

Milwaukee test led by pair of 'hungry Texans'

MILWAUKEE (UPI) — Veteran Fred Hawkins and young Don Massengale, a pair of "hungry Texans," led the field with five-under-par 65's today at the start of the second round of the 72-hole, $30,000 Milwaukee Open golf tournament.

Hawkins, 37, El Paso, a consistent money-winner in previous years, shot a 30-35 and needed every bit of his front nine showing to tie Massengale, who finished with a flourish, getting birdies on the last three holes in Thursday's round.

Massengale, 24, Jacksboro, a former Texas Christian University star, who won the Texas State Amateur tournament and Southwest conference championship in 1958, traveled the 6,410-yard North Hills Country Club course in nines of 31 and 34.

Hawkins, a 15-year veteran, who usually wins about $22,000 a year, has only earned about $4,500 this year. Massengale, in his second year as a pro, has only earned about $1,700 this year.

Jacky Cupit, 23, Longview, Tex., the rookie professional sensation, who won last weekend's Canadian open, turned in a first round 66 to tie with Tommy Veech, 32, Milwaukee, who was playing his home course.

Bunched at 67 were Tommy Bolt, Crystal River, Fla., amateur Jack Nicklaus, 21, Columbus, Ohio; Paul Harney, Worcester, Mass., and Stan Leonard, Vancouver, B.C.

Fading Bevos beaten again by Vancouver

By Max Vanzi
UPI Staff Writer

The top three in the Pacific Coast League all were winners Wednesday night, Tacoma in a 2-1 pitchers' duel at San Diego, Seattle in a 16-1 hitting rampage at Spokane and Vancouver in a 10-6 smooth ride over Portland.

Salt Lake made it two in a row by defeating Hawaii 8-2 in other league action.

Ron Herbel battled Joel Horlen for seven innings then finished the game against another pitcher to take the win for Tacoma. It was the first complete game the 21-year-old righthander had pitched since mid-May and now he is credited with nine wins against four losses.

Horlean fanned seven Giants while he pitched, but Herbel sent down eight Padres by the same route. Tony Roig was Herbel's strikeout victim four times.

Hitting Spectacle

Tacoma's runs were scored in the third and fourth innings, the first one coming on a wild pitch, the game winner a home run by Bill Hain.

Spokane took the bombarding from Seattle in a marathon hitting spectacle that went nearly three and a half hours. Dave Mann started it with a home run in the first inning.

Man and Don Gile were in on the 18 hit slugfest more than anyone. Mann homered twice, scoring three, and Gile found nearly every vacant spot in the park, connecting for a single, a double and a triple. His bat work scored four. Lou Clinton got four hits, one a homer, so did Harry Malmberg.

Complete rout was averted when Spokane hitters found a couple of Ted Wills' pitches in the second that landed for doubles and the score.

Series Sweep

Vancouver made it three in a row over Portland for a series sweep. Winner Carl Greene had the Beavers pretty well outfoxed until the fifth when he walked four batters. A double play at that point, however, stopped the threat.

Judge's ruling may slow pace of armchair qb's

By United Press International

Sports officials were fearful today that a federal judge's ruling invalidating the National Football League's television contract could spread to college football and pro basketball.

And if this should happen, armchair quarterbacks and coaches will find slim pickings on their TV sets this year.

The NFL signed a $9,300,000 two-year contract with the Columbia Broadcasting System last April that granted the network exclusive rights to televise regular season games played by the league's 14 teams. Each team was to share equally in the TV income.

However, the pact was voided Thursday by United States District Court Judge Allan K. Grim in Philadelphia on the grounds that it violated anti-trust laws.

"By this agreement, the member (NFL) clubs... have eliminated competition among themselves in the sale of television rights to their games," Judge Grim's ruling said.

"Clearly, this restricts the individual clubs from determining from which areas the telecasts of their games may be made, since defendants (the NFL) have by their contract given to CBS the power to determine which games shall be telecast and where."

In previous years, several NFL clubs negotiated their own TV contracts with other networks.

Pete Rozelle, commissioner of the NFL, who personally negotiated the "package deal" with CBS at the direction of the league owners, also pointed out that the NFL contract with the network "is the same type that has been employed by other sports leagues and heretofore gone unchallenged."

Rozelle obviously was referring to the American Football League, with National Basketball Association and the NCAA — all of which have exclusive TV deals with networks.

Other college and professional sport officials declined to comment on Judge Grim's decision until they have had time to study it, but they were obviously worried about its possible ramifications.

Power house nearly finished

Pouring of concrete for an auxiliary power house for the county courthouse was completed yesterday. The building will be finished next week, and the generator will be installed about the first week in August.

This is the fourth such installation in the county made under the Civil Defense program. Cost of the new one will run a little over $10,000. County money is matched by the federal government.

The new installation could supply power for the courthouse in case of emergency. Like the other three, it will be used for Civil Defense base radio stations. In addition to the one in the courthouse, radio bases are located at the county road department shop, on Aubrey Butte and in the City of Redmond.

County share of the money for the power house at the courthouse is from the 1960-61 budget. The 12 x 12-foot building, of concrete and concrete block construction, is located under the overhang of the parking lot at the rear of the courthouse.

It was "beat-the-pro" day at the Bend Golf Club Thursday, but pro Ken Spence was just a little too hot.

Ken fired a 34-34 for a sizzling 68. Club members got the advantage of their full handicap, but Ken's score was still the best.

Some 32 players competed in the event.
