Coaches Snap At New Rules

By UNITED PRESS
Disappointed college coaches took pot shots at the new basketball rules today, predicting a number of bad effects ranging from more zone defense to a waste of paint.

A vast majority of the coaches disliked at least some of the six new rules, which were passed by the National Rules Committee in disregard of recommendations made by the Coaches' Association. Only a small minority appeared pleased by all the rules.

The rules changes ranged from extending the bonus throw for the free throw lane from the present six to 12 feet. Under the old bonus rule, an extra free throw was awarded if a player sank his first effort during the first 37 minutes of the game. Two free throws were awarded automatically for fouls occurring in the final three minutes.

"Basketball is not progressing," complained famed Dr. Forrest C. (Phog) Allen of Kansas. "The game needs more balanced rules."

"Why, they're just messin' up the game," grumbled Ed Diddle of Western Kentucky. "Every gym floor in the country will have to be repainted."

Ken Loeffler of La Salle, who teaches law, summed up his feelings tersely: "A tremendous mistake."

Caterpillars Set Buchan Bakers

DENVER (UPI)—Darkhorse North Carolina State and the perennial powers see their first action today in the National AAU basketball tournament.

Phillips Oilers of Bartlesville, Okla., tangles with the Santa Maria, Calif., Golden Dukes in the first game of real consequence in the week-long tourney. The Oilers drew a first round bye and the Dukes tripped the Mt. Morris, Ill., Kolts 74-57 last night.

The Peoria, Ill., Caterpillars like the Oilers, members of the National Industrial Basketball League and pre-tourney favorites, also were idle during the first round. They meet the Buchan Bakers of Seattle, Wash., at 5:30 p.m.

North Carolina State, the nation's fourth ranking college team, will get their first test in the AAU tourney against the older competition of the current meet playing Hope Wuthnow of Hope, Kan. The collegians figure to win and are given a fair chance to go all the way in the tourney.

In other games today and tonight, the San Francisco Olympic Club plays the Akron, Ohio, Good-year Wingfoots of the NIBL; the Artesia, N.M., Travelers of the NIBL meet Gregory Clothiers of Greeley, Colo.; the Denver Central Bankers of the NIBL play the U.S. Marine Champions, and the ADA Oilers of the NIBL play Luclett-Nix of Boulder, Colo.

There were no upsets in the final games of the first round yesterday, although Kirby Shoes of Los Angeles had to hustle to whip the collegians playing for the Utah Hi-Hats 71-62.

The Marines, from Quantico, Va., used their second team most of the way in trouncing St. Ag-

Benson Winner In High Hurdles

Dean Benson, ex-Lava Bear and now a junior at Willamette university, Salem, won the 70-yard high hurdles for the second year at the annual Washington State college invitational indoor track meet Saturday at Pullman, Wash.

Benson's time was 8.9 seconds, the same as last year. He did not enter the low hurdles.

Benson is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Byron Benson, Bend.

Students Take Aptitude Tests

Five Bend high school seniors today participated in the National Honor Society scholarship project by taking a general aptitude test.

Local students in this nationwide competition sponsored by the National Association of Secondary School Principals are Earl Corbett, Shirley Edmison, Larry Mize, Lynn Schrock and Gail Thompson.

Miss Cecilia O'Leary and Miss Mary Bugar are advisers of the Bend chapter of the National Honor Society.

Local relatives include a brother-in-law, George L. Roberts, and a sister-in-law, Mrs. Lester Dodson. Another sister-in-law, Mrs. Jennie Allgood, White Swan, Wash., is visiting in Bend.

ARE THINGS HUMMING AT YOUR HOUSE?—Here's a little guessing game each householder can play. It's called How Many Motors? Think you know your house well? Okay, write down on a slip of paper an estimate of how many electric motors you own. A warning—the elusive little things are hard to bring to mind. So mechanized is the American home that most have at least 20. Mrs. Frederick Frost of Pittsburgh guessed high and said 38. There were eight in the kitchen dish washer, blender, clock, mixer, refrigerator, range timer, ventilating fan and garbage disposal unit. Elsewhere in the house she had: two air conditioners, furnace blower, electric fans, vacuum cleaners, deep freeze, washer-dryer, ironer, sewing machine, record player, hair dryer, vibrator, movie projector, electric razor, electric drill, additional clocks, a garage door opener, the starter motor, windshield wiper and heater in the car. Indians used to be rich in the number of ponies they owned, slaveholders by the number of slaves. In America the standard may be set by the number of electric motors.

