REAL COOL SEAT, MAN—Don't complain about the cold—think of engineer Tom Tomlinson, who works in a 65-degree-below-zero "cold box." He's testing a new, simplified pilot's ejection seat at Republic Aviation's laboratory in Farmingdale, N. Y. The frosted dummy represents the average pilot's weight, and the seat is checked under various temperature and climatic conditions to make sure it will operate at all altitudes, in every part of the world. The new seat hugs the pilot, if necessary shoots him from the plane and opens chute for any parachute drop;
