Next Legislature

Of course, it's still up to the legislature whether it tries, tries again on this one. But eventually it would be up to the people, and this is what they've done on the matter before.

Nov. 2, 1926, they turned back a cigarette and tobacco tax 123,208 to 62,254.

Nov. 3, 1945 they rejected a cigarette tax, 127,366 to 110,643.

So they tried it again at a special election June 22, 1945, tying the tag tax in for support for public schools. The voters said no, 67,542 to 60,321. (There's always a light vote at special elections.)

And at another special election Oct. 7, 1947, the voters of Oregon smoked out the cigarette tax, 140,876 to 103,794.

Well, here it is again. A good controversial issue for the 1951 legislature to study in a welter of good controversial issues over how to win tax money and influence economy.

The committee, with state Rep. Giles French of Moro disapproving, will recommend that no state property tax be levied until all available revenues have been used to meet the state's obligation.

French wanted to repeal the state tax on property outright. He said he would file a minority report and introduce a bill in the coming legislative session for outright repeal of the state tax on property.

The cigarette tax the committee recommended for consideration would be three cents a pack, estimated to yield $5,000,000 a year.

William W. Collier of the state tax commission will write the committee's report. When the written report has been sent to all members, they will meet here again to give final approval before it is submitted to the 1951 legislature.

Brutality Denied As Cause of Riot

Santa Fe, N. M., Nov. 21 (AP)—Warden Howell Gage today denied charges that "bad treatment" of prisoners at the state penitentiary prompted an uprising in which six guards were beaten brutally.

Gage said the accusations, made by Bernardo Bianco, Mexican consul for this area, were "absolutely untrue." The warden invited an investigation of the treatment of convicts.

Bianco, held prisoner for 10 minutes when a rioting inmate entered a guardroom and tried to stab a guard, said bad treatment charges had been made by prisoners.

The riot began when M. H. Cheshire, a guard, intervened in a fight between two prisoners. He was knocked down, beaten and his tear gas gun was taken by convicts.

More than 100 prisoners in the yard rushed into an office, the prison canteen, laundry and automobile plate factory, flinging bricks which they tore from a walk in the yard.

The riot subsided when the warden, surrounded by state troopers, marched into the prison yard. He ordered all prisoners locked in their cells while he attempted to separate "14 or 15 ringleaders."

No one was fatally injured and no shots were fired during the battle.

STORM WARNINGS UP

Portland, Nov. 21 (AP)—Small craft warnings were continued at 8 a. m. from Tatoosh island, Wash., to Newport, Ore., on the strait of Juan de Fuca and inland waters of Washington for southwest winds 20-30 miles per hour, with squalls up to 40 miles per hour today and tonight.

EXECUTIONS CONTINUE

Hong Kong, Nov. 21 (AP)—The leftist newspaper, Ta Kung Pao reported from Shanghai today that 17 Chinese have been executed by a firing squad for anti-communist activities in the biggest mass execution in China since the communist victory over the nationalists.

The committee, with state Rep. Giles French of Moro disapproving, will recommend that no state property tax be levied until all available revenues have been used to meet the state's obligation.

HOSPITAL BURNS

Bethel, Alaska, Nov. 21 (AP)—More than 300 patients were evacuated safely when the Alaska native service hospital burned to the ground last night.

One man was injured. Zero temperatures froze hose lines, making fire-fighting next to impossible. Doctors and nurses time after time re-entered the blazing building and led patients out.

One Eskimo woman who was under surgery when the fire broke out was carried to safety before the operation was completed.

PLAN UNION SERVICE

Madras, Nov. 21—A traditional union Thanksgiving service will be held at 10 a.m. Thursday, under auspices of the Jefferson County Council of Churches, at the Madras Methodist church. The sermon will be delivered by Rev. C. O. Tremain, pastor of the Free Methodist church.