Session Held By Postmasters

Special to The Bulletin
CHEMULT — Pending Congressional legislation affecting the Post Office department was reviewed by Mrs. Irvin Horn, postmistress at Jennings Lodge and a director of the National Postmasters association, at a district meeting here Saturday.

Present were postmasters from Deschutes, Klamath, Lake Jackson and Crook counties. The luncheon meeting was held in the local Methodist church.

Featured speaker was P. L. Beckley, director of the regional counting office in Portland. Hostess for the meeting was Mrs. W. W. Smallwood, postmistress at Gilchrist. Mrs. Carl A. Waldon, postmistress at Oregon Technical Institute, presided.

The dinner was served by Mrs. Leslie Norlin, Mrs. John Andin and Mrs. Harold Crow and prepared by Mrs. Howard Snyder.

Word has been received by relatives in Bend of the death in Portland of Fred A. Matz.

Mr. Matz died Monday in a Portland hospital. He had been an employe of the U. S. Forest service and had spent several summers in the Deschutes forest surveying and supervising timber cruises.

Funeral services will be held tomorrow at 3 p.m. in the Pearson Mortuary in Portland.

Mr. Matz is survived by his wife, Emma, a son, Dr. Homer Matz, Ash Grove, Mo., and a daughter, Ida. Ida lives with her mother at the family home in Portland.

VALUABLE PIGGY
BOSTON — (UP) — When Joseph Malone, of Dorchester, reported to police that a burglar had stolen his piggy bank, no one became too excited. Not until Malone told them that the bank contained $200.

Shrine Club, Racing Group Join in Refurbishing Track

Special to The Bulletin
PRINEVILLE—Members of the Shrine-Madras Shrine club and the Central Oregon Racing association have joined to construct a grandstand and surface the three-eighths of a mile track at the Prineville speedway.

Volunteers from the two organizations hope to have the project completed by April 24 to open the spring and summer racing season in mid-Oregon.

The Shrine club will sponsor the events to be held each Sunday into September and to feature both stock car and modified car events.

A meeting of racing enthusiasts interested in sponsoring, building or driving an auto in the Sunday events has been scheduled for Thursday evening by the racing association. The meeting will be held at Parkey's barbership in Prineville and will begin at 8 p.m.

A variety of racing events is slated for the Prineville oval. Separate stock and modified car events are planned, with a total of eight events to be run each Sunday through the summer. Seated are four qualifying heats and separate trophy and main event races for stock cars and the souped-up modified cars.

Aside from improvement of the oval track and the construction of a grandstand, other work also has been undertaken by the sponsoring Shriners and the racing association.

A large parking area is being roadied adjacent the grandstand and concession booths are being built.

Drivers of cars in the races must be over 21-years-of-age under association rules. Youths of 18 and older, however, may sponsor a car and serve in the cars pits with parental consent.

Youth Captured Following Chase

PORTLAND (UP)—A youthful escapee from the Salem city jail was captured by Portland and Oswego police here early today after a 100-mile-an-hour chase.

The escapee, Wendell Franklin Holder, 18, was surrounded by police and recaptured after the car he was driving was forced to a halt in railroad yards at the foot of NW 4th Ave.

The chase began when Patrolman S. Starr Thurston, of Oswego, after hearing details of the escape on an all-points bulletin, stalked himself out on the Salem-Portland expressway.

When he saw the car streak by on the way north, Thurston gave chase and radioed ahead to Portland police. Two patrol cars joined the pursuit and the procession, punctuated by gunfire, screamed through city streets.

Holder, after his capture, said he escaped through a window. Jail bars had been opened, police said, but no other details were available. A companion in the escape was captured earlier in Salem.

The escape took place at about 11:30 p.m.

LOW BIDDER
PORTLAND (UP)—Midland Constructors, Inc., Huntington Park, Calif., was apparent low bidder at $138,772 for clearing and constructing the Forest Grove - Tillamook 115-kv transmission line, Gales Creek-Lee's Camp substation, according to the Bonneville Power Administration.

Strasser Could Prove Headache For W. Germany

(A UNITED PRESS EXTRA)
By CHARLES M. MCCANN
United Press Staff Correspondent
Oito Strasser, who once was Adolf Hitler's bitterest enemy, is likely to become enemy No. 1 of the West German Republic before long.

