County Fair

A financial report had not been compiled today on the rodeo part of the weekend show, but those in charge indicated that attendance was "better than last year," with every indication that a sizeable figure would appear on the right side of the ledger, as a nest egg for next year's show.

Bud Linderman, of Red Lodge, Mont., won the top money and the title of best all-around cowboy. He placed first in bullroginning and in bareback riding. On Saturday night, he brought gasps from the audience when he leaped from his horse, "dogged" his steer, tied it up and called for time, all in 6.3 seconds.

Pat Smith placed first in the calf roping, and Lowell Irves won the bronc riding contests. Top prize money in the Brahma bull riding was divided between Jack Spurling and Jim Maars, of North Platte, Neb. Spurling, who suffered a deep scalp wound in a California show earlier this season, did his riding with a football helmet under his cowboy hat.

One fatal accident marred this year's show, when Jack Moody, young Grangeville, Ida., cowboy, was thrown from a bucking bronc Saturday night. His death occurred this morning.

Saturday night, there were several other close calls. It looked for a minute as though Jim Miller of Prineville would sustain serious injuries when Red Devil, the bronc he was riding bareback, reared back, pawed the air and fell backward, with both horse and rider in the heap.

Bob Elliott, of Bend, made a fine bareback ride on a horse called Kickapoo, in true western form. A number of central Oregon names appeared on the program. Redmond riders included Stan and Pete Sturza, Vern Hamack, Joe Damm, Orville Thomas, Jack Halter, Dean Negus and Don Brown. Other local riders taking part were Art Foss of Terrebonne and Merrill Hansen of Sisters.

Trick Riding Popular Billie Talbot, a Redmond girl, was well received in her trick riding exhibition, and the Lane county sheriff's posse received generous applause for their precision-riding drill.

One of the most unusual acts in the show was a specialty number, "End of the Trail," by Louis Cabral and one of his trained show horses. At unseemly commands from his master, the horse fell, apparently wounded, then limped in front of the grandstand on three legs, after Cabral bound the "wounded" foot. Also well liked was Cabral's spectacular fire jump, in which he rode three matched palominos, Roman style, and jumped them over a burning barrier.

Horse Show Saturday On Saturday afternoon, as the opening event of the Deschutes county fair rangeland program, the Redmond Saddle club presented its fifth annual horse show, with Joe Dodd as judge and A. L. O. Schueler as ringmaster. Nearly a score of events were presented as the committee in charge raced against the 4 p.m. deadline, time set for clearing the arena preparatory to the opening rodeo. First event was the family class, with members of the Corwin and Webb families presented in groups. Then followed an open exhibition of stallions in King and bending race, next on the program, resulted in plenty of entertainment.

Walking Horses Race In a competitive Tennessee walking horse event, "You All," owned by Dick Woodward was first and "Shepard's King Allen," owned by Bob Wighton was second. In the following event, the women's saddle horse race, Darlene Fields placed first. Cuts at halter were then shown, in an exhibition. In the parade horse class "Prince Royal," owned by W. C. Hejler was first and

L. D. Wood, 51, Dies Suddenly

Loyd Donald Wood, 51, died at the Lumberman's hospital Sunday, following a sudden heart attack.

He had been a resident of this community for the past six years, during which time he was employed by Brooks-Scanlon, Inc. He made his home at 1464 Ithaca.

Funeral services will be held at the Niswonger-Winslow chapel Wednesday at 2 p.m. with Rev. Paul Brown officiating. Interment will be in Greenwood cemetery.

Mr. Wood was a veteran of the first world war and a member of the American Legion at Oakridge. He was also a member of the Macabees in Salem.

He was born at Harrisburg March 19, 1899. He is survived by his wife, Mary; one son, Donald, Bend; his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Harry Wood, Mill City; one brother, Lyle, Wood, San Francisco, and one grandchild.

Front dispatches said the stab near Chindong-ni may have been designed to prevent the South Korean marines who made a week end landing on the Tongyong peninsula from working their way north and establishing a continuous defense line up to the Naktong.

United Press war correspondent Robert C. Miller reported from the southern front at 3 p.m. (1 a.m. EDT) that units of the 25th division recaptured all territory lost to the Reds yesterday.

