Big UN flag to be unfurled

PORTLAND (UPI)—One of the largest United Nations flags in the world will be unfurled in downtown Portland Tuesday morning in commemoration of United Nations Day.

The banner, measuring 40 by 60 feet, will be displayed during daylight hours through Saturday.

Mayor Terry Schrunk and other dignitaries will participate in U.N. Day ceremonies.

'Money tree' given Morse on birthday

BEAVERTON (UPI) — Sen. Wayne Morse celebrated his 61st birthday Friday, richer by "a money tree" he received from wellwishers at a birthday dinner here Thursday night.

The money tree, bearing bills for Morse's campaign fund, was presented at the annual Washington County Morse dinner.

Morse, looking a cheerful almost-61, was chief speaker at the $5-a-plate affair. He left afterwards by plane for the East Coast.

Democrats also presented Morse with a cake and some small gifts.

Morse, however, struck a serious note for his speech, with a report on his assessment of the 87th Congress.

"How about something to get a parent out of the one she's in?"

Objectives given for class on communism, democracy

By Douglas Gripp
UPI Staff Writer

SALEM (UPI)—A new democracy and communism class proposed for Oregon high school seniors has three objectives.

They are to teach a student to:

1. Be able to identify the "persistent social, economic and political problems of contemporary society and to examine alternative proposals for their solutions."

2. Understand responsibilities in the U.S. democracy and that the "continued existence of a democratic way of life is dependent upon the integrity of the individual."

3. Know and understand that "nations are interdependent and have responsibilities toward each other even though there are ideologies in the world that run counter to our national best interest."

This is spelled out in a teaching guide written by Robert L. Frantz and Wesley F. Johnson of Parkrose Senior High School. The proposal, strongly backed by Dr. Leon P. Minear, state superintendent of public instruction, will be sent next week for reaction from school officials and various patriotic groups.

Parkrose High may launch the democracy versus communism class in the current school year but it would be the next school year before most high schools in the state could get to it. It must be approved by the state education board.

Among other things, the guide suggests that students learn these things:

—How does the basic free enterprise system of America compare with the planned economy of Russia?

—What is the place of the individual in the economy of the U.S. and that of the USSR?

—What are the advantages and disadvantages of the two - party system compared to the one-party system?

The "idea" of teaching about communism and its pitfalls has been in the Oregon public school curriculum for years, Minear said. But now the program is leaning toward specifics — the workings of communism.

"We're getting specific now because it is more important for young people to know the dangers of communism," Minear said.

Is it dangerous to explain communism in the classrooms? No, says Minear.

"We have to make the assumption that we have good teachers," he said. "If not, we might as well close the schools. I think they are good, loyal, intelligent Americans and the material is safe in their hands."
