British Leaders Hit French Plan

London, June 13 (UP)—Britain's socialist leaders announced today they were opposed to the French plan for merging western Europe's coal and steel industries unless all governments involved were socialist-controlled.

The government's statement of policy was contained in a white paper issued by the national executive of the labor party. The white paper, approved by the British cabinet yesterday, will form the background for a statement in commons tomorrow by Prime minister Clement Attlee.

The French plan for pooling the coal and steel production of all western European nations will not work unless the industries in each nation first are nationalized, the socialist statement said.

The