Still Battling His dispatch was received shortly after an 8th army communiqué, based on earlier information, said the division's 24th regimental combat team still was battling to blunt a 1,000-man spearhead which drove through the American lines to the vicinity of Yuchon, seven miles west of Masan and some 34 miles west of Pusan.

Yuchon lies three to four miles behind the American defense line on the south coast, but neither the communiqué nor front dispatches specified how close the communists were to the town.

The communist 7th and re-grouped 6th divisions have been probing the southern defense line for several days in the hope of finding a soft spot through which to launch a new offensive toward Masan and Pusan.

On the northern front, the South Korean 1st division captured hill 800 near Tabujong commanding a vital area 15 miles north of Taegu.

A South Korean spokesman said the attack began at 2 a.m. (10 a.m. Sunday EDT) and lasted five hours. He had no other details. However, he said other South Korean forces had counter-attacked in the mountains near the center of the front around Mt. Kukdong at dawn today and "virtually destroyed" an enemy regiment.

This brought the four-day toll of enemy troops killed by the allies to well over 1,500.

On another part of the northern front, the U. S. On another part of the northern front, the U. S. 27th regimental combat team sent a force of two tanks and an infantry platoon a mile behind the enemy lines.

The patrol raided the village of Sinjumak, killed and wounded a number of enemy troops and destroyed two self-propelled guns, an anti-tank gun and an already-damaged enemy tank.

The 8th army communiqué said the North Koreans were exerting heavy pressure all along the northern front from Waegwan, 12 miles northwest of Taegu, to Kunvi, 25 miles north.

U. S. planes and artillery helped the allied forces beat off the third consecutive communist

William H. Todd Dies at Home

William Harry Todd, 58, died at his home, 1519 Awbury road, Saturday morning.

Funeral services have been set for Tuesday at 10:30 a.m. from the Niswonger-Winslow chapel. Rev. Robert E. Nicholas will officiate.

Burial will be in the Pilot Butte cemetery.

Mr. Todd, who was employed as a barber at the Metropolitan barber shop, had made his home in this community two years.

He was born Nov. 17, 1891. Surviving are his wife, Inez L. Todd; two brothers and one sister.

WINDOW CLEANER FALLS Portland, Aug. 21 (UP)—A Portland window cleaner had a close brush with death today when he fell two stories onto a steel and glass marquee.

William J. Brookhouse, 41, was treated at St. Vincent's hospital for a sprained wrist and bruised back. He was washing casement windows in a third-floor office when, as he put it, "the window pulled open and out I went."

Firemen who rescued Brookhouse said he was working without a safety belt, instead hooking his foot under a radiator for support.

BEND MAN AWARDED JOB Madras, Aug. 21—When Harry Whidby, Boise, Ida., contractor and low bidder on 5,000 feet of concrete curbs, failed to supply the city of Madras with a performance bond, the job was given to Jack Robinson of Bend, second low bidder. Robinson, who has started the project, submitted a bid of $1.09 per running foot, only a cent under the Boise man.

On completion of the curbing, the city will begin the oil surfacing of a number of streets radiating out from the business district.

CARL SMITH DIES Washington, Aug. 21 (UP)—Carl Smith, 73, retired Washington newspaperman and former representative of the Oregon Journal, died at his home today after a long illness.

Smith represented the Journal in Washington for 31 years, from 1915 to his retirement in 1946. He is survived by his wife, Mrs. Ida May Smith, and one daughter, Guide.

Hospital News

Undergoing a tonsillectomy at St. Charles hospital today was Virginia Blair, 14, of Redmond.

Also admitted to the hospital were Roy Dulaney, Cuiver; Ernest McCall, Gilchrist; Roger Shirley, 4-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. Marshall Shirley, 334 Hill, and Richard Walsh, 124 Franklin.

Dismissed were Mrs. Naomi Shalhorn, Redmond; Baby Dan Ray Olsen, Bend, and Mrs. Le-nore Babcock, Madras.

night attack on this front last night.

On the western front, the communists strengthened their sole remaining Naktong river bridgehead near Hyonpung, 14 miles southwest of Naktong, to two regiments—about 6,000 men—and at least two tanks.

The U. S. 24th division sent patrols across to the west bank of the Naktong farther south to keep track of decimated North Korean units which fled the Naktong elbow bridgehead last week.

