

Realtor Gives Other Side in Controversy

(One of the most controversial issues in recent Bend city affairs has been the city commission's action authorizing municipal financing of a 500-foot water main along Kenwood road as a means of starting the residential development of Kenwood Gardens by a local contractor rather than a Portland firm.

(In the last regular meeting of the commission, June 2, the six members present voted unanimously to construct the pipe line and grade the streets in the affected area for W. V. "Jack" Hamby, Hamby, owner of 38 lots purchased from the county in the Kenwood Gardens area, had been approached by the George Brice Mortgage Co. of Portland, which desired to build a low-cost tract in the area.

(To present the other side of the story, The Bulletin Wednesday interviewed Carroll D. Pierce, Bend realtor, who represented the Brice Mortgage Co. in negotiations for purchase of land in the city.)

Carroll D. Pierce, Bend realtor, Wednesday told The Bulletin that last week's action by the Bend city commission effectively killed any and all plans by the George Brice Mortgage Co. of Portland to construct a low-cost housing tract in Bend.

Pierce said he no longer represents Brice as an agent to purchase land locally for a residential development because the Portland firm has been convinced by the action of the city commission "that the city doesn't want such a project."

Pierce said that the proposed tract would not have been a "one-shot, 30-home tract consisting of cheap stereotyped structures." The plan had been to begin with a few—probably eight to 10—homes and add to the tract with piecemeal construction as warranted by the demands for more homes according to Pierce.

The homes would have been built to rigid Veterans' Administration standards, he said. The financing plan was to charge about $350 down payment and amortize the balances with low-interest, 30-year loans. No similar financial arrangement is now available to veterans wishing to purchase homes of comparable size and quality in the city, Pierce added.

When the plans for the tract first began to leak out, Pierce said, "veterans began coming to me asking when they could buy. I compiled a dated waiting list, which showed the prospective buyers in order of preference."

"There was no plan to build a rash of homes without any buyers in sight," he said. Pierce said he regretted he had not known of Hamby's intention to appear before the city commission last Wednesday night.

"I would have been there to present the other side and I know what was coming," Pierce said.

MIRROR POND SWANS AND A CRANE—Bend's Pageant Park is a scene of much activity these days as crews prepare for the 1954 pageant, over the Fourth of July holidays. Resting under the crane of a mobile hoist here is the symbolic Mirror Pond swan, with a cygnet nearby. Preliminary work has been started on the river arch. (Bend Bulletin Photo)

Jaycee Caravan To Stop in Bend Friday Morning

A caravan of Junior Chamber of Commerce members and their wives from western Oregon will arrive in Bend tomorrow morning on the first leg of their trip to Colorado Springs, to attend the 34th annual week-long Jaycee convention which begins in Colorado Springs June 14.

The delegation will be joined here by Mr. and Mrs. Keith Shepard and Mr. and Mrs. Rodney Hufstader. Shepard is president of the local Jaycee group, and Hufstader is vice-president. The caravan is expected to arrive in Bend around 7 a. m., and the convention-bound delegates will have breakfast together at the Pilot Butte inn. Later tomorrow, in mid-afternoon, a convoy of 33 automobiles will form at a rendezvous in Ontario, to continue the trip. There the western and central Oregon Jaycees will be joined by those from eastern and southern Oregon. Some 70 persons are expected to meet in Bend, and the entire Oregon group, 100 strong, will assemble in Ontario.

At the national convention, the local Jaycees will display exhibits from the Central Oregon booth at the Chamber of Commerce auto show this past spring in Los Angeles. This will be a part of the Oregon Products booth.

Oregon delegates have shipped ahead to the convention city a huge log from an Oregon forest to be fashioned into a bench and placed on the summit of Pikes Peak.

Attractions at the convention will include a Nights of the Old West party, when a completely reconstructed ghost town, with false fronts, board walks, swinging doors and operating honky-tonks, will come into being. There will be a chuck wagon dinner in the famed Garden of the Gods, street dances and a six-mile-long parade in which each state will compete for the best float award. Some 10,000 delegates are expected.

Gen. Carlos P. Romulo, special Philippine ambassador to the United States, will be a featured speaker.

PORTLAND (UP)—The Portland Junior Chamber of Commerce reported today that about half of the required signatures have been obtained to put an issue on the November ballot calling for daylight savings time in Oregon.

