Men, Machines Fight to Even Draw on TV

NEW YORK (UP) — The men and the machines fought it out to an even draw on TV Tuesday night.

All three networks were plugged in up to the chin for coverage of the elections. Commentators and technicians threaded their way through a maze of electronic wonders that gobbled up information, digested it and spewed it out for homeviewers. Univac, the pride of the CBS stable, called the election some 45 minutes before CBS-TV even went on the air. At that time, based on the first scattered returns, the 6,000 tube brain tabbed President Eisenhower a shoo-in. It was' posting odds of 100-1 in favor of Mr. Eisenhower's reelection.

No Predicting NBC-TV had a super-brain working for it, too—the IBM 705, a machine so large it had to be tethered in a separate room in midtown Manhattan. It was used for computing—NBC-TV commentator Chet Huntley announced early in the game that NBC-TV would not do any predicting.

ABC-TV, with the aid of its Elecom 125, a $325,000 crystal ball got into the predicting business along with CBS-TV's Univac. Some 25 minutes after ABC-TV went on the air, Elecom 125 announced: "It looks like less than 100 electoral votes for Stevenson."

But those were only part of the gadget story. NBC worked out a transcontinental electronic system in harness with the wire services that enabled it to feed regional data into banks of 114 IBM machines around the nation. There were 28 additional IBM machines in the New York studios.

The information collected was fed into teletypewriter boards some 50 feet long for viewers, the same sort of boards used by stock brokers in displaying quotations.

Plug Pulled CBS-TV beamed its computations over an 80-foot tabulating board which gave a running picture of 165 key contests. Eight "recap" boards summarized the situation in the voting for the presidency and congress.

ABC-TV flashed its returns over two "Volotainers," new electronic reporting machines built especially for the network.

Crook County Right Again

WASHINGTON (UP)—The eight weathervane counties were right again in the presidential election, as they have been in every presidential election since 1896.

The eight counties, scattered from New Hampshire to Oregon, rode the Eisenhower landslide in the same uncanny way they have been riding a presidential winner ever since William McKinley.

Here is how the eight voted Tuesday according to nearly complete returns:

- Coos County, N.H.—Eisenhower, 11,465; Stevenson, 5,871.
- Stratford County, N.H.—Eisenhower 15,299; Stevenson, 9,619.
- Palo Alto County, Iowa—Eisenhower, 3,128; Stevenson, 3,073.
- Jasper County, Iowa—Eisenhower, 8,282; Stevenson, 6,144.
- Albany County, Wyo.—Eisenhower, 3,852; Stevenson, 3,043.
- Laramie County, Wyo.—Eisenhower, 7,975; Stevenson, 6,830.
- Vanderburg, Ind.—Eisenhower, 41,359; Stevenson, 38,844.
- Crook County, Ore.—Eisenhower, 769; Stevenson, 651.

Three Charged With Vagrancy

Three men were arrested by city police on the charge of vagrancy last night behind the roundhouse near the railroad tracks. They were John Perkusich, 64, of Pasco, Wash.; Malachy Reid, 54, of Las Vegas, N.M.; and Warren Z. Haines, 46, of Dodgeville, Wis.

William I. Glendenen, 53, of Baker, asked a policeman for shelter so that he could "get out of the cold." He was placed in the city jail and informed a vagrancy charge would be placed against him.

Robert D. Jensen, 18, of 444 Scott street, was cited last night by police for excessive noise in driving his car.

Blanche L. Cook, of 1436 Jacksonville avenue, was cited for driving a car with no tail light.

William R. Hatch, 19, of 1022 Hill street, was cited for the use of an illegal muffler.

FIRST FLYING The Stars and Stripes first was flown over an American man-of-war at Portsmouth N. H., on July 4, 1777. The ship was the famous Ranger, which was commanded by John Paul Jones.

Text of Ike's Victory Talk At GOP Headquarters Given

WASHINGTON (UP) — Text of President Eisenhower's victory statement made at Republican headquarters early today:

Mr. Chairman, Mr. Vice President, my very good friends in this audience and everywhere in the United States to whatever areas my voice reaches:

This is a solemn moment. The only thing I should like to say about this campaign is this: It is a very heart-warming experience to know that your labors—your efforts—of four years have achieved that level where they are approved by the United States of America in a vote.

Such a vote as that cannot be merely for an individual. It is for principles and ideals for which that individual and his associates have stood and have tried to exemplify.

To all the people of the United States who have understood what the administration—the Republican party—has been trying to do in these past four years, and consequently have worked so hard for the reelection of that administration, my most grateful thanks.

The only thing I can say to all the people—all the Americans who have voted that ticket which puts us back into the same positions

Demonstrators Enter Embassy

LUXEMBOURG (UP) — Shouting and chanting demonstrators invaded the Soviet embassy here Tuesday night and threw furniture and dishes of caviar through the windows, police reported today.

Some 5,000 demonstrators gathered in the center of the city and marched to the Soviet embassy carrying banners protesting the Russian invasion of Hungary.

FIRST FLIGHT First known balloon flight took place in 1782, when Jacques and Joseph Montgolfier, of Annonay, France, sent up a small smoke-filled balloon.

of any accident of power of station, of race, religion, or color.

And if we cling to these ideals, if we uphold them, if we fight for them, then I say: Republicans deserve then, the vote of confidence that Republicans, friendly Democrats and independents, have given us this day.

My friends, I conclude with a pledge: With whatever talents the good God has given me, with whatever strength there is within me, I will continue—and so will my associates—to do just one thing: to work for 168 million Americans here at home—and for peace in the world.

Lions Hear Talk By Orde Pinckney

"Elections of Yesteryear" was the topic of Orde S. Pinckney, Central Oregon College history and political science instructor, Tuesday noon in a talk before Bend Lion club members.

The luncheon session was held at the Pine Tavern with Farley J. Elliott, club president, in charge. Don Pence, COC director, was program chairman.

Pinckney grouped the presidents in the order of their greatness and touched on the stature of those who preceded and followed 1840, year when availability of presidential talent became a factor.

The mounting cost of presidential elections was mentioned by the COC instructor. He said the cost of the 1920 election was around $6 million dollars, compared with a $50 million dollar cost for the 1952 election. And, he noted, the actual cost of the 1952 election was possibly three times the given figure.

Part of the meeting was devoted to a discussion of club business, with mention that the Lions' international convention in 1957 will be in San Francisco.