On the east coast, South Korean units advanced at least four miles north of Pohang and six miles north of Kigye, eight miles northeast of Pohang.

A spokesman for Gen. Douglas MacArthur said the communists despite their losses, still were trying to mount offensives toward Pusan from the south coast and toward Taegu from the Hyonpung bridgehead and the northern front.

Rail Strike

ments to the impromptu shipping point.

About 275 strikers were involved at Louisville and more than 700 other railroadmen were idled. The Minnesota Transfer company had embargoed all shipments last Friday. Although the line serves 400 firms, about 100 of the shippers had their own sidings which permitted loading directly onto main freight line trains and expected little difficulty.

The remaining shippers planned to use trucks to improvised railroads on the main lines.

About 150 employees of the St. Paul firm struck this morning.

The two unions called the strikes as a result of a 17-month battle to win a reduction in the work week to 40 hours with no loss in pay for yard employees and to scale the pay of road employees to the weight of hauling locomotives.

SHIP REACHES PORT Jacksonville, Fla., Aug. 21 (UP)—The 7,200-ton freighter Russell R. Jones, bashed by 140-mile-an-hour hurricane winds while fire raged in her hold, reached port and safety today.

A thin column of gray smoke still curled from the Jones' forward hatchway, a grim reminder of the three-day fire which broke out last Thursday while she was 460 miles northeast of Miami.

A severe hurricane battered the stricken ship and her 37-man crew.

BEND MAN ARRESTED Debert J. Sly, 1531 W. Fourth street, was arrested Saturday evening by city police on a disorderly conduct charge. Later he posted $100 bail and was released.

According to police records, officers were called to the Jantzen Villa apartments to quiet a disturbance.

An Englishman, H. Fox Talbot, in 1840 developed the first photographic process of making a negative from which many positives could be obtained.

Youngberg Rites Held Here Sunday

Funeral services for Louis L. Youngberg, 87, who died Thursday morning at a local nursing home, were held Saturday at 2 p.m. from the Niswonger-Winslow chapel, with Rev. Len B. Fishback officiating.

Interment was in the Greenwood cemetery.

Pallbearers were Harold Gram, Joe Hahn, Maurice Van Sickle, Peter S. Olson, Harold W. Bradbury and Jarne Shiek.

Wayne Hamilton sang two solos, "In the Garden," and "Nearer My God to Thee," and organ music was played by Mrs. Fishback. Mr. Youngberg, a millwright, had made his home in Bend for the past 21 years.

Institute Lauds Friendly Bacteria

Chicago (UP)—The bacteria that cause human suffering have given their cousins a bad name, according to the Illinois Institute of Technology.

The institute set up a special exhibit to laud the work of bacteria whose work creates cheese, wine and synthetics used for tires and finishes.

These and other bugs are kin to the creatures from which gangrene, colds and flu stem, but there's a world of difference in their approach to human affairs, institute biologists pointed out.

CHARLES C. HALL DIES Portland, Aug. 21 (UP)—Charles C. Hall, 67, prominent Portland attorney, died yesterday in St. Vincent's hospital, from a heart ailment after an illness of nine months.

Hall was a member of the national board of the Woodmen of the World at the time of his death. He was one of the first Portland lawyers to move his office away from the central business district to the east side of the Willamette river.

DINNER EXPENSIVE Deauville, France, Aug. 21 (UP)—A five-course dinner cost King Farouk of Egypt $20,000, the gamblers agreed today.

The king interrupted a winning streak at the Deauville Casino to attend a banquet in his honor late last night.

As soon as possible he hurried back to the gambling table. But his luck had deserted him, just as the gamblers had predicted it would. He dropped 8,000,000 francs.

RACE DRIVER KILLED McMinnville, Aug. 21 (UP)—A youthful Shaw, Ore., hot-rod driver was killed Saturday night when he smashed through a race track fence.

Gene Gilbert, 21, was driving in the second lap of the third heat race when his car spun out of control and went through the fence, rolling over.

ACCIDENT FATAL McMinnville, Aug. 21 (UP)—Dewey Bud Jones, 27, of McMinnville was killed instantly yesterday when his car crashed off the road three miles northwest of Carlton. Yamhill county coroner Glen Macy said the car left the road after failing to make a curve. Jones was thrown 50 feet beyond the car. He was dead when an ambulance arrived.
