case of the Pig's Foot Bandit."

A Negro walked into the restaurant operated by Judge Martin, displayed a pistol and demanded:

"Gimme a pickled pig's foot." Martin obliged and the bandit walked out munching the porcine delicacy.

Martin listed his loss at 15 cents.

SERVICE RESTORED
 Portland, Jan. 21 (U) — Bonneville power administration today said electric service to St. Johns and Oregon City had been restored after a falling tree had cut a transmission line.

Service was also restored to the Rainier area, Warren and the Cowitz county peoples utility district in the Longview-Keilo, Wash., vicinity.

A 230-KVA circuit from North Bonneville to Troutdale went out at 2:15 p.m. yesterday after it pulled an insulator loose and dragged a ground wire into the circuit. Partial service to the Troutdale, Ore., aluminum plant was restored through an alternate line.

Cows Give Farmer Bad Time on Trip To Alaska Farm

By John J. Ryan
 (United Press Staff Correspondent)
 Palmer, Alaska (U) — Art Holbrook, farmer, vows he is going to bring cows into Alaska from the States this year by plane instead of by truck.

"It'll be expensive," he said, "but I believe it will be a more comfortable arrangement for both the cows and me."

Holbrook, 41-year-old dairy farm owner, and his son, Leon, 20, left here last summer on a truck trip to the States. They were going to show Matanuska valley skeptics that the cheapest and best way to get new stock was to drive outside and haul them back.

"We left Wisconsin August 12 with five tons of three-year-old Holsteins aboard," he said. "We figured on a week's trip home, but it took 47 days, and those eight cows gave me more trouble than I've had in 20 years of farming."

Holbrook said he nearly lost the whole herd in Slave Lake, Alberta. When he let them out to graze, they streaked down the highway at a fast trot, apparently heading back to Wisconsin.

"The whole town turned out to help us round them up," he recalled.

About 150 miles north of Dawson creek, Holbrook burned out his truck engine. He was forced to wait in a Canadian road camp for more than a week until motor parts could be shipped in from Whitehorse, Y.T.

Cows Get Used to It
 "The cows became resigned to life in a truck," he said. "When we lowered the tail-gate ramp in the morning, they would walk out, graze until evening, then climb back in the truck just like it was their barn."

Seventeen days after leaving Wisconsin, the cows arrived at the Holbrook farm here, in excellent health. But they were very ill-tempered the last few days of the trip. Holbrook said they were butting each other and eyeing him with open hostility.

"But you'd be mean, too, after riding 4,100 bumpy miles standing up," he said.

Holbrook conceded that he made a big mistake in "drying up" the cows for the trip.

Offer $1 a Quart
 "When people along the highway saw those cows, they offered me a dollar a quart for milk," he said. "I could have made expenses milking them on the trip."

Three years ago Holbrook escorted six cows from the state of Washington to his farm via steamer and the Alaska railroad. But each cow cost him a total of $370, set down on the farm.

"Furthermore, they ain't got stock, and I couldn't stand to listen to that groaning again," he said.

Totalling up the expenses of his truck trip, Holbrook discovered that the eight Holsteins cost him a total of $450 per head, including purchase price.

Aged Couple Have Romance
 Spindale, N.C. (U) — Mrs. Willie Cornelia Gibson, 79, and Jefferson David Queen, 86, met on a Monday and Tuesday night a week later they were married.

It was the sixth marriage for the bride and the third for the bridegroom.

"I understood that Mr. Queen was looking for a cook, so I came up to see him and just stayed," explained the new Mrs. Queen blushing.

Finland Rejects Russian Charges

Helsinki, Finland, Jan. 21 (U) — Finland today unconditionally rejected a Soviet charge that it is hiding 300 Russian war criminals.

The Finnish reply to Russia's Dec. 31 memorandum demanding custody of the alleged criminals was delivered to the Kremlin.

It said four persons had been arrested as a result of the Soviet note, but added that none of them is a Soviet citizen. Their hearings have not been completed and their innocence or guilt has not been determined, the Finnish note said.

"The Finnish government unconditionally rejects the charge that Finnish authorities are supplying said criminals with false documents," the note said.
