Student Nurse Tells of Terror After Kidnaping Naomi, W. Va., Nov. 7 (AP) - Student nurse Ann Tabor, 17, accused a married school teacher today of making her his "kidnaped" bride and knocking out a tooth when she tried to flee during an eight-day "honeymoon" of terror.

The pretty teen-ager said only "divine providence" helped her escape Lewis Daniel, 35, who was held in the county jail at nearby Beckley on formal charges of abduction.

The nurse, her face swollen and one of her teeth missing, described for police a harrowing eight-day trip with Daniel through Ohio and Kentucky. She said he forced her to marry him last week at Grant, Ky., and beat her when she tried to run away.

She said that Daniel took her from in front of a nurses home in Charleston, W. Va., the night of Oct. 29 before the eyes of her fellow students.

"I prayed ever since I went away," she said, "and I guess my prayers were answered."

Miss Tabor, in a state of severe shock and near hysteria, returned home yesterday in a taxicab from Beckley. She said she fled from a hotel room there where Daniel had held her. Other details, she said, she spent on the floor of his automobile.

"He struck me several times when I tried to get away," she said.

A physician under whose care the nurse was placed said she was "pretty badly beaten up."

Daniel denied he held the girl captive and said she went with him willingly.

Miss Tabor's return home ended a widespread search which extended as far as New Mexico. Authorities who examined her said there was no indication of criminal assault.

U. S. BOMBER MISSING Taipei, Formosa, Nov. 7 (AP) - A U. S. 7th fleet patrol bomber has been missing for more than 24 hours and may be down at sea between Formosa and Hong Kong, it was reported today.

Five crewmen were believed aboard the plane.

The last message from the plane, received yesterday, put its position at a point roughly two-thirds of the way to Hong Kong from the southern tip of Formosa.

The plane was a PBM, capable of remaining on the surface of the water. But heavy seas were reported in the area where it may have gone down.
