Evans Fly Team Wins Again To Continue League Lead; Childs Hardware Victorious

Softball fans again saw the league leading Evans Fly team win as the team turned in a 10 to 2 victory over the Bend Merchants, while Childs Hardware rallied to defeat Madden's Shell service 8 to 2 in the second game last night.

Les Schwab again came through with a low hitter as he hurled a three hit ball game.

Evans Fly led the whole game and were greatly aided by Chuck Lintz and Henry Baughn, who collected five hits between them. The Fly team started rallying in the second inning and scored constantly for the remaining five innings.

Babe Maudlin, Hufstader and Halverson got the only base hits off Schwab in his three hit masterpiece. Paul Rukoveno, manager for Evans, led his team to its eighth straight victory against no losses as league action is ending in the first round.

The Merchants played good ball in most of the game but faltered as the Evans batters proved too rough for them.

The second game saw Childs Hardware collect another win to edge closer to second place by turning back Madden's Shell service 7 to 3. Childs got an early game lead as they piled up a total of four runs in the first inning while holding Madden's Shell to a lone run.

Team "Catches Fire" But Madden's seemed to settle down and held them scoreless while they collected three runs. Manager Lowell Hirtzel must have given his boys a shot in the arm as they hadn't scored since the first inning, but going into the seventh they caught fire and scored their final tallies on a home run by catcher Corbin Weber with the bases loaded.

Duane Crane, shortstop for Madden's led team hitting as he smacked out three singles for three times at bat, Madden's came up in the bottom of the seventh and put on a rally but it was short lived as pitcher Musgrave cut the boys off short to set the Madden's batters down one-two-three with the bases loaded.

Last night's games were make-up games for one rained out last week. Boxscores follow:

DI MAGGIO HAS TRIUMPH

Cleveland, O., June 21 (AP)—Joe DiMaggio of the Yankees recorded his happiest triumph today—on the same scene of his most heart-breaking failure.

The 35-year-old outfielder cracked out the 2,000th hit of his career in a game against Cleveland last night at Municipal stadium, the same park in which his 56-game hitting streak was stopped on July 18, 1941.

When DiMaggio registered his 2,000th hit—a line single over shortstop Ray Boone's head in the seventh inning—the game was halted and he was presented with the ball.

Meyer Displays Old-Time Stuff, Pirates Beaten

By Carl Lundquist (United Press Sports Writer)

New York, June 21 (AP)—A losing pitcher with a winning team causes plenty of puzzlement especially when he is a guy with a winning spirit like Russ Meyer, so it must have been especially heartening to the fightin' Phillies today to have the colorful right-hander rack up his first victory of the season.

Last night he was his old effective self as he "joined" the staff with a 7 to 3 six-hit victory over the Pirates at Philadelphia, in which he struck out five and walked only one. The Phils came from behind with four runs in the eighth, two on Mike Goliat's clutch single, and Willie Jones blasted a three-run homer, his 11th, to make it sure in the seventh.

Well, they can just take a minute out and thank Old Fearless.

Equipped with three carriers, an elephant gun, two St. Bernards with the usual snake-bite remedy, a cross-cut saw, a seeing-eye dog and a hand masher, we personally toured Scoto's hills and gullies. We saw spots, as I pursued that (censored) little pellet, where no white man ever has set foot. We saw animals nobody ever knew inhabited the state of Ohio. And Old Fearless personally hacked down every bit of rough between Columbus and Zanesville, of which Scoto is the approximate fulcrum.

Now Divotville

Scoto no longer is a golf course. It is a ravaged land of demon divots which resemble the unfinished cellars of a housing project, sand traps which look mighty unclad with all the sand exploded therefrom, and greens with strategically-placed gullies running right up to the cups. The latter, I discovered, are a great aid in the sinking of long putts.

Actually, Scoto for the first six holes is no worse than some sections of the Congo. And on the seventh your courage is reborn when you actually see houses again, pretty ones, too, although they look a little funny now without glass in the windows.

The eighth is a test of skill seldom rivaled. A few hundred years ago somebody planted trees right in front of the tee and the soil here must be mighty good. In addition to that, the fairway comes in from third base like Ewell Blackwell's curve ball.

But you plug doggedly on, pausing now and then to pat the St. Bernards, and finally emerge on the 14th. It's a short par three but it has more sand than Atlantic City and it will wind up with twice as many dives when the lads start firing.

After that, the pros are going to find it's a cinch. You start seeing people again, and some of them even speak English. They stamp your passport at the officials' table and after clearing customs you are all ready to do it all over again.

Freak Inning Yields Ten Sudden Runs

By Jim Cooper (United Press Sports Writer)

San Francisco, June 21 (AP)—Oakland at bat in the eighth inning... leading the Los Angeles Angels 8 to 2... two men out... no one on base...

Sounds like a good time to leave the ball park and get your car out of the lot before the mob leaves, doesn't it? The fans who did that last night at Oakland missed one of the daffiest innings in Pacific Coast league baseball.

For with two out and none on the Oaks, already holding a safe margin of victory, scored ten times. They won 18 to 2 after Los Angeles fell apart.

There's nothing like good pitching in baseball and the Angels had nothing even remotely resembling it. During the evening they used six pitchers, gave up 16 hits, 13 walks, two balks and hit a batsman with the bases loaded.

Good Games Elsewhere

Elsewhere in the league, there was excellent baseball. Seattle eked out a 4 to 2 victory over the Portland Beavers; Hollywood squeezed past San Francisco, 2 to 1, and San Diego defeated Sacramento, 6 to 5.

