GOVERNOR'S DAY—Gov. Paul Patterson Saturday reviewed Oregon and Washington national guardsmen of the 41st infantry division parading on Gray field at Fort Lewis, Wash., in the annual governors' day review. Neither Washington's Gov. Arthur Langlie nor Lt. Gov. Emmett Anderson were able to attend the two-hour spectacle. With Patterson are Maj. Gen. Harold G. Maison (center) of Salem, commanding general of the 41st, who was commander of troops for the parade, and Maj. Gen. Thomas E. Rilea, adjutant general of Oregon. (Bend Bulletin Photo)

THIRD BATTALION—Guidon bearers of Bend's Co. 1, a part of the third battalion of the 162nd infantry regiment, preceded the battalion Saturday during the Governors' day review on Gray's Field, Fort Lewis, Wash. A total of 7,500 guardsmen passed by Gov. Paul Patterson and his reviewing staff during the two-hour show. Of these, 6,300 slogged over the rain-soaked landing strip in an unremitting downpour. The others—members of motorized and helicopter units—whisked by the reviewing stand under cover. (Bend Bulletin Photo)

Boivin Choice Of Democrats

Harry D. Boivin, Klamath Falls attorney and ex-representative from Klamath county in the state legislature, is the choice of Democrats from four of the five counties in Senatorial District 17 as party nominee for the post being vacated by Senator Philip S. Hitchcock.

Democrats from Crook, Deschutes, Jefferson and Klamath county meeting here yesterday unanimously recommended to the nominating committees from the five counties that Boivin be designated as the nominee. Lake county was not represented at yesterday's meeting, presided over by Howard Morgan, Democratic state chairman. Also present were Monroe Sweetland, national committee man, and Robert Y. Thornton, attorney general.

Boivin said he will accept the nomination if the recommendation of the committees is ratified. He is a former speaker of the house.

The committees from the four counties met at the Pilot Butte Inn here yesterday afternoon. Paul Buck, Democratic chairman from Klamath, said Boivin was the choice of his group, and George Cecil, Deschutes chairman, moved that the assembly endorse Boivin. The motion was unanimously approved.

Hitchcock, Republican senator from the 17th district, recently moved to Portland and has announced that he will resign his senate post.

Republicans from the five-county district are expected to nominate their candidates at a meeting to be held in Bend on June 24.

Guardsmen Parade Saturday Undaunted by Steady Rain

By NORM BITTER
Bulletin Staff Writer

FORT LEWIS, Wash. — Undaunted by a ceaseless rain that increased in tempo with the playing of every bar of martial music, a total of 7,500 national guardsmen of the 41st Infantry division of Oregon and Washington Saturday paraded on Gray field here in the annual Governors' Day review.

Gov. Paul Patterson, standing in the downpour during all of the two-hour spectacle except for the few minutes in which he "trooped the line" in a shiny sedan, headed the reviewing officials. Washington's Gov. Arthur Langlie was unable to attend, as was Lt. Gov. Emmett Anderson.

The parade was the seventh and by far the largest in post World War II history of the division.

After the ceremony was opened with the presentation of awards, Patterson, Maj. Gen. Harold G. Maison, commanding general of the 41st, and Maj. Gen. Thomas E. Rilea, adjutant general of Oregon, whisked by the long line of assembled troops and motorized units.

Returning to the reviewing stand, they witnessed the procession of the 161st infantry regiment from Spokane, Wash., followed by the 162nd regiment of Oregon. The third and last regiment, the 189th, was next in line. Bend's Co. 1 paraded as part of the 162nd.

Following the foot soldiers in the impressive review was the division's heavy and light equipment, the 162nd combat engineers battalion of Oregon, and the big guns of the division artillery.

Fanning the steady drizzle into the faces of the estimated 1,100 spectators were the trimmed propellers of helicopters of the division's light aviation section. Liaison planes, scheduled to skim at treetop level over the parade grounds, were grounded due to the reduced visibility.