Strasser has just managed to get back to Germany after 22 years in exile.

He had been trying to get back ever since the end of World War II. For years, Allied and German authorities, who regard him as political menace, refused him admittance.

But last November, Strasser finally won a long court fight to get himself declared a German citizen—the Nazis had deprived him of his citizenship in 1934—and there was no longer any legal way to keep him out of the country.

Party Already Waiting
So Strasser went back to Germany from Canada, where he had been living since 1941.

Strasser arrived back in Germany last week with a ready-made extreme right-wing political party awaiting him.

He had organized the "League For German Revival," and kept in touch with it, in correspondence with his supporters in Germany during his years of exile on a farm near Bridgetown, Nova Scotia.

Strasser took back with him some ambitious plans. He announced he would work for the unification of Germany and for the restoration of all the territory it lost as the result of the war.

Germany, he said, should become an "armed neutral," aligned neither with the Western Allies nor with Russia.

An "Armed" Neutral
"We need armed neutrality," he said. "A neutrality not linked with either Wall Street or the Kremlin but one which would cooperate strongly with Sweden and Switzerland."

As a one-time Socialist, Strasser still believes in state ownership. But Strasser says he now is a "solidarist."

"Solidarism," he explained, "is basically opposed to Marxism as well as to capitalism. I reject Marxism, centralism and bureaucracy."

It was with meaningless gibberish that Hitler worked himself into power. What Strasser really wants to do is to build up an extremist movement in hope that some day he can grab power as Hitler did.

Inspection Set For CAP Group

Oregon staff officers of the Civil Air Patrol will make their semi-annual inspection of the Bend squadron Thursday evening, Pat Gibson, squadron commander, has announced.

The officers will fly in Thursday evening and expect to arrive at 7:30, in a USAF C-45 piloted by Capt. George Ramsdell of the Air Force.

Staff officers tentatively scheduled to make the inspection are Col. Kenneth Jordan, Oregon commander; Major Charles Chicks and Capt. Kroener, all from the Oregon wing headquarters in Portland.

The inspecting officers will attend the regular weekly meeting and inspect equipment and personnel and review activities of the local squadron.

Immediately following the inspection, the officers will return to their headquarters in Portland.

City-Owned Property Sale Approved by Commissioners

A new motion authorizing sale of a city owned lot on E. 3rd between the Game Commission office and the city pump house to Lawrence Clausen was given unanimous approval at a special meeting of the city commission yesterday afternoon.

Recinded was an earlier motion authorizing the sale with a provision that the city not relinquish title until construction "of substantial nature" was made on the property.

The motion approved yesterday at the meeting held in the city manager's office provides that Clausen need only undertake "substantial improvement" of the property before the deed is issued.

Clausen objected to the original motion because he plans to develop the lot not for building purposes but for a parking lot and entrance way to lots he intends for a motel.

Clausen's offer of $1800 for the lot was accepted by the commission at its last regular meeting a week ago. Price remained unchanged in the amended version of the sale motion.

Under terms of the motion a contract will be issued to Clausen that will provide for the issuance of a deed should he complete improvements specified by the commission within a year.

The improvements, under the motion made by Commissioner W. M. Loy, must meet with commission approval. But it was also clear that paving and surfacing the lot for parking purposes would be considered acceptable improvement.

Also included in the motion was provision for right of easement for the city for pipes and other connections running to the pump house on the corner of E. 3rd and Clay.

It was reported that Clausen has immediate plans for the construction of a combination office and gift shop building along the lot. The structure would be backed against the Game Commission office.

Clausen is owner of the Mid-get Drive-In, adjacent to the commission office to the south.

Raised for brief discussion at the short meeting was the zoning problem along the northern highway approaches to the city.

Commissioner Vernon W. Larson said he heartily favors the commission's recommendation to the planning commission that it study setting up a commercial zone along the north highway. Larson was absent from the meeting of the commission at which the recommendation was made and approved.

Larson quoted a recommendation of the 15-member advisory commission on planning, suggesting "more liberal use of highways" and urged that the planning commission make a proposal for highway rezoning "if it would fit future plans."

He suggested that the recommendation might be forthcoming before completion of current master plan studies.

Mayor Hans Slagsvold indicated that the planning commission might prefer to wait and submit a package zoning proposal instead of recommending piecemeal changes.

Larson praised the planning commission for doing "a fine job" but said "it should be far enough along with its studies to make some recommendations."
