Payment halts sale by sheriff

A sheriff's sale to satisfy a personal property tax judgment against Jack Robinson, a Bend contractor, was stopped just before the scheduled time for the sale this morning. Robinson, through his attorney, paid $116.27, the balance of the judgment, plus $14.73 interest.

The judgment was partly satisfied March 20, when Sheriff Forrest C. Sholes applied a check for $1,921.81 to a bill for delinquent 1956-57 personal property taxes. The check was received by the sheriff March 18, following execution of an order for garnishment of Robinson's bank account.

Settlement of the judgment is the latest development in a tax controversy which came to light March 16, when Robinson, claiming no responsibility for a personal property judgment and property lien filed against him, filed suit in circuit court against Sheriff Sholes, tax collector, and Deschutes county.

The complaint charges that the personal property on which taxes for the 1956-57 tax year were delinquent were owed by Jack Robinson Contractor, Inc., not by Jack Robinson as an individual. Assessment of the personal property was in the amount of $48,180, for which the tax was $3,326.77.

Elements of 2 big unions are seen up to something

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The word from California is that elements of the unions headed by James R. Hoffa and Harry Bridges are up to something.

On the basis of their records, when all or any parts of the Hoffa and Bridges unions are up to something, that something becomes a matter of general and, perhaps, urgent citizen interest.

Hoffa is the pint-sized head of the International Brotherhood of Teamsters. Bridges is boss of the International Longshoremen's and Warehousemen's Union. Hoffa, Bridges and their unions have in common the experience of having been bounced out of big labor. The Longshoremen were expelled in 1950 by the Congress of Industrial Organizations.

The charge against Bridges and his union was that they followed Communist rather than CIO policies. Bridges has been cited endlessly as a notable fellow traveler. Hoffa and the teamsters were expelled from the combined AFL-CIO after the union's general operating policies were exposed by Senate investigators.

The AFL-CIO objected primarily to the link between the teamsters top men and notorious racketeers. From San Francisco it is reported that West Coast elements of the two maverick unions are planning to set up a 10-member joint committee to deal with common problems; Elmer O. Mohr, head of the Teamsters Western Conference, said the proposed committee would deal strictly with waterfront problems, that there was no intention to undertake joint bargaining with employers.

"The fact is," Mohr said, "that our guys (of both unions) are working in daily contact on and off the docks. There are two ways to settle jurisdictional and other problems — beat hell out of the other guy or settle."

Importance of joint action by the Teamsters and Longshoremen, even if limited to the West Coast, lies in the fact that these unions, by their nature, enjoy extraordinary economic control in any area in which either is fully organized and operating.

FINAL STOCKS Market makes good showing

NEW YORK (UPI) — Stocks came to life today in moderate trading.

Profit taking and selling to raise cash for tax purposes hit some issues but the market on balance made its best showing in more than a week.

The drugs, chemicals, and electronics were among the strongest groups. Tires were firm on the outlook for an early settlement of the strike now curtailing operations in that industry.

The market received a boost from a prediction that DuPont's first quarter earnings may run 70 per cent ahead of a year ago. That issue ran up more than 4 points before running into some resistance. Allied Chemical was up around 2 and Union Carbide and Thiokol around a point each.

In the drug group, American Home Products was up more than 4 at its high. Bristol-Myers added better than 2 and gains of a point or more appeared in Pfizer and Warner Lambert. Vick Chemical lost a gain of more than 3 on profit taking.

Texas Instruments rose more than 3 and Ampex more than 2 in the electronics. Zenith eased under the weight of realizing of profits. Ford was firm and active in a mixed auto section.
