Six Places

In the last poll book as registered voters are not included in the count.

At the election this fall, Bend voters will be selecting commissioners for a seven-man commission for the second time. The number of commissioners was raised from three to seven at an election June 30, 1947, and the first seven-man commission was elected on Oct. 7, 1947.

Of the six commissioners to be elected in November, the two receiving the largest number of votes will serve four-year terms. The other four will serve two-year terms. The municipal judge will serve for two years.

No nominating petitions have been presented for filing so far, according to Walter Thompson, city recorder. Mel Erickson and T. G. Kribs have had petitions in circulation for some time.

Judge Refuses To Cut Sentences

Washington, July 21 (AP)—Federal Judge David A. Pine today refused to reduce the one-year jail sentences of four Hollywood writers convicted of contempt of congress, and he denounced them as false "martyrs."

Rejecting a move to lower the jail terms of Dalton Trumbo, Albert Maltz, Samuel Ornitz, and Alva Bessie, the judge said: "These defendants in their statements to me portrayed themselves as martyrs. I do not feel that they were honest. I'm not persuaded that they are martyrs. I would indeed be glib if I were persuaded."

Pine accused the four of trying "to make a hippodrome of the performance" when they refused to tell the house un-American activities committee whether or not they were communists.

Acheson Sees No Hope for Peace Agreement Soon

Washington, July 21 (AP)—Secretary of state Dean Acheson said today he saw no hope for a quick, peaceful settlement of the Korean war barring an unexpected communist withdrawal behind the 38th parallel into Northern Korea.

Acheson told a news conference that his exchanges with India over that country's proposals for mediation of the conflict were ended. He said no further negotiations were in progress that offered hope of a peaceful settlement in the near future.

Acheson said it was not impossible that the North Koreans would withdraw to the 38th parallel that separates North and South Korea. He clearly felt, however, that this was unlikely. Acheson opened his news conference with a review of the four weeks old Korean war and praised the United States government and people, the United Nations, and the free world for rallying against what he called North Korea's careful, well-planned sneak attack.

General Motors To Build Tanks

Detroit, July 21 (AP)—General Motors' Cadillac division will sign a contract for mass production of army tanks "shortly," GM president C. E. Wilson said today.

Wilson said the pending contract, the auto industry's first major war order since the Korean war began, would not affect automobile production.

The tanks will be built in the former Fisher bomber plant at the Cleveland municipal airport. Transmissions for the tanks will be assembled at GM's Allison division plant in Indianapolis, Wilson said.

"Cadillac motor car division of General Motors produced many thousands of tanks during the last war, and this division has maintained contact and relations with ordinance ever since as affecting new developments and planning for tank production," he said.

Discussions Speeded "Discussions and production planning have been speeded up in recent weeks and these discussions will likely materialize into a definite production contract shortly," the GM president added.

"This contract, when it materializes, will be GM's first new commitment in our country's defense production program necessitated by the Korean crisis."

Don E. Ahrens, general manager of Cadillac, who with other Cadillac and GM executives will be in charge of the tank program, said Cadillac output in Detroit would not be affected by the tank program.

In Washington, the army said it was negotiating with Cadillac for a contract for the "mass production of tanks." Neither army nor GM spokesmen would say what kind of tanks would be made.

Unconfirmed reports, however, said Cadillac would make the new 28-ton light tank.

MOSCOW COMMENTS Moscow, July 21 (AP)—The soviet press said today that President Truman's $10,000,000,000 defense message to congress was designed to expand American aggression in Korea and elsewhere.

Reds Driving

Press war correspondent Peter Kalischer indicated that the heavy attack had forced the Americans to abandon their first lines of defense and fall back deeper into the hills overlooking the roads running southeast and south from Taejon.

It appeared that the North Koreans were trying desperately to smash on to the southeast before the Americans could regroup after losing Taejon.

The 21st regiment began digging into the new defenses below Taejon last Sunday long before the reds launched their climactic assault on the city.

The Americans finally pulled out of Taejon last midnight, but some units cut off by the lightning red attack still were in the burning city today.

Maj. Gen. William F. Dean, commander of the embattled 24th division, was last seen with one of the cut-off units. However, American stragglers were slipping through the enemy lines under fire in a steady stream and it was hoped Dean also might escape.

Dean's interpreter reached the main U. S. lines today for treatment of a shoulder wound and said Dean still was alive and "fighting like a tiger" when he last saw him.

Dean personally knocked out one of the 13 to 14 enemy tanks destroyed during the Taejon fighting yesterday.

Rescue Effort Falls A volunteer rescue column of five tanks with infantry support tried to break through the enemy lines to rescue Dean last night, but was turned back by the reds. The column did pick up two wounded Americans along the way, however. A sergeant said one of the tanks was missing.

A spokesman at Eighth army headquarters in Korea said South Korean forces had launched a successful attack on the east coast "in the vicinity of Yongdok," 88 miles north of Pusan and 27 miles above the American first cavalry division's beachhead at Pohang-dong.

U. S. artillery and guns of the seventh fleet lying off the east coast are supporting the attack, the spokesman said.

A naval announcement six hours earlier said two cruisers—one American and one British—had leveled Yongdok with a heavy bombardment Wednesday. The North Koreans had captured the town Tuesday.

Other units of the seventh fleet bombarded and set fire to several other east coast towns, the naval announcement said.

On the central front, a South Korean regiment captured the highway and railway junction of Yechon, 60 miles east northeast of Taejon, in a counter-attack.

Still other South Korean units drove to the outskirts of Punggi, 15 miles north northeast of Yechon, and were mopping up two communist battalions in that area, Gen. Douglas MacArthur reported in his afternoon communique.

Weather Bad Bad weather again hampered the air forces, but F-80 jet fighters claimed to have destroyed 14 railway cars and damaged six tanks, four trucks and two other vehicles in 52 sorties up to 4 p.m. (2 a.m. EDT).

The jets also strafed the Taejon railway yards and left them burning. F-82 twin Mustangs claimed to have damaged one tank and a truck in two sorties.

MacArthur said in a special communique that reconnaissance photographs showed communist railway movements through Seoul, the enemy-occupied former South Korean capital, have been brought to a virtual standstill as result of a 500-ton B-29 bombing raid July 16.

Allied bombers and fighters yesterday blasted enemy targets all the way from the fighting front to as far north as P'yongyang, the North Korean capital.

Prineville Asks 2 Mail Deliveries

Prineville, July 21—The local chamber of commerce has written Melvin Northrup, chief postal inspector at Seattle, asking that a second delivery for the Prineville business district be restored.

It was stated in the letter that local business interests had been informed that such second daily delivery in business districts had not been cancelled in other Oregon cities of comparable size. The need for a retention of the second delivery would not be great, the letter stated, were a sufficient lot of lock boxes available here.

"While the 1950 federal census for the corporate limits of Prineville gives only a population of 3,178 as compared to the 1940 census," the letter states, "we feel that these figures do not adequately reflect the growth in business at the local post office. Crook county's population has increased nearly 4,000 in the past 10 years. Practically all of this increase in population has come from a concentration of new homes in suburbs immediately around Prineville but just outside the bounds of the municipality."

KAISER HAS STRIKE Detroit, July 21 (AP)—A wild-cat strike shut down Kaiser-Frazer's Willow Run plant today and company officials said "hundreds of pickets" prevented many white collar employees and some executives from entering the factory. Local 142 of the CIO United Auto Workers union said the walkout, which started last night, was unauthorized. The local's executive board was called into an emergency session this morning. The strike started when a minor UAW official was reprimanded for shutting off welding equipment without authorization.
