Anti-American outburst mars Kennedy visit

BANDUNG, Indonesia (UPI) — The first serious anti-American incident during Robert F. Kennedy's week-long visit to Indonesia was reported in Surabaya before the attorney general flew to Bandung today.

U.S. Embassy sources in Jakarta said the offices of the U.S. Information Service and the homes of the U.S. consul, U.S. vice consul and Japanese vice consul in Surabaya, 420 miles southeast of Jakarta, were simultaneously attacked Friday night by Indonesian demonstrators.

The sources said windows were smashed at the U.S. consulate building and the homes were damaged, but no injuries were reported.

The anti-American outburst in the east Java city marred Kennedy's otherwise pleasant visit to Indonesia. Except for a few sharp exchanges with Indonesian students and an egg that was thrown at him, the attorney general received a warm reception wherever he went in Indonesia.

The President's brother came by plane this morning to this west Java city. Kennedy's wife, Ethel, remained in Jakarta awaiting her husband's return later in the day for a visit to the site of the forthcoming Asian games and a news conference this evening.

Man perishes in strange fiery sacrifice

FREMONT, Calif. (UPI)—A 37-year-old civilian employe at the Alameda Naval Air Station offered himself up as a human sacrifice Friday.

Fred G. Flores set fire to his house and perished in the flames in a strange, silent ritual.

Officers said he tried to force his wife and five children at knife-point to join him. Failing, he dived into the fire and died.

Police were investigating reports that Flores had withdrawn the family's life savings and tossed the money into the flames that consumed him.

Although the Flores home—a six-room one-story residence—is located near a fire station, the department was not called until Flores was dead in his flaming house and his family was in a state of collapse on the lawn outside.

Mrs. Flores said her husband had been studying "mind science" recently in San Jose. She said he had appeared fine and wholly rational until Thursday night when he came home "upset and irritable."

He stripped to the waist and began carrying out the children's books and papers and his family's personal papers, she said, and set fire to them.

He went from room to room making pyramids of blankets, clothing and personal belongings.

He removed everything from cupboards and the refrigerator in the kitchen, telling his wife, "we won't need this any more. We'll be provided where we are going."

He ordered Mrs. Flores and the children to strip to the waist and took them into the backyard in the morning, telling them to kneel in prayer.

Youths playing dangerous game on R. R. tracks

Special to The Bulletin
PRINEVILLE — State police corporal Ralph Pope warned today that a new and dangerous amusement being practised by some young drivers of the Prineville area is in violation of a general law prohibiting the obstruction of a railroad track.

He has received a number of reports, Corporal Pope said, that young drivers have discovered that car tires are the same distance apart as the City of Prineville railroad tracks. The dangerous game is to see how far a driver can go on the tracks without dropping down onto the ties.

It does not seem to have occurred to the young drivers that they are also playing Russian roulette with the big diesel locomotive of the railroad line.

Edward Carlson, 19, of Prineville was arrested this week for driving on the tracks near the Pine Products lumber company. He was placed in jail overnight, in lieu of $50 bail, and subsequently placed on six months probation. Any further violation of any law or ordinance with his car, Cpl. Pope said, would end the probationary period with payment of the fine, or a jail sentence.

District court fines assessed

Archie Monroe Green, Carsonville, Mich., appeared in district court Friday before Judge Joe Thalhofer, and was sentenced to four days in the county jail. Green had been arrested Wednesday for soliciting a ride.

Linus Joseph Dalheim, Bend, paid three fines Friday — $25 for a basic rule violation, $10 for improper passing and $5 for disobeying a stop sign.

Connie Gwendolyn Roach, Bend, was fined $20 for a basic rule violation. Harry Lynn Monical, Bend, was fined $10 for bus speeding.

Snow flurries were reported from Oregon Cascade passes this morning, with a new three inch pack reported from the Santiam, where motorists were advised to carry chains.

Flurries also slowed travel over the Government Camp route and on the Willamette, with winter driving conditions reported.

Bend this morning also recorded snow flurries and light precipitation. Showers have been predicted for this area through Sunday.

Road contract delay reported

Severe snow conditions in the Blizzard Gap area have caused the Oregon State Highway Department to delay for one month the awarding of a contract for surfacing that portion of the Lakeview-Winnemucca Highway.

The Highway Commission had planned to call for bids on the project at the February 28 bid letting, but weather has prevented prospective bidders from viewing the site. The highway is now closed because of snow conditions. Blizzard Gap is between Adel and the Nevada state line.

The commission will put the contract up for bids at the April 11 letting. This will not delay the original completion date of the contract, set for this coming fall.

Included in the contract will be surfacing and oiling from Blizzard Gap to the Nevada line in southern Lake and Harney counties. The completed highway will be 22 feet wide with three-foot shoulders.

Candidate says Durno should reconsider race

PORTLAND (UPI)—Republican Senatorial candidate R. F. Cook said here Friday Congressman Edwin Durno should reconsider his "unadvised" decision to enter the senatorial race.

Cook made the statement during a talk at the Eastside Business and Professional Club.

Both men are seeking the Republican nomination for the seat now held by Democratic Sen. Wayne Morse.

Cook said the Medford physician owes an obligation to the party that elected him to the House. He said Durno should not turn his back on that job.

Earlier this week Cook said he had been asked to withdraw from the race in favor of former state treasurer Sig Unander, but suggested that Unander should withdraw instead. Cook refused to name the person who asked him to step aside.
