Dr. Tobias Heart Victim At K. Falls

Victim of a sudden heart attack suffered Monday when driving from Lakeview to Klamath Falls, Dr. Kenneth Tobias, 55, secretary of the Conservative Baptist Association of Oregon, died in Klamath Falls yesterday evening.

He was pastor of the First Baptist Church in Bend from 1943 to 1948.

Dr. Tobias had been in the Lakeview area Monday, assisting in organizing a branch of the Conservative Baptist Church in the community just west of Goose Lake. It was while he was driving toward Klamath Falls, en route to Portland, that he was stricken. Death occurred in the Klamath Falls hospital Monday about 4:30 p.m.

A native of Waller, Lane county, Dr. Tobias was a graduate from the University of Oregon school of law. He entered the ministry following his graduation, and for some 20 years was with the American Sunday School Union.

Dr. Tobias came to Bend from Eugene in 1943. He had served as assistant to Dr. Vance Webster of the First Baptist Church in the Lane county city. He also served the Veneta church in Lane county.

Surviving Dr. Tobias are his wife, Eva; one son, Robert Tobias of Eugene, and two daughters, Mrs. Harold Muncy, Portland, and Mrs. Robert Hall, who is with her husband as a missionary in Argentina.

The family home was in Salem. Funeral services have been tentatively set for 2 p.m. Thursday, with the Hall-Edwards Funeral Home, Salem, in charge.

The body was being taken by Klamath Falls to Salem today by the Niswonger & Winslow Funeral Home, Bend, with Dr. G. W. Winslow making the trip.

Phone Directory Distribution Set

New telephone directories for Pacific Telephone's customers in the Bend area are to be placed in the mail January 28, Manager Jack Kerron said today.

Continuing the pictorial cover idea started with last year's directory, the cover of the 1958 book has a picture showing a rider on horseback and the North and Middle Sisters Peaks in the background. The cover is reproduced in brown with a leatherette design printed on it.

Almost 7,400 directories will be sent in the mail delivery, Kerron said. That's about 300 more than last year, about 5,800 to Bend residents, 190 to Gilechrist, 75 to LaPine and 1,300 to Madras.

The directory is composed of four sections. The first section has 33 pages of Bend alphabetical listings. The second section has 159 pages of yellow-page classified listings. The last two sections contain 43 pages of alphabetical listings for Prineville, Madras, Gilechrist, LaPine and other nearby communities.

Over 3,500 pounds of paper were used to reproduce the 2,208,000 pages in the 11,500 directories printed this year. Extra copies not sent in the first delivery are kept at the business office for new customers and replacement of worn out directories.

Telephone company customers at Prineville will receive directories with the same contents but with a different cover. The Prineville cover is printed in green and bears a picture of a Fall Roundup scene.

Woman's Death Is Investigated

PORTLAND (UP)—Police today launched an investigation into circumstances surrounding the death of Mrs. Bessie Vivian Hammonds, 55, an apartment house manager, whose body was found in her apartment last Monday with the belt of her bathrobe knotted about her neck.

An autopsy was to be performed. Police said the body was found by Alvin M. Martin, 46, about 4:45 p.m. Deputy Coroner Tony Wald said the woman apparently died sometime between noon and 2 p.m. Monday.

Officers said the woman was lying on her back between a davenport and an overturned coffee table. A figurine on the coffee table had been smashed and an ashtray knocked to the floor.

Police said they were told $36.85 in cash which had been in the apartment house "rent book" was missing.

The coroner's office said cause of death was not determined until an autopsy. There were marks on the woman's throat.

Princess Judy Pipes Little Girl With Big Personality

(Editor's Note: This interview with Judy Pipes is the second in a series introducing members of the court for the third annual Bend Winter Carnival, to be held Jan. 25 and 26 at the Skyline's playground. Other court members are Betty Barnett, Marjorie Sell and Carol Turner. A queen will be selected from the group on a basis of ticket sales. She will be crowned at the annual Sno-Ball Saturday night at the Pilot Butte Inn.)

Doll-sized Judy Pipes, a little girl with a big personality, is sponsored by the Bend Jaycees in the Winter Carnival queen contest. Popular and poised, Judy has won recognition before for her comeliness and charm. She was a football princess in 1956, a homecoming princess in 1957, and a princess for the high school Cotton Ball last spring.

Judy is a junior in high school, and English is her favorite subject. She belongs to the Pep Club, International Relations League, Future Teachers of America and the Pilot Butte Inn.

The petite princess, just 5 feet 3 inches tall and weighing 108 pounds, has a hand-span waistline measuring only 22 inches. The tape measure tells a shapely story, recording 35 inches for bust and hips.

