Wilson Bros.

Assistant Attorney General Rudolph Naccarato cross-examined Anderson on events leading up to his conviction on disorderly conduct and his subsequent defeat at the polls.

Evidence Reviewed
Hanson testified that he believed other persons besides the Wilsons were involved in the murder of the pretty Meadowglade, Wash., girl.

Scott testified that he went to Sacramento with Sheriff Anderson to arrest the Wilson brothers.

Earlier, Stanley McDonald of the Multnomah county sheriff's office at Portland testified that he could not dispute FBI identification of Utah's fingerprints on a beer bottle found near where Jo Ann was overpowered and forced into an automobile as she walked on a Vancouver street. McDonald said he saw the bottle but did not have a chance to investigate completely the prints on it.

The only victory for the Wilsons Friday was denial by the court of a state motion for dismissal of the appeal at the start of the hearing.

"I'm going to tell them what I think of this Texas situation" in his Dallas speech. He referred to the fight for Texas' 38 convention delegates, the most hotly-contested of the delegate disputes. This contest will be settled at the national convention.

Other Developments
In other developments:

1. W. Averell Harriman, a candidate for the Democratic presidential nomination, told a news conference in Des Moines that no presidential candidate can reduce taxes in the next two years and keep the nation secure.

2. Eisenhower supporters continued to deride Taft's claim that he lacks only 16 delegate votes of the 604 needed for nomination. Sen. James H. Duff (R-Pa.), said Taft's statement was a "phony." Vincent C. James, a Rhode Island delegate, demanded "an immediate apology" from Taft for the senator's claim that he was "promised" three of the state's eight votes, all of which are pledged to Eisenhower.

3. Taft told a television audience that if he is elected president he will seek the advice "of the best men" in the armed services, "and I would particularly rely on the advice of Gen. Douglas MacArthur."

4. Paul G. Hoffman, chairman of the advisory committee of the National Citizens for Eisenhower organization, said in Denver that the general's supporters will use "the full power of American public opinion to force the Republican party to conduct its national convention with honesty and integrity."

5. Gen. Julius Klein, a Taft delegate from Illinois, charged in a statement that "rule or ruin is the order of the day of the Eisenhower forces." Klein said that "by screaming 'fraud' and 'steal' and 'stop thief,' they think that the public will forget to demand that Gen. Eisenhower debate with Sen. Taft on the real basic domestic and foreign issues."

6. Rep. Charles B. Brownson (R-Ind.), endorsed Eisenhower as "the only man who can guarantee a Republican victory in November."

End of Controls Still Possible

WASHINGTON, June 21 (AP)—Democratic Whip J. Percy Priest said Saturday that he thought the House would either reverse itself and vote to keep price controls—or would vote to kill wage controls, too.

The badly-mauled controls bill will come up for an additional round of voting in the House next Wednesday.

Wage controls, Priest told a reporter, will go into discard with price controls—unless, of course, the House reinstates what it threw out this week.

Other developments:
SOLIDER VOTE—A states' right fight in the House was threatened by a bill to insure voting privileges for members of the armed services. The legislation faces a rocky road in a House administration sub-committee headed by Rep. Omar Burleson (D-Tex.), who opposes a provision exempting servicemen from state poll taxes.

MCCARTHY—Sen. Joseph R. McCarthy (R-Wis.), criticized the Senate elections sub-committee for spending $900 to photostate correspondence between the Wisconsin Republican and his Appleton, Wis., broker. McCarthy wrote Chairman Guy M. Gillette that the "sole purpose" of the photostating "was to give the documents to the left-wing opposition press with the hope that its publication during a campaign year might prove embarrassing."

Porkers Start Flight to Korea

DES MOINES, June 21 (AP)—A platoon of 200 squealing little pigs winged westward Saturday toward Korea and "Operation Piglift" was on its way to help build up the war-ravaged livestock population of Korea.

As rain swept the airfield and the big DC-4, truck after truck of small pigs arrived to be loaded aboard for the flight halfway around the world.

Squeals from the pigs echoed across the field as volunteers lifted the animals on to fresh straw in new plywood crates for their 50-hour flight across the Pacific.

A large crowd of youngsters and adults waited in the rain, watching volunteers at work on the loading operation.

