

Kentucky has NCAA chance after upset win

By United Press International

The cynics were ready to bury Adolph Rupp, but the Kentucky Baron and his band of Wildcats are showing lots of fight now that the college basketball season has reached the countdown stage.

Kentucky nipped Vanderbilt, 61-58, Tuesday night on a spinning jump shot by Ned Jennings with 11 seconds to play. The victory pushed the Wildcats into a third-place tie with Vanderbilt in the Southeastern Conference and, more important, enhanced their hopes for a berth in the NCAA tournament.

Although Mississippi State is expected to win the Southeastern Conference title and an automatic bid to the NCAA, it is believed the Maroons will pass up the invitation because of segregation problems. Florida is currently in second place with an 8-3 record, but it must play at Vanderbilt on Saturday.

Kentucky, four-time winner of the NCAA, failed to qualify for the tournament in 1960 for the first time in seven years and prospects seemed slim again this season until the upset victory over Vanderbilt.

The Wildcats have three conference games remaining — two of them at home — and those familiar with Rupp's record in 30 years at Kentucky wouldn't be surprised to see the Baron pull out another.

In other key games Tuesday that will have an effect on who's going where in the post-season tournaments, Texas Tech defeated Baylor, 98-81, Southern Methodist topped Texas A&M, 65-41, and Western Michigan beat Loyola of Chicago, 107-99.

Vanderbilt led Kentucky by six points at the half, 32-26, but the Wildcats bounced back to even the score at 38-all early in the second half. The lead changed hands several times after that before Jennings' clutch basket settled matters for good.

Sports Talk . . .

BY BILL THOMPSON

There's a new football field scheduled to be constructed just northeast of Bend High.

But grid coach Tom Winbigler is going on the theory that seeing is believing.

"We tried it the other way, and we weren't getting anywhere," Winbigler said. "And maybe it makes the upperclassmen work a little harder to gain their positions."

But Tom foresees other problems besides the ones surrounding the stadium for next fall.

"It's going to be a tough job replacing boys like Ron Carter, Gordon Hogland, Bill Pederson, Terry Johnson, Bud Sell, Harold Still and others," Winbigler said.

"Not only were they fine football players, but they were good leaders, too. They didn't look down on the younger players, they tried to help them."

One of Tom's chief problems will be finding a quarterback to replace departing Ron Carter, one of the inspirational leaders of last year's squad.

Candidates include Bobby Warrington, a sophomore understudy to Carter last fall; Jimmy Leageld, a good passer who saw action as a sophomore halfback last fall; and Harold Weathers, who quarterbacked Hoot Moore's freshman club.

Winbigler, who bosses the mat squad during the winter, says wrestling is one of the finest off-season sports for footballers.

"Besides building toughness and courage, wrestling is a fine conditioner and very good for developing that explosive strength needed in football," Winbigler said.

"But my prime worry is about the boys who aren't doing anything this winter," Winbigler said. "All types of athletics are good. The main thing is to compete and compete."

ACCEPT NCAA BIDS

WHEATON, Ill. (UPI)—Three more schools have accepted bids to compete in the NCAA college division basketball tournament, according to Harve Chrouser, chairman of the selection committee. The schools, increasing the number of teams committed for the tournament to 18, are McMurray College of Jacksonville, Ill.; Belmont-Abbey of Belmont, N.C.; and Chattanooga.

The Pendleton daylighter is doubtful, but the Redmond day game is apparently a sure thing. Success breeds interest, at least Tom has found that to be true after a good 7-3 season last fall.

"There's a new enthusiasm for football among the upcoming younger boys," Winbigler told us the other day. "Why the other night several freshman players stopped over at my house to discuss football. That never happened before."

Spots on next fall's squad are wide open, and there is no plan to restrict sophomores to junior varsity play.

"Every sophomore is a varsity player."

SIGN WITH RAIDERS

OAKLAND, Calif. (UPI)—Tackle Bob Voight, center Harrison Reese and halfback Clive Bullen have signed 1961 contracts to play for the Oakland Raiders of the American Football League.

Skyliners gain firsts at Hood

Two Bend Skyliners, Carol Francis and Caria Lawson, competed in the Skyente all women's ski races at Mt. Hood's Multop area last weekend.

Miss Francis was first in the junior novice division, while Miss Lawson, also a member of the University of Oregon ski club, was first in the women's class C division.

Miss Lawson also had fastest time of the day, and her name will be engraved on the perpetual Skyente Cup trophy.

The class C field included 17 competitors, while 10 raced in the junior novice division.

The races were run in a rain-storm.

'One-year wonders' — Drysdale

Pirate repeat doubted

By United Press International

The Pittsburgh Pirates open their spring training camp at Fort Myers, Fla., today with experts on all sides shouting that they'll never repeat their dramatic world championship victory of 1960.

Don Drysdale, a 15-game winner for the Los Angeles Dodgers last season, is the latest to voice his opinion that the Pirates were one-year wonders.

"The Pirates were awfully lucky against us last year," the 6-foot, 5-inch Dodger speedballer claimed. "I think we have a real good chance to take it all this time."