Final units to pass the reviewing stand were the Sherman tanks of the 803rd tank battalion from the Longview-Chehalis area and the 41st reconnaissance company from Bremerton.

Weatherman Day Ahead Of Calendar

Summer came to Central Oregon, astronomically, at 2:55 p.m. today, but the weatherman beat the calendar makers by a full day.

Sunshine bathed the interior country Sunday, sent the temperature up to 78 degrees, and lured onto Central Oregon highways and to vacation spots visitors from all parts of the region.

At noon today, the mercury was climbing into the seventies, and it was expected that the temperature would reach 80 before afternoon shadows moved east from the Cascades.

Astronomers noted that the advent of summer also marked the longest day of the year. This evening, the sun will set at 7:51, and will come up over the Ochoco tomorrow morning at 4:22.

Only Four Mills East Of Cascades Striking In Northwest Tieup

More than 100,000 members of two big lumber unions in the Pacific Northwest and California were on strike today, to back demands for pay increases.

East of the Cascades, only mills struck were the big Brooks-Scanlon, Inc. in Bend, two plants in Redmond and one in Prineville. In Prineville the Alexander-Stewart plant, workers of which are affiliated with the AF of L, remained on the job. The Ochoco Lumber Co. plant in Prineville was struck Saturday.

The big plant of the Gilchrist Timber Co., at Gilchrist, also remained in operation this morning.

Information available here at noon indicated that none of the Klamath Falls operations have been struck.

Pickets on Duty

Pickets appeared around the Brooks-Scanlon, Inc., plant here at 7 a.m. Saturday, and the IWA men were still on duty today. The Brooks-Scanlon mill whistle sounded on schedule this morning at 7, leading many Bend residents to believe that the strike had been settled.

However, it was announced from the Brooks-Scanlon office that there was no change in the situation. The whistle was sounded, it was announced, "to let workers know that their jobs were awaiting them." Pickets said there was no move to go through the lines.

Labor Leaders Order Defense Of Capital City

TEGUCIGALPA, Honduras (UP)—Guatemalan labor leaders today ordered truck drivers, railway workers and farmers to help defend the capital against anti-Communist rebels reported driving toward the city.

The Guatemalan government belittled the effects of the four-day old invasion thus far but admitted that Guatemala City, bombed and strafed at least three times since Friday, was the invaders' immediate target.

Leaders of the insurgents predicted victory over President Jacobo Arbenz Gusman's Communist-influenced regime within the next 36 hours. They said rebel leader Col. Carlos Castillo Armas was inside Guatemala and would set up his provisional government before nightfall.

(Winnipeg radio station CKY said it learned in a recorded telephone interview with Mac Bannell of the National Broadcasting Co. that rebel forces were in the outskirts of the capital and that "considerable fighting is going on.")

Guatemala City was blacked out for a few minutes Sunday night before Foreign Minister Guillermo Toriello made a nationwide broadcast to the people about a French resolution put before the United Nations Security Council in New York.

The resolution called for an immediate end to any action likely to cause bloodshed in Guatemala and urged all U.N. members to refrain from giving assistance to either side.

The foreign minister also attempted to assure the people that the government had full control over the emergency, although authorities had warned in an earlier broadcast of the approaching insurgents.

Bulletin Youth Found In Good Shape By Officers

TURKU, Finland (P) — John Landy of Australia broke Roger Bannister's world record for the mile run today when he ran the distance in 3:58.

Landy performed the feat in a meet held in this tiny Finnish hotbed of track, less than 100 miles from the Soviet Russian border.

In the course of his mile run, Landy also set a new world mark for the 1500-meter distance, known as the "metric mile," when he was clocked in 3:41.8 at that point in the race.

All records must be formally approved by the International Amateur Athletic Federation. However, in view of the ideal conditions for the race, Finnish track authorities foresaw official acceptance when the feat is submitted for approval.