Recruited by UN
The pigs were the first of a group of pigs and goats recruited by the United Nations to bolster Korean livestock.

Gen. S. R. Hinds of the U. N. Korean Reconstruction Agency thanked farmers who offered their pigs. He said it was a project which we hope will provide the means for a better life for the people of Korea.

One of the volunteers, Bill Woods, who contributed 12 pigs himself, stopped his loading job for a moment and lifted one little porker up long enough for the Rev. Daniel Dunn of the Catholic Rural Life Conference to say a prayer.

"We wish this piglift God's speed," he said.

Then Woods gave the squealing little pig a pat and dumped him into the plane.

Capt. Earl Hohag and his co-pilot Edwin J. Smith of Minneapolis didn't know until a few hours before takeoff that their cargo would be a plane-load of pigs.

"It's going to smell in here," Smith said, looking back over his noisy cargo, "but we don't mind."

Romances Paid Dividends, Charge

CHICAGO, June 21 (AP)—A "muscular" attorney, already accused of stealing the love of a dentist's wife, was charged Saturday with romancing a second woman in order to steal her home away from her.

Nathaniel Ruvel was charged in a federal court suit with defrauding Mrs. Miriam Wright of San Francisco by romancing her in order to obtain her $75,000 mansion in the swank suburb of Glencoe, Ill.

Ruvel was named last February in a suit brought by Dr. Samuel Binder, 36, charging he stole the love of the dentist's wife, Eleanor.

The bushy-browed, 45-year-old lawyer subsequently married actress Barbara McLean.

Legal Issue Delicate
In the dentist's suit, Judge Harry M. Fisher currently is studying whether a psychiatrist, Mrs. Binder visited can be made to tell what she told him during consultations.

Mrs. Wright's suit was filed Friday. In it she said she hired Ruvel in 1948 to wage a fight to regain $25,000 in jewelry from her former husband.

Actually, Mrs. Wright charged, Ruvel did practically nothing to further her legal interests, but hounded her for fees.

He said he made love to her and obtained the exclusive right to sell her Glencoe home which he took along with its furnishings for a fraction of their real value.

The house currently is rented at $450 a month.

Mrs. Wright sought an injunction to prevent the sale of the house or its furnishings. She put a $45,000 value on the furnishings.

Binder's suit charged Ruvel with making love to his wife in Illinois and Florida.

The dentist described Ruvel as "a large muscular man who studiously makes himself attractive to women."

Plans for the installation of the all-Indian V.F.W. post at Warm Springs on Thursday, June 26, are attracting wide attention and a large delegation of Central Oregon veterans is expected, according to information from Francis G. The new V.F.W. post is to be known as Elliott Palmer Post No. 4117, department of Oregon. Elliott Palmer was the first Indian youth from the Warm Springs reservation killed in World War II. The post institution will be in the Warm Springs gymnasium.

Blind Man Calls In Vain for Aid

MILLERS FALLS, Mass., June 21 (AP)—Calling in vain for directions from the shore, an 18-year-old blind youth sank exhausted and drowned in Green Pond while a group of girls ignored his pleas because they thought he was joking.

John Hawthorne Jr. of Millers Falls, blind since birth, swam parallel to the beach Friday crying out: "Where's shore? Where's shore?" The girls, unaware of his blindness, paid no attention.

He kept swimming about 30 feet from the shore until he could go no farther and sank out of sight.

Rosalie Graleski, 17, of Amherst saw him go under and told Norman Gerber, of Millers Falls, a 17-year-old high school athlete, Gerber swam out and after diving several times recovered Hawthorne's body in 20 feet of water.

45,000 Checks Now Sent Out

SALEM, June 21 (AP)—About 45,000 bonus checks to veterans of World War II are in the mails, the first week of mailing, Hub Sanfeld, head of the bonus division of the State Department of Veterans Affairs, said Saturday.

The checks went out at the rate of 20,000 Friday, but beginning Monday the rate will be slower. The bonus division was able to mail the checks from a backlog built up by the secretary of state's office. But with this backlog caught up, the secretary of state's office will be able to run the checks through the photograph at the rate of only 1500 a day or 7500 a week. The bonus division expected to get these in the mail quickly.
