Railroad Strike Due Wednesday

Chicago, April 21 (UP)—Two of the nation's four strike-threatened railroad systems planned today to keep their trains running even if firemen walk off the job. Spokesmen for the other two systems threatened with a strike next Wednesday refused to comment.

Officials of the Santa Fe said the big western road "definitely" will try to run trains, probably with supervisory personnel taking the place of striking firemen. Spokesmen for the New York Central and its subsidiaries, the Michigan Central, Ohio Central, and Big Four said they, too, plan to operate despite the strike. But spokesmen for the Pennsylvania and the Southern refused to say whether they would attempt operations.

7 Roads Threatened
The four strike-threatened systems include seven major railroads and many smaller subsidiaries.

The Brotherhood of Locomotive Firemen and Enginemen set the strike deadline to support demands that the railroads assign an extra fireman to each multiple-unit diesel locomotive. No further negotiations have been scheduled in the dispute, but officials of the Michigan Central said they were hoping for a settlement before the deadline at 6 a.m. Wednesday. However, they did not elaborate.

Carl J. Goff, assistant president of the firemen's union, said at Cleveland that even if the roads try to operate "they wouldn't provide five per cent of normal service."

However, Alvanley Johnston, chief of the Brotherhood of Locomotive Engineers, said engineers would stay at the throttle, and could cross firemen's picket lines. He said engineers would work in the cabs alongside supervisory employes as firemen.

The air force recruits are Larry G. Bryan, 1320 Newport street; William Peay, 18, 515 Woodland avenue; and Lowell D. Chamberlain, 19, 144 Scott street. They left yesterday for Lackland air force base at San Antonio, Tex., where they will receive their basic training.

Telephone Co. Still Seeking To Avert Strike

New York, April 21 (UP)—The Bell system, rejecting an arbitration award which the union endorsed, resumed its negotiations today with the Communications Workers of America (CIO) in an effort to head off a nation-wide telephone strike.

Western Electric officials and representatives of the CWA's division 6 met at the Hotel New Yorker with Federal mediation commissioner T. R. Steutel.

J. H. MacKenzie, Western Electric labor relations manager for the installation division, headed the company negotiators. Ernest Weaver, division 6 president, represented the 11,000 installers who have threatened to walk out.

The talks were resumed shortly after another of the Bell system's subsidiaries, the American Telephone & Telegraph Co., rejected a $2.50 wage increase awarded 11,000 New Jersey telephone operators.

CWA leaders, however, regarded the New Jersey state arbitrators board decision as "the first significant break" in the wage dispute.

H. T. Killingsworth, vice-president of the long lines department of the A.T. & T., said the decision "would have no bearing on the bargaining with our union."

The New Jersey Bell Telephone Co. said it would challenge the decision, which was handed down yesterday in Trenton, in court. The company also asked immediately for substantial rate increases to offset the operators' demands, which ranged from 50 cents to $2.50 a week and provided for a union shop.

In Washington, union President Joseph A. Beirne said he hoped the New Jersey award "will get bargaining off dead-center in our other 25 sessions across the country."

The CWA has threatened to call a cross-country strike of 200,000 telephone employes unless a contract settlement is reached by 6 a.m. April 26. That hour is the deadline of a 60-day tract arranged in February by President Truman.

AAUW Group

international affairs in the past 18 months, touching on the Atlantic and Pacific pacts and pointing out that some countries other than the United States have evidenced deep interest in drawing the countries of southeast Asia into closer contact.

The new liberal government in Australia will be as receptive to world government efforts as the former regime, she said. On the other hand, India, while admiring the Pan-American system, wants to keep clear of entanglements. The new countries which have emerged are friendly with the west, but suspicious of hidden motives.

Philippines Concerned
Mentioning the prestige of Carlos P. Romulo in the United Nations, the speaker said that the Philippines are deeply concerned with need for a defense agreement in the Pacific, and that their people are the only colonialists who have stood behind their administrative power.

Summarizing her remarks, the speaker said that there are many ways in which individuals and organizations such as AAUW can work for world peace. One of the most important obligations, she declared, is to take active part in government, by expressing choice in selection of the right kind of official personnel. Individuals on the community level can work through UN in fostering international good will, she said.

She urged her listeners to encourage the press and radio to give wide and impartial coverage, making it easy for readers to distinguish between editorial comment and factual reporting. She advised them, too, to assist in seeing that local libraries have help in getting adequate material on world affairs, and to take active interest in the public school systems, in order that the coming generation may have the best possible background for coping with a complex civilization.

Mrs. Thornton Presides
Mrs. Robert Y. Thornton, Tillamook, state international relations chairman, presided at the luncheon. Vocal numbers were presented by a sophomore girls' trio composed of Marilyn Brown, Christine Ryman and Dorothy Hayes, accompanied by Clara Skjersaa.