Third Annual Junior Rodeo Due at Redmond on Weekend

Special to The Bulletin
REDMOND — Youthful riders from all over Oregon will display their prowess in rodeo events and compete for prize money in the third annual Central Junior Rodeo Saturday and Sunday afternoons at Deschutes county fair grounds.

Rodeo directors from the association, under chairman Ed Bauer, worked late Wednesday night arranging the program. Approximately 135 junior riders from nine to 14 and seniors from 15 through 18 from around the state have entered applications. Nineteen events are listed for each afternoon, some of them two sections for the same event.

Queen Nancy Campbell and King Bob Glaspy will lead the parade at 11 a. m. Saturday morning down Sixth Street in Redmond to signal the opening of rodeo festivities. When the Saturday show begins at 1 p. m. they will head the grand entry and again on Sunday afternoon. The royal pair are to be crowned at the public dance Saturday night at the air base.

Nancy 14, is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Carl Campbell of Sisters, and Bob, who is 13, is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Louis Glaspy, Redmond. They were selected several weeks ago by judges Norman Williams, Vic Sargent, Harry Windom and Howard Mayfield, on the basis of horsemanship, personality and horse and equipment. Nancy and Bob were chosen from riders in the Bend, Alfalfa, Tumalo, Terrebonne, Redmond and Sisters riding clubs and from county 4-H riding clubs.

Boomer reports that following the parade Saturday morning and before the grand entry judging is to be held at the fair grounds for the queen and two princesses to rule over the Deschutes county fair in August. The girls will be chosen 70 percent on horsemanship, 20 percent on personality and 10 percent on horse and equipment.

Marching in the Saturday morning parade, along with the rodeo participants, are to be about a hundred young ballplayers from teams in the pee-wee league. Their season play starts Monday. Men from Battery B, national guard unit, are to assist in directing the parade and will be on hand at the fair grounds as well, according to Bauer.

Boy Scouts and members of American Legion Auxiliary will have soft drinks and food concessions at the rodeo, and there are to be pony riders available for the youngsters.

McCarthy Denies Plans For Intervention

McCarthy Aims New Charges At John Adams

By RAYMOND LAHR

WASHINGTON (UP)—Sen. Joseph R. McCarthy testified today that Army counselor John G. Adams warned him last January that the McCarthy subcommittee might be "wrecked" if it didn't cancel subpoenas for members of the Army Loyalty Board.

He charged that Adams used a "combination of salesmanship and threats" in a "blackmail" attempt to get him to abandon efforts to call members of the board before the subcommittee for questioning.

McCarthy charged that the threats were made the night of Jan. 22, when Adams spent three hours visiting McCarthy's home. "Improper Influence" He said Adams warned he would release a report charging that Roy M. Cohn, McCarthy's chief counsel, was using "improper influence" to get special treatment for McCarthy's subcommittee consultant until he was drafted last Nov. 3.

McCarthy called it Adams' "boldest threat."

"He told me," said McCarthy, "that it would be better to cancel the call to the loyalty board members than wreck the committee."

The "blackmail" charge against Adams, which the Army counselor has previously denied under oath, was the high point of McCarthy's direct testimony at the 31st day of the Army-McCarthy hearings.

Special counsel Ray H. Jenkins, who began his friendly direct examination of McCarthy late yesterday, ended that phase just when the hearing recessed for lunch. McCarthy faced cross-examination by Jenkins in the afternoon session.

McCarthy in his direct testimony contradicted several sworn statements of Adams and Army Secretary Robert T. Stevens. He testified:

1. Stevens was responsible for having his photograph, the now-famous "doctored" photo, made with Schine last Nov. 17 at McGuire Air Force Base, near Fort Army secretary specifically invited Schine into the picture. The senator's version contradicted Stevens' testimony and other reports on the episode given by Maj. Gen. Cornelius E. Ryan and a McGuire public information officer photographer who took the picture.

Free Parking For Shoppers Here Friday

Central Oregon shoppers visiting Bend tomorrow will enjoy free parking.

Friday has been designated by the city commission as a meter holiday, on the request of retail merchants. In the central business district, 430 parking meters will be hooded through the day with paper bags.

Each cover will bear a printed reminder that nickels will not be required.