Fifteen Acorn batters came to the plate in the fatal eighth. The scoring orgy started after two outs, when Frank Marino, the Angels' fourth pitcher, walked three batters in succession to fill the bases. Then he beamed Rafael Noble to force in a run. Three singles, a walk, a triple, and a home run by Mac McCormick added nine more. Herm Besse was charged with the loss and Charlie Gassaway was handed the victory.

Oakland's Billy Herman hit four for four, including two home runs. Lou Klein homered for the Angels.

Seattle Wins

A first-inning three-run homer by Frank Colman was all Seattle needed in the game at Portland. But they got one more run in the third on a Colman double. Hector Brown was credited with the victory, which put the Rainiers into a fourth place tie with San Francisco. Red Lynn was the loser.

There was a fine southpaw pitching duel at Hollywood, with Art Schallock winning out over the Seals' Chet Johnson. A homer by Jim Baxes in the fifth knotted the count at 1-1, and a single by Frank Kelleher drove in the winning run in the sixth. Schallock yielded only five hits, Johnson eight.

Thirteen hits, including homers by Steve Souchock and Len Ratto, failed to provide Sacramento with a winning margin at San Diego. The Padres grouped eight hits more effectively to earn the win for George Zverink. Souchock's homer was his 13th of the season and put the Sacs ahead 4-3 for a brief spell in the fifth frame.

Joe DiMaggio also passed a batting milestone at Cleveland, getting his 2,000th hit in the Yankee victory and joining Wally Moses and Luke Appling as the only other major leaguers beyond that level. With two hits for the night he drove in three runs as lefty Ed Lopat maintained his incredible hex over the Indians, defeating them for the 25th time against only six defeats, and for the third straight time this year. New Rose Bowl Pact Considered

Madison, Wis., June 21 (AP)—Negotiating committees from the Big Ten and Pacific coast conferences meet today to discuss renewal of the Rose Bowl football pact, which expires next January 1 after five games.

Spokesmen for the Big Ten were Commissioner Kenneth L. Wilson, faculty representatives W. R. Breneman, Indiana; Kenneth Little, Wisconsin; and Ralph W. Algier, Michigan, and Athletic directors Douglas Mills, Illinois; Dick Larkins, Ohio State; and Fritz Crisler, Michigan.

Pacific coast representatives were Commissioner Victor Schmidt, faculty representatives Hugh Willett, Southern California, and T. H. Kennedy, Washington State, and Athletic directors Brutus Hamilton, California, and Willis Hunter, Southern California.

Both committees were authorized by the individual conferences to discuss points of difference in the present contract. But neither committee can make a commitment for its conference. The results of today's discussions must be submitted for approval by the leagues.

Major differences between the conferences on the present agreement were on ticket distribution, number of practice days permitted, and refusal of the Big Ten to permit its teams to compete more than once in three years.

Snead, Mangrum Hot Favorites In Open Tourney

By Steve Snider (United Press Staff Correspondent)

Columbus, O., June 21 (AP)—Defending champion Sam Snead and pistol hot Lloyd Mangrum were the gallery favorites today as 128 of the nation's top professional golfers swung into the opening qualifying round of the 32nd PGA championship.

Eighteen holes today and another 18 tomorrow will slash the field to 64 for the deadly business of man against man match play beginning Friday.

Snead doesn't have to qualify for his match play berth but he'll play along both days as part of his grim campaign to play himself back into the winning form that put him at the top of the heap on the PGA's official money winning list with $20,861.

Ten former winners and all eight of last year's quarter-finalists were listed in the draw although Johnny Revolta of Evanston, Ill., champion in 1935, was a doubtful starter.

Snead Determined

Snead, long-hitting veteran from White Sulphur Springs, W.Va., was tight-lipped and determined when he hit town Monday with his game fraying at the edges, but after two days of rigid practice over the rolling spread of Scioto country club he appeared to be ready for all challengers. He fired a final tuneup round of 69 and put in a few more holes for good measure.

Mangrum is the hottest player on the tournament trail right now and showed it on his first tour of Scioto with 32-35-67, five under par and one shot better than the old course record. The

Winter Sports Proved Popular

Washington, D.C., June 21 (AP)—Winter sports areas on the national forests of Oregon and Washington attracted a total of 427,703 visitors this past winter, according to figures just compiled by the U. S. forest service. Every major area except one showed a decrease in use, and for the second consecutive year winter sports visits throughout the Pacific Northwest region showed a 20 per cent decrease from the previous year.

Abnormal snowfalls and blizzards again closed some of the popular national forest ski areas for several weeks at the peak of the season. Many people took advantage of the heavy snowfalls in metropolitan areas and enjoyed skiing and sledding on local golf courses and city parks, instead of visiting the winter sports areas in the mountains, according to Frank B. Folsom, assistant regional forester in charge of recreation and lands. "The decreased use on the major winter sports areas can thus be attributed to severe weather and not a slackening in interest in these sports," Folsom said.

Hoodoo Butte attracted 8,700 visitors in the 1949-50 winter, a decrease of 3,712 from the 1948-49 season.

CRACKERJACK CATCH

Salem, Ore. (AP)—Dick Bartle of the Salem Senators lofted a foul fly into the stands in a game with Vancouver. One of the concession boys "caught" the ball in a big basket of crackerjack.

Shamrockettes Lose to Madras

Cashman's Shamrockettes, local girls' softball team, was defeated here last night 4 to 2 by a team from Madras sponsored by the American Legion auxiliary of that city.

It was the first game of the season for the Shamrockettes, who will be entered in a local women's league later this summer.

The game last night was a pitcher's battle all the way between Bend's Margaret Holman, and Bryant of Madras. Madras opened the scoring with two runs. Bend came back to score two, but a Madras home run put the game on ice for the out-of-town team.

Shamrockette batters collected three hits during the game, while Madras batters knocked out five hits.
