

Humphrey Plans To Submit FEPC Bill To Congress

WASHINGTON, Nov. 21 (AP)—Sen. Hubert H. Humphrey (D-Minn.) said Friday he will submit a fair employment bill to the new Congress on its opening day, Jan. 3.

He made the statement after releasing a report on the employment and economic status of the nation's 15,500,000 Negroes.

The report, prepared by a Senate labor sub-committee staff, said Negroes are "less well off" than white citizens in terms of income, employment, education and length of life.

It added, however, that "in almost every characteristic, the differences between the two groups have narrowed in recent years."

Evidence Clear

"The evidence is clear," Humphrey commented, "that legislation by Congress is in order to provide equal opportunity in employment, adequate housing, fuller education and improved health facilities for all Americans."

He said the new anti-discrimination bill will be identical to one sponsored by 17 Democratic and Republican senators late in the last session. The Senate took no action upon it.

Southern Democratic filibusters have killed all previous attempts to push fair employment legislation through the Senate. The so-called "FEPC" has been the part of President Truman's "civil rights" program that has aroused the sharpest Southern opposition.

No Objection

Southern senators have said they would have no objection to creating a fair employment practices commission, provided it was purely advisory, and could not compel employers to hire anyone. Past FEPC bills would have armed the proposed commission with such compulsory powers.

The new bill attempts to compromise the compulsory issue.

It would set up a "federal equality of opportunity in employment commission" to investigate complaints of racial or religious discrimination against workers.

The commission could issue orders to stop discrimination if a case couldn't be settled by conciliation or persuasion. The orders would be subject to court review if either party to the dispute appealed.

DINNER PLANNED

Tour in Korea Halts While General Delivers Cookies

WITH 1ST MARINE DIVISION, Korea, Nov. 21 (AP)—One of the highest ranking military groups ever to tour Korea came to an abrupt halt Thursday while a four-star general delivered a package of cookies to a Marine private. Gen. Hoyt S. Vandenberg, U. S. Air Force chief of staff was given the cookies by the Marine's mother while he was in Spain three weeks ago on the European end of his round the world tour of inspection. Gens. James A. Van Fleet, 8th Army commander; O. P. Weyland, Far East Air Forces boss; Glenn O. Barcus, Fifth Air Force Chief, and several other officers with stars on their shoulders waited at a forward air strip while Vandenberg presented the package of cookies.

"I was kind of shaken when I heard he was going to deliver it personally," said Pfc. Nicholas G. Baldwin, Minneapolis, Minn.

The 24-year-old Marine said his mother had told him in a letter that she had met Vandenberg and given him a package for her son in Korea.

"I heard last night he was going to bring it himself," Baldwin said. "I didn't get much sleep."

Baldwin said his father is an engineer with the Fiat Automobile Company in Florence, Italy. He did not know his parents had been in Spain.

The young Marine was driven to the air strip from his Marine reconnaissance company, where he is a cook.

"I brought a package for you," Vandenberg said when the Marine pulled to sharp attention and saluted.

"I think there's some food in it for you," the general added.

"Yes sir," the Marine said. "I hope your buddies haven't heard about it," the general said. "They already have, sir," Baldwin replied.

"Then I hope they don't eat it all up," smiled the general.

"Yes sir," the Marine said.

As Vandenberg turned over the paper-wrapped package, he said: "Mission completed."

"Yes sir," the Marine said.

After Vandenberg rejoined his official party the Marine said, "I'll be hearing about this for a couple of weeks."

Baldwin said he was drafted into the Marine Corps a year ago August and arrived in Korea in April.
