Game District Headquarters Set For Bend Tuesday

The Oregon state game commission officially will activate its new central Oregon game district with administrative headquarters in Bend on Tuesday, April 4, 1950. Staff members from the Portland headquarters and game commissioner Loyde Blakely will meet with the district personnel for the opening of the Bend headquarters office.

The state has been divided into five natural regions for managing the wildlife resource, according to Charles Lockwood, state game director. The administrative headquarters for each of these districts will provide a local point of public service and action for the game commission. The central game district is the second to be established in the state, headquarters for northeastern Oregon having recently been opened at La Grande.

Mathison Supervisor
Supervisor for the central game district is Len Mathison. Bob Borovicka heads the fisheries operations and Paul Bonn game operations. Fishway and screen installations in the area will be maintained by Fred Ramsey. Two other field agents will also be assigned to the district, Paul Ebert stationed at The Dalles and Kenneth Cochran at Klamath Falls.

Geographically, the central game district is composed of the Deschutes and Crooked river drainages and the Klamath basin. This would include Hood River, Jefferson, Crook, Deschutes, Klamath, and parts of Sherman and Lake counties.

The Bend headquarters office has been established at 222 E. Third street.

Pettit Displays Big League Class

New Orleans, April 3 (AP)—Paul Pettit is beginning to indicate that the Pittsburgh Pirates got a tooth in a big baseball future when they lightened their safe by $100,000 this spring to buy his services.

The big, 18-year-old California left-hander finally warmed up yesterday, and stared with Bob Purkey a 1-0, no-hit New Orleans exhibition win over the Nashville Vols.

Purkey set a high standard in the first four innings. He issued only three scattered walks, and slapped a second inning single that drove in the game's only run. Purkey, who last season pitched for Davenport, Iowa, had a beautiful curve working, and Nashville batters felt more hopeful when fast-ball Pettit came on in the fifth. They shouldn't have.

Poise Praised
It was the third time Pettit had appeared in a professional baseball game. In his first start for New Orleans on March 25, against Indianapolis, he dished out one run, four hits and three bases on balls in three innings. The Pirates gulped, and praised his "poise."

Last week against Atlanta, Pettit in three innings allowed three hits and two bases on balls. But he struck out three and gave no runs. Yesterday the weather was neither too hot (his first exhibition worry) nor too cold (his second complaint) and powerful Paul started whipping them in. Through the fifth, sixth and seventh innings "Nashville" batters could perceive nothing at all to be hopeful about.

Then in the eighth, Pettit walked two men. He got one out, but had runners advanced to second and third. Pettit heaved a neat double play ball, saw his infield carry the twin kill out, and walked peacefully to the dugout.

Young Australian Sets Swim Mark

New Haven, Conn., April 3 (AP)—Yale freshman John Marshall was hailed by his coach today as "the greatest swimmer of the present day," and a legion of experts were ready to agree.

Marshall, a clean-cut, shy 20-year-old star from Perth, Australia, won the 1500-meter, 220-yard and 440-yard freestyle championships on successive nights in the national AAT swimming meet at Yale's Payne Whitney 25-yard Olympic pool.

The indoor triple had been accomplished five times before, but never in Marshall's devastating manner. The modest youngster from down under established a meet record of 18:37.0 for 1500 meters, then set world records of 2:05.5 for 220 yards, 2:04.0 for 200 meters, 4:31.2 for 440 yards and 4:25.3 for 400 meters.

Marshall's record jambooree gave the team championship to the Yale freshmen an unprecedented feat in itself.

Hollywood, Los Angeles Tied For First Place, After Week Of Coast League Competition

By Jim Cooper

San Francisco, April 3 (AP)—It was a worrisome week in the Pacific Coast league. First, everyone but the batboy was hitting and then no one could.

Rules about balks and bonuses brought frowns and to further the confusion, last year's champions, the Hollywood Stars, and cellar-gang Los Angeles were tied for top space, each winning five and losing two.

Hollywood divided Sunday's double-header with Portland, winning the opener, 8 to 7, but dropping the nightcap, 3 to 4, while the Angies won both their tilts with Sacramento, 4 to 3 and 6 to 4.

Series Split
Meanwhile Seattle and San Diego settled for a split on their series with Oakland and San Francisco respectively, with the Rainiers and the Padres taking four of the seven contests.

Seattle defeated the Acorns Sunday in the first game, 12 to 9, and dropped the second, 2 to 4. The Seals lost to San Diego, 5 to 6, in the first game, winning the second, 7 to 3.

Outfielder Luis Marques and Mickey Rocco banged homers for Portland in their top game with Hollywood's "whistle-boys" who were, for the second day, garbed in their revolutionary above-the-knee shorts. Marques starred again in the second with an inspired catch of Mike Sandlock's 290-foot hit. The Beavers took that one, but dropped the first.

Max West slammed a two-run homer in the last of the 11th inning to bring his San Diego teammates from behind and give them their victory over the Seals. Al Lien went the full distance and won for the Seals in the final.

Homer Ties Score
At Oakland, the Acorns went into the ninth inning of the first game four runs behind Seattle. They added one marker and then outfielder Earl Rapp knocked a three-run homer to tie the score. It looked sad for the Suds, but Ralph Atkins came through with a three-base hit with the bases loaded in the tenth and gave his team the victory. George Bamberger, fresh to the Oaks from the New York Giants, pitched the winning second game.

The Angels took both their games, first behind Frank Marino who relieved Bob Munier in the fifth inning when the Solons had taken a three-run lead. In the second game, Red Barrett got the winning nod for Los Angeles.

Silent Again
That concluded that colossus and McCarthy wasn't heard from again for another 72 hours. Southway Mel Parnell, a 25-game winner last season, was telling a rookie about the high-priced custom-built automobile he purchased over the winter.

