

Welcome To The Deschutes County

PARTNERS IN Industrial Forestry

The men who till the soil are also the biggest owners of American timber. Their combined timber acreage is almost as much as the lumber industry and public agencies combined.

Timber is a crop, we can grow it, harvest it and grow it again and again. As time goes by, it has become more of a farm crop. Alert farmers utilizing this opportunity for profit are becoming tree farmers, too, by managing and protecting their timberlands for continuous harvest of trees.

A true partnership between farmers who grow trees, forest industries who transform wood into many useful products, and the public which needs the thousands of things that are made from wood.

WE SALUTE THE 38th Annual Deschutes County Fair

We are continually planning for the future with controlled operations on a sustained yield basis. We have learned the value of crops . . . and timber is a crop, too.
