WHAT THE...?—Rufus Stuart, of Greenville, Tex., scratches his head over why anyone would steal the motor from his plane and leave the rest. The thieves simply sawed the motor from its supports, clipped all wiring and tubing connecting it to the fuselage, carried the 200-pound motor some 100 feet to a vehicle, returned and got the propeller and scrambled. "Might as well have taken the whole works," says Stuart. EXCLUSIVE NEA PHOTO.