Presiding at the opening session this morning was the state president, Mrs. R. E. McCormack, formerly of Bend and now of Corvallis. She introduced Rev. Roy Austin of First Baptist church, who delivered the invocation, and Robert W. Sawyer, publisher of The Bend Bulletin, who extended a welcome to the delegates on behalf of the community.

Sawyer told the women that they are meeting in "the most beautiful city in Oregon," although one of the youngest. He traced the city's rapid growth from the time of central Oregon's first settlement in the 1870's, when a backwash of population from the Willamette valley came over the Cascades and started stock raising operations. Other industries in the community's development which he mentioned were:

Development of irrigation in 1903; visits of railroad survey parties in 1908 and completion of lines of the Till and riariman system into Bend in 1911; construction of the two major pine sawmills in 1915; early development of recreation facilities, 1919-20.

Tonight, delegates will gather for a 10 o'clock banquet at the Lincoln lodge south of Bend. Mrs. C. E. Stranahan, president of the Bend branch, will introduce Miss Orpha Hudson, president of the Klamath Falls branch, who will act as toastmistress.

Principal speaker will be James W. Musington, Bend superintendent of schools, who will have as his subject, "Community Colleges in Oregon." Miss Eleanor Stephens, state librarian and state AAUW historian, will give a history of the Oregon division of the organization.

Mrs. E. M. Bucknum will be presented as vocal soloist, accompanied by Mrs. Craig Coyner.

Breakfast meetings for branch presidents and division past-presidents, and a luncheon at Trinity Episcopal parish hall, where announcement will be made of the awarding of the Mabel Merwin fellowship, will highlight the Saturday program. Adjournment is scheduled for early afternoon.

Branch presidents and division past-presidents will meet for 7:30 breakfasts, in separate dining rooms at the Pine tavern. Mrs. Earl Esselstyn, president of the Pendleton branch, will preside at the branch presidents' session. Mrs. John O. Burcham, of Salem, will preside at the division past-presidents' meeting. Mrs. Burcham was state president in the 1947-49 term.

At 9 a.m., the final convention session will begin in the library auditorium. The proposed AAUW national legislative program will be the theme for the discussion. Miss Beryl Holt, Salem, north Pacific regional fellowship chairman, will preside.

Participating in a panel will be: Miss Joy Hills, Salem, state AAUW education chairman; Mrs. Robert Thornton, Tillamook, state international relations chairman; Mrs. John Kovaly, Forest Grove, Hillsboro branch, state social studies chairman, and Mrs. Carl Brandenfels, St. Helens president, state chairman for status of women.

Final business session will conclude at 10 a.m., with announcement of the meeting place for the next conference and a report of the resolutions committee on the agenda.

Luncheon is scheduled for 1 o'clock, at the Trinity Episcopal parish hall. A program on AAUW fellowships is planned, with Mrs. Donald Densmore, Albany, state fellowship chairman, presiding. Announcement of the Mabel Merwin fellowship will be made.

Musical numbers will include a piano solo by Marian Sill Philip, and a violin solo by Miss Janet Shaffer, accompanied by Mrs. Philip. A skit telling the story of recipients of AAUW international grants will be presented by members of the Eugene, Lakeview, Medford, Portland and Salem branches.

Delegates Entertained
Last night, convention delegates were entertained at an informal coffee at the home of Mrs. Carl Johnson, with Mrs. T. D. Carlson as assistant hostess. Mrs. Eric Johnston, Spokane and Washington, D. C., north Pacific regional vice-president, was a speaker. She sketched highlights of a recent six-week tour of Europe, on which she accompanied her husband, who acts in an advisory capacity to ECA.

On the trip, she had an opportunity to observe many interesting sidelights "off the beaten path," and she told of some of these experiences in an intimate, entertaining manner.

Visiting a cooperative farm in France to see how ECA machinery can help increase production in hungry, war-torn countries, she observed that one way to help impress on the people there the value of equipment is to mark it plainly as American machinery.

Gives Personal Glimpses
She gave many personal glimpses of life in Norway, Sweden, Italy and other countries. In the American sector of Berlin, she said, refugees from the Russian sector come in at the rate of thousands a day. She said that the Germans do not want the Americans to leave Germany. Her conclusion, based on the opinion of all members of her party, is that the Marshall plan is aiding Europe to a rapid recovery and should be continued, she said.

Another feature of the open house was an exhibit of oil paintings by Ed Sherlock, a former Bend resident who is now in business in Redmond. One of the canvases, a still life of a white rooster, was prize winner at the Chicago salon. One of the colorful landscapes took the prize at the John Herron Art institute show in Indianapolis. The qualities which make Sherlock a prize winner are his skill in design and the placing of masses and tone, according to critics. He was a student in Chicago art academy, Detroit School of Design and the Randolph Coates academy in Indianapolis.