The four minute mile, which stood as a tantalizing lure for the world's best distance runners for decades, now has been broken twice within less than two months.

Found Hiking

Kenneth Rouch and fellow officers of the state police staff in Bend found the boy hiking over the Minto trail. The police reported by radio that the boy was in good shape, despite the fact that he spent the night coatless in the Cascade divide region. He was taken to Jack Lake.

With his father, Johnnie was fishing at Jack Lake yesterday afternoon when he decided on a short hike into the Three Fingered Jack foothills, hopeful of getting a good picture of Mt. Washington, south over the Santiam highway. When he failed to return, the father notified Lee Morton, fire guard at Ailingham, on the Metolius.

In the late evening, Morton made his way into the divide and followed tracks to the high East Point rim, overlooking a glacial cirque.

Join Search

State police, foresters, residents of the Metolius river area, where the Lindstroms had been visiting, and others joined in the search this morning.

Equipped with a two-way forest service radio, A. J. Tilse took off from the Redmond airport, to join in the search.

When Johnnie left Jack Lake yesterday afternoon for the hike into the higher country, he was without a coat. Last night, the temperature dropped to freezing along the mile-high divide.

With Bend's nine-to-12-year-olds in full baseball regalia will be the five white-clad Pageantarians, the eight pageant princesses, motorized units from the police and fire departments, and a truck or delivery car representing each of the two little leagues' four team sponsors.

Junior leaguers too will march in the parade, according to Mel Amsherry, the parade master.

The promenaders will start down Wall beginning at 6 p.m. Following the colorful spectacle, the young baseballers will adjourn to the municipal diamond for a series of four two-inning "scrimmages" that will pit teams of the national league against those of the American.

Bend to Host Entomologists

A three-day convention of the Pacific slope branch of the Entomological Society of America will open in Bend tomorrow, with some 300 members, their wives and families expected.

The Bend meeting will mark the centennial of professional entomology in America, and will bring here leaders outstanding in the field of insect research and control.

A part of the program will be devoted to films dealing with insect life. Interested persons have been invited to drop in. Meetings will be at the Pilot Butte Inn.

Last year, the Pacific slope members of ESA met at Lake Tahoe.

The centennial conference in Bend will attract entomologists, chemists and agriculturists not only from the western states, but from Canada and Hawaii.

The Bend conference has been arranged as a sort of family affair for the western entomologists. Many plan to camp in the area while the convention is under way.

Huge Thunderegg Located in Crook County Region

Special to The Bulletin

PRINEVILLE—A huge thunderegg, possibly the world's largest, was brought out of the McKay creek hills north of Prineville yesterday and will be on exhibit at the mineral show here this week end.

It is estimated that the "egg" believed to be filled with agate, weighs at least two tons.

Last year, a Prineville resident, Homer Williams, spotted a rounded outcropping when hunting in the McKay creek district. Only a small section was exposed, but it attracted his attention. Recently, Williams made another trip into the area, excavated into the hill and unearthed the massive "egg."

Yesterday, the thunderegg was loaded on a heavy-trailer and brought into Prineville.

Mel Crawford, president of the local mineral society, says there is a possibility that the "egg" may prove to be the most valuable ever brought out of the Ochoco hills.

HST's Condition Is Satisfactory

KANSAS CITY, Mo. (UP)—Former President Truman's post-operative condition was "very satisfactory" today, following removal of his gall bladder and appendix.

Telegrams ran into the thousands and long distance calls to Research Hospital defied immediate tabulation as well wishers around the nation sought to cheer the 70-year-old former chief executive during the first serious illness of his life.

Brig. Gen. Wallace Graham, who operated on the former President, visited Mr. Truman again this morning and made the "very satisfactory" report.

For Mr. Truman his sudden emergency trip to surgery was the first for major medical care. He suffered two gall bladder attacks while in the White House and one since returning home.