Downtown merchants are issuing stern reminders to their employees that their cars must not be parked in the meter areas, Bill Healy, chairman of the retail merchants' committee, said.

Early tomorrow morning, a group of merchants will make the rounds of the downtown area and place the paper bags over all meters.

Results of the meter holiday will be evaluated by the merchants, who have stressed that the success of the move will largely depend on the cooperation of employees.

Little Leaguers Set 2-Day Fete

A carnival tomorrow night will kick-off a lively two days of little league activities in Bend that will climax Saturday with a parade through downtown Bend, an eight-inning jamboree on the municipal diamond, and a dance following at the Pine Forest Grange hall.

President Notes Grave Condition In World Affairs

By DAYTON MOORE
United Press Staff Correspondent
WASHINGTON (UP)—President Eisenhower said today he has no plan now to ask Congress for authority to intervene in Indochina.

But he added at his weekly news conference that the United States is in a truly serious situation as far as the Communist world threat is concerned.

The President went on to say, however, that he thinks his military budget is now large enough.

Mr. Eisenhower was asked whether he thought it would be feasible to ask Congress, before it adjourns, to vote him standby authority to intervene in Indochina if he deems intervention necessary.

He replied that he has no such plan at this moment. He said any such thing would have to come up at the crest of some crisis. He again gave reassurance that he would ask Congress for authority before committing U. S. forces in Indochina.

On other subjects Mr. Eisenhower told reporters:

1. He still supports all Republican candidates as a basic principle because he believes the President's party should be responsible. But he added that he hoped the reporter who asked the question would not give Congress to candidates because it might be embarrassing to the President.

2. He believes the United States should give its Allies more military atomic information.

3. He considers that reserve officers of the armed services, as well as those on active duty, commit a reprehensible act when they participate in the unauthorized distribution of secret and confidential information.

The name of Sen. Joseph R. McCarthy (R-Wis) was not mentioned either by the question or the answer about reserve officers. McCarthy is a reserve officer in the Marine Corps.

4. The President has not abandoned the Randall Commission's program calling for a three-year extension if the reciprocal trade agreements law with authority for the President to cut tariffs an additional 15 per cent. He said he is going along with a one-year extension until he can give Congress more time to study controversial features of the Randall proposals. He denied emphatically that he has agreed to any provision that would bar him from making any further trade agreements during a one-year extension.

Boivin May Seek Hitchcock Post

Possibility that the seat in the state senate vacated by Phillip S. Hitchcock of Klamath Falls will be sought by a fellow townsman, Harry D. Boivin, loomed large here today.

In fact, Boivin is spending the day in the Mid-Oregon area to confer with leaders of both parties as to their reaction. Boivin was in Bend this morning, and planned to visit Redmond, Prineville and Madras.

In Prineville, Boivin hoped to see W. B. Morse, also an ex-member of the state legislature who has been mentioned as a possible successor to Hitchcock. Boivin is a Democrat, Morse a Republican.

Following his interview today, Boivin indicated he will definitely make up his mind whether to enter the contest. Hitchcock's successor will fill his two-year unexpired term. If named, Boivin would not be eligible to continue as senatorial representative of the Mid-Oregon area inasmuch as the big district is to be divided under reappointment provisions.

Candidate Says Suit is Attempt To Hurt Drive

PORTLAND (UP)—Mrs. Edith Green, Democratic candidate for Congress from the third district, charged today that a suit filed against her and her husband by a real estate agent was inspired by political motives and a desire to damage her campaign for election.

Suit was filed in Circuit Court here by Francis L. DeHartport, a representative of City Realty Company. He seeks $1800, he claims the Greens owe him for finding a buyer for their trailer property valued at $37,000.

Mrs. Green said she had been advised by her attorneys that the suit was without merit.

"This suit has been filed for political purposes in the hope it would hurt my campaign," Mrs. Green said. She said sale of the property was contingent on certain conditions she did not want to meet.

Rainfall Here 91 of an Inch
The three-day storm that reached Central Oregon yielded 91 of an inch of rain in Bend, it was announced from the local weather station this morning. Yesterday's precipitation amounted to .32 of an inch.

Newberry crater, anglers reported that snow fell in the Paulinas yesterday, but melted as it touched the ground. However, the new June snow remained unmelted at higher levels and the Three Sisters were white to the timberline this morning when they broke through storm clouds.
