CHINA GETS MATERIAL
 Hong Kong, Nov. 21 (AP)—Official statistics showed today that foreign goods, including steel, rubber and other strategic war materials, are pouring into communist China at an unprecedented rate.
 Shipments to red China from Hong Kong in October alone totaled $36,575,000, the highest since the war and nearly half the total exports of this British crown colony.

U.S. Asks
 The events we are asked to study may expose a vast scheme of imperialism lurking behind an outward mask of benevolence toward the national aspirations of the people. There is risk of a gigantic fraud which might be dangerous-disastrous in the first instance to the people who have newly won their independence because that independence will be taken from them, and in the second place, disastrous to many others for soviet leaders have openly represented their Asiatic policy as being part of their larger, global strategy.
 "If Asia is being subjected to aggression cloaked by fraud, then exposure is a good preventive."
 "Of course, in China as in other countries, there have been ills and maladjustments. They are particularly acute in China and it is quite likely that, had there been no such thing as soviet communism, China would have had a postwar phase of revolution and convulsion.
 "When such internal distress prevails, it should be the occasion for what our charter calls good neighborliness, where all try to help. It is a matter of grave concern if, when a nation gets sick, some great power tries to impose on it what President Truman in his recent San Francisco address called "a new colonialism-soviet style."