Playing Pros Will Gain Point
Chicago, April 3 (AP)—Quick settlement was expected today of the dispute between the Professional Golfers' association and its playing pro-pay tournament of the Rich play-for-pay tournament show.

George Schneider, head of the player group, will confer with PGA executive secretary Tom Crane, president Joe Novak, vice-president Morton Smith, and secretary-treasurer George Moffitt in a closed-door session which probably will be bitter and at times noisy.

But there was no apparent reason why Schneider, representing such top stars as Sam Snead, Ben Hogan, Jimmy Demaret, Lloyd Mangrum, Cary Middlecoff, and Johnny Palmer, could not reach agreement quickly with the PGA brass.

Will Meet Demands
Schneider, head of the PGA tournament bureau, declared that the player group has no "unrevealed" demands. Crane, speaking for the PGA indicated that the organization was willing to grant all the players' wishes through constitutional amendment.

That, Schneider said, would be "perfectly satisfactory," even though such changes would have to wait until the June meeting of the PGA executive committee and could not be effective until approved by the annual December convention.

Schneider refused to comment on the possibility of initiating amendments for greater control of the tournaments at today's meeting, although formation of the players' group was announced Saturday, today's meeting will be the fourth on control of the tournaments.

Earlier, player representatives met Novak and Smith at Los Angeles, Long Beach, and Phoenix. Schneider revealed the players organized before the Phoenix meeting, a session which Crane said led the PGA to believe the players were satisfied with the plan for constitutional amendment.

LEAGUE MEETS TONIGHT
The Isaak Walton league will meet tonight at 8 o'clock at the blue room in the Pilot Butte Inn. During the business meeting members will hear a report from President C. V. Shultz, who recently attended the quarterly meeting of the state division of the Isaak Walton league at Salem.

Three motion pictures on fishing and hunting will also be shown.

Klamath Skier Wins Combined Memorial Races

Jim Penninger of Klamath Falls, member of the Sun Mountain Ski club, was winner of the combined downhill-ski races in the 1950 running of the Jere Gillis Memorial meet for Oregon junior snowmen yesterday at the Hoodoo bowl, on the storm-swept Santiam summit. Despite the storm, that lasted through the day, the meet was held on schedule.

New York, April 3 (AP)—For a life of loneliness and solitude, join the Boston Red Sox. There is little horsplay and no clichés to speak of on the club. Each player does his work with an absolute minimum of managerial guidance. That's the way Joe McCarthy wants it.

"When a player comes up to us, he's generally a big leaguer," McCarthy says. "That kind doesn't need much instruction. They are professionals who know their jobs. All of them know, or should know, that they do the actual playing on the field, not me."

McCarthy's super-silent treatment, of course, is a little rough on rookies who frequently wonder whether anyone knows they are around. During a recent one-week stretch at the club's Sarasota, Fla., training camp, McCarthy made only two brief remarks to players on the field.

Rookie Instructed
He told Pitcher Al Papi to follow through more on throws to first base and instructed rookie catcher Sammy White, since shifted to Roanoke of the Piedmont league, to shift his weight to the front foot when swinging at a pitch.

Birdie Tebbetts, the most gregarious player on the club, watched White line a curve ball to left field and then streak for first base. Attempting to engage McCarthy in conversation, Tebbetts offered:

"I'd like to have the future that kid has, wouldn't you?" McCarthy watched White tour the bases but said nothing. Tebbetts, not easily discouraged, repeated the question.

McCarthy sighed and then said, "Sure I'd like to have that kid's future but not if it meant that I would have to go through all those past years."

Dutch Harrison Wins Tournament
Wilmington, N.C., April 3 (AP)—E. J. (Dutch) Harrison, the oil pro from St. Andrews, Ill., doesn't just swear at a golf ball when it stops behind a tree.

From there, he hops it down 15 feet from the pin and shoots par for the 403-yard hole. That's how Harrison played the last hole of the $10,000 Azalea open tournament yesterday and it was a sample of the fast finish which won him the $2,000 first money.

Harrison shot two birdies on the final nine, one on the 12th and another on the 14th, to break out of a tie with George Fazio of Washington, D.C. Those two holes made the difference. The Illinois veteran won by two strokes, posting a one-under-par 71 for the final round. He finished with a 280 against Fazio's 282, but it was his recovery shot from behind that thrilled the fans.

Cary Middlecoff, U.S. open champion from Memphis, and Joe Kirkwood Jr., of Hollywood, Calif., tied for third with 283's. Kirkwood shot a two-under-par 70 on the final 18, while Middlecoff finished with a par 72.

Western Hoop Team Defeats Eastern Quint

New York, April 3 (AP)—It took a picked squad of timber-toppers from the far west and midwest to end a successful eastern college basketball season on a sour note. With City College of New York still bragging about its unprecedented sweep of the national invitation and the NCAA tournament championships, the west beat the east, 66 to 59, in the New York Herald Tribune's annual all-star game Saturday.

It was the last big collegiate game of the 1949-50 season and the west had little difficulty beating the best players the east could muster.

The east had no talent to match the west's "big four"—all Americans Dick Schnittker of Ohio State and Paul Unruh of Bradley, and two Pacific coast prides, George Stanley of U.C.L.A., and George Schmitter of Stanford.

Schnittker, who earned the cheers of the fans and praise from the sports writers with his play in the eastern NCAA playoffs two weeks ago, scored 10 points in the first 10 minutes of the Madison Square garden contest and was chosen most valuable player in the game.

It was a sweet victory for the west but the east already had locked up the season's major "payoff" honors—the national invitation and NCAA tournament championships.