The dainty miss, youngest of the court members, is 16 and a native of Seattle. She and her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Darrel Pipes of 1106 E. Sixth Street, and sister Fran- cise, now 19, have been Bend residents 10 years. Pipes is owner of Deschutes Beverage Company. Fran- cise is a student at Marylhurst College.

Judy has dark brown hair and brown eyes. Black and red figure prominently in her wardrobe, and she prefers tailored clothes.

Skating, both on snow and water, are favorite diversions, and she also enjoys horseback riding, mountain climbing and exercising on the trampoline. She loves to dance, and collecting jazz and popular records is her No. 1 hobby.

Snow sports have provided many pleasant relationships for the little princess. She "went steady" with Marvin Moriarty, an Olympic skier, now on the F.I.S. team in Europe. She recalls as a "big thrill" running into Toni Sailer at Mount Hood.

After high school, Judy plans to enroll at Oregon State College.

The arrival of the medicine climaxed a dramatic sequence of events triggered by the boy's admission to hospital.

Hospital authorities immediately phoned the New York Poison Control Center for a dose of the drug, just recently developed.

Eastern Flight 54, scheduled to leave at 11:45 p.m., was held for an hour, for the arrival of Grennan.

Through the roll call period, Oregon ANA members are contacting prospective members to tell them about the association's continuing work in behalf of the well-being of nurses and for the protection of the health of people in the state, according to Clarice Cox, R.N., president of the district.

Representative Grubb reports good crowds at all stops, with considerable interest shown. Stops were at LaGrande, Baker, Ontario, John Day, Burns, Lakeview, Klamath Falls, and at a wildlife convention at Corvallis.

The proposed abolishment of the State Board of Liquor Control by Holmes also drew fire from the COP candidate, as did the governor's "attempted muzzling of the State Game and Fish Commission."

Unander asserted that Oregon's present narrow tax base had put the state in an unfavorable position with other states in attracting new industry. He pointed out that the "home grown Jantzen woolen industry resorts to warehousing in Washington because of the unfriendly tax situation in Oregon."

Red Missile Bases Said Being Built

LONDON (UP)—The Soviet Union is building seven missile bases in Bulgaria and Albania to "cover" NATO's sensitive southeastern flank and the Mediterranean, diplomatic dispatches from Athens reported today.

The sources said five bases for guided missiles are being constructed in Bulgaria and two more in Albania, the smallest of the Russian satellites.

Experts said missiles from these bases not only could cover the Mediterranean but could strike into part of North Africa where the United States has a number of important air bases.

The reports on Russian missile activities came from Greece which is in a good position to cover activities in Bulgaria and Albania. Other sources independently made similar reports.

The Soviet was reported to have dispatched a large number of experts to both countries to supervise establishment of the bases and to train personnel in use of the new weapons.

Indications the bases were strictly a Soviet affair but camouflaged as a mutual defense arrangement under terms of the Warsaw pact. Diplomatic experts here said the strategic value of the bases was of great importance to Moscow and a development which the West could not ignore.

The development was expected to be taken fully into account when the NATO military committees make their final recommendations shortly for the establishment of American missile bases in Europe.

Rare Drug Rushed to Montreal Boy

MONTREAL (UP)—An Eastern Airlines mercy flight landed here early today with a half-ounce vial of a rare drug doctors needed in their fight to save the life of a 4-year-old boy critically ill from an overdose of sleeping tablets.

The plane, whose scheduled departure from New York's LaGuardia Airport was delayed for an hour so the megalin drug could be placed aboard, landed at Montreal's Dorval Airport shortly before 3 a.m. e.s.t.

Dr. Andre Soucy, who is treating the youngster, Donald Teasdale, met the plane, and rushed back to St. Justine Hospital with the vial.

Soucy said the boy had received "two of the fifteen doses needed to effect complete recovery."

"He is improving," Soucy said, "but we will not know until medication is completed if it is a success. The boy is still unconscious, and we can only give him small doses because of his age."

The doctor could supply no information as to how the child received the sleeping tablets, but said he was sure it was accidental.

The arrival of the medicine climaxed a dramatic sequence of events triggered by the boy's admission to hospital.

Hospital authorities immediately phoned the New York Poison Control Center for a dose of the drug, just recently developed.

Ike Pledges He Will Take Personal Charge Of Modernizing U. S. Defense Department

CHICAGO (UP)—President Eisenhower pledged Monday night he will take personal charge of modernizing the Defense Department and promised America will grow "ever stronger" against the threat of Soviet Russia.

The President fired the opening gun of this year's GOP congressional campaign before 5,408 Republicans gathered here for a nationally televised $100-a-plate dinner speech.

The President told his fellow Republicans to fight Democrats for control of Congress this fall by standing "proudly and erectly" on the record of his administration.