The Pirates have been hearing much the same thing since last October when they beat the New York Yankees in that dramatic seventh game on Bill Mazeroski's ninth-inning homer. Only a few weeks ago, first baseman Bill Skowron of the Yankees doubled the Pirates can win again and the Milwaukee Braves and San Francisco Giants are also brimming with confidence that 1961 will prove to be their year.

Seeks 20 Wins

Drysdale, hailed as a potential 20-game winner for the last few years, said he believes 1961 could be the year in which he finally makes it.

"First of all, I want the Dodgers to win the pennant," he said. "And second, I want to be a 20-game winner."

Drysdale had a 15-14 record and a 2.84 earned run average last season. He led the National League with 246 strikeouts in 269 innings and he had a 2-1 record in his season's dealings with the Pirates.

Willie McCovey, one of the Giants' biggest disappointments of 1960, checked into their Phoenix, Ariz., camp at 205-pounds — 25 fewer than the weight at which he reported last spring. McCovey hit .354 as a rookie in 1959 but then fell to .238 in 1960. He and pitcher Mike McCormick are the only Giants' regulars who have reached camp.

Bob Turley of the Yankees was sidelined when Dr. Sidney Gaynor diagnosed his ailment as an inflammation of the tonsils. Another Yankee infirmity case, as manager Ralph Houk sent his 35-man squad through a long drill at St. Petersburg, Fla., was Cletis Boyer, who has an ailing shoulder.

Praises Rookie

Houk had praise for Deron Johnson, a long-hall hitting, versatile player who may be platooned as an outfielder, first baseman and third baseman.

"I have to rebuild the bench strength," said Houk. "If Johnson can handle first base in addition to third, then I feel we have caught a weak spot."

On other fronts: Curt Simmons, who bounced back with a 7-4 record and 3.06 earned run average for the St. Louis Cardinals last season, signed his 1961 contract estimated at $30,000. Pitcher Larry Jackson was left as the only unsigned St. Louis player.

Frank Baumann, who posted a 13-6 record for the Chicago White Sox, signed for "a very substantial raise," according to the club. Baumann, 27, led the American League with a 2.69 E.R.A., pitched three shutouts and had seven complete games while appearing in 47 games.

Pitchers Jack Fisher and Billy Hoelt signed with the Baltimore Orioles, who have nine players missing from their Miami, Fla., camp because of transportation difficulties. Fisher is believed to have signed for $14,000 and Hoelt for $13,500.

Jockey eyes future despite big payoffs

By Oscar Fraley
UPI Staff Writer

HIALEAH, Fla. (UPI) — It is, to the little men of the race track, too often a matter of easy come, easy go.

A good one can earn $100,000 a year as a minimum. Take Saturday's Flamingo, at Hialeah, where in less than two minutes the winning jockey picks up a cool $8,000 as his 10 per cent of the estimated $80,000 for the first colt under the wire.

It came so fast to so many of them that they couldn't handle it.

Buddy Ensor, one of the best, rented mansions at Saratoga to throw parties. He wound up borrowing from his friends. Tod Sloane died broke. So did Laverne Factor. And Earle Sande, one of the immortals, has known grim, rider who leads the current Hialeah meeting and will be aboard the favored Carry Back in the Flamingo. He's making it big but it hasn't gone to his head and he has a cautious eye cocked to the future.

"I've seen men riding beside me one day and walking 'hots' the next," he says tightly. "I want more out of life than that."

Cascade sets 'King of Hill' bowling test

By Oscar Fraley
UPI Staff Writer

A weekly "King of the Hill" bowling match will get underway Sunday at the Cascade Bowling Lanes, manager Art Powers announced today.

The Sunday competition will last through April.

The men shooting the first and second-high series in league play this week will be invited to shoot a three-game series against each other Sunday at 1 p.m.

The Cascade Bowl will donate the bowling and $5 to the winner — plus $2.50 to the loser.

The winner each week will remain as King of the Hill, and meet the man shooting the highest series for the ensuing week.

The matches are patterned after weekly competition on "Portland Bowling" and nationally-televised tenpin shows.

Powers hopes to generate a lot of interest in the matches, and invites anyone interested in seeing some real top bowling to come down and watch the competition.

Current leaders are Art Cole, who shot a 638 series in Skyline League bowling Monday, and Virgil Mahaffey, who posted a 637 series in City League play Monday.

Sticks To Studies

Which is why Johnny Sellers, born in San Francisco and raised from infancy in Tulsa, Okla., at 24 is known as the world's oldest and richest high school student.

"I'm going to get my education," explains this night-time high school student. "Someday I hope to be a veterinarian."

Sellers, who at five feet, five inches is tall for race riding, cruet years of late.

But, says Johnny Sellers, it won't happen to him.

Johnny is the siletto-shaped doesn't have any weight problems but he looks at the future with a "you never know" attitude which speaks well for his probabilities.

"I started riding in quarter-horse races when I was 15 and trainer Harry Trotske gave me my start on Thoroughbreds," he recalls. "It wasn't easy. I rode almost 50 times before I got my first winner — and then I won it because the horse which finished ahead of me was disqualified."