Modernization Necessary
Eisenhower drew a rousing cheer when he said "a prompt and effective modernization of our Defense Department is necessary."

He then departed from his prepared text to add: "In this, I intend to participate personally until the job is done." Presidential press secretary James G. Hagerity said he expects the President to send to Congress soon his plans for reorganizing the Defense Department.

The President's address in the flag-draped, spotlighted International Amphitheater celebrated the fifth anniversary of his inauguration. And the scene was at times as loud and uproarious as the GOP convention of 1952 when Eisenhower was nominated at the amphitheater for his first presidential campaign.

The President's speech was part of a nationwide fund-raising effort by the Republicans. The President appeared on radio and television along with a number of other speakers, including Vice President Richard M. Nixon, who spoke from New York, and GOP National Chairman Meade Alcorn, who spoke from the Amphitheater here, working from a teleprompter.

Injects Fighting Phrases
The President's prepared text was a rather soft-pedaled political call to battle. But he departed from the text frequently to inject fighting phrases into his remarks.

In his prepared address, the President advised against turning the achievement of national security and a just peace into a "partisan or political" matter in this year's by-election.

"Americans must never and will never let the issue of security and peace become a pawn in anyone's political chess game," he said.

But as he delivered the speech, he added a long interpolation attacking those who would picture America as weak in an era of Russian scientific and weapons advances.

"Don't pay any attention to the pessimists—those people who, for reasons of their own, contend that America is fearful, America is weak."

"Let's throw back our shoulders and stand proudly erect," he continued. "Let's thrust out our chin and say: America is strong and will grow ever stronger as long as there is any danger of attack upon us or our allies."

Eisenhower drew loud cheers when he told of his plans to personally push reorganization of the Defense Department.

"The American people rightly expect their government will keep the nation's defense strong," Eisenhower said. "These defenses are strong: They command the respect of all the world, friendly and unfriendly."

In newly released testimony, Defense Secretary Neil H. McElroy said the U. S. is considering deployment of 1,500-mile intermediate range ballistic missiles in the Far East. He did not say where or when.

Nimitz, still ruffly-faced and erect at 72, testified before the Senate Preparedness Subcommittee which is studying Defense Department reorganization.

While with the fleet, Nimitz said, he often had "a sense of frustration" while waiting for decisions to arrive from Washington. He felt that it would be better to have a single commander rather than the joint chiefs set-up.

Fight Shaping Over Plans For Shake-up

WASHINGTON (UP)—The House Appropriations Committee today voted all of the $1,260,000,000 in extra cash asked by President Eisenhower to speed missile and other defense programs.

At the same time it boosted from 110 million to 150 million dollars the authority he asked to shift funds from one defense program to another to exploit any unexpected weapons breakthroughs.

House approval appeared certain by Thursday at the latest. Meanwhile, Congress headed into a battle over President Eisenhower's promised shake-up of the Defense Department. The President declared Monday night he will personally boss "prompt and effective modernization" of the department. The White House said Congress will get his reorganization plan "fairly soon."

Both the Army and Air Force were reported rushing their own blueprints to weld the three services into a single command unit. And today a retired naval hero, Fleet Adm. Chester W. Nimitz, recommended that the Joint Chiefs of Staff be streamlined to put them in closer touch with the President. But he said he is against the general staff idea.

Far East Missiles
In other developments: —Army Secretary Wilber M. Brucker told the House Armed Services Committee the Army is modifying two Jupiter-C missiles to launch scientific satellites. He also said the Army wants a program to launch large reconnaissance and mapping satellites "of great military value." He added that the Army is "developing hardware" for the Nike-Zeus anti-missile missile.

Contacts With President
But his later experience as a member of the joint chiefs changed his mind, Nimitz said, and he now opposes the general staff concept. But he thinks the joint chiefs could be improved, he said, by having them rotate in the post of chairman from time to time rather than having a separate chairman as is now the case.

With the service chiefs taking turns as top spokesman, he added, they could become better acquainted with the President.

Nimitz noted that the President as commander-in-chief has final responsibility for making policy.

Need for Funds Noted by Officials Of Polio Unit

Polio officials speaking before the Bend Kiwanis Club Monday emphasized the continuing need for funds in caring for persons already afflicted with the disease.

Sharing the program were Mrs. George Ray, chairman of the Deschutes county chapter of the National Foundation for Infantile Paralysis, and Dr. Joe Witzer, chairman of the current March of Dimes campaign.

Despite the great success of Salk vaccine, it was noted, funds are still badly needed in caring for those who contracted polio before the discovery of the preventative serum. Some of these unfortunate victims live in Deschutes county and will be benefited by local contributions.

Following short talks by Mrs. Ray and Witzer, a film on infantile paralysis was shown. The luncheon meeting was held at the Pine Tavern.
