

Never regained consciousness

Wife fails to reach bedside

'Kid' Paret dies from March 24 ring injuries

NEW YORK (UPI)—Dethroned welterweight boxing champion Benny (Kid) Paret died early today without regaining consciousness from his knockout March 24. The Kid was counted out for the last time at 1:55 a.m. EST before his pregnant wife, Lucy, could reach his side. The 24-year old Cuban was the first champion in boxing history to die of injuries received in a title bout. Paret was pounded senseless by

Emile Griffith in the 12th round of their title fight at Madison Square Garden. The Cuban boxer underwent emergency surgery to relieve pressure on his brain early March 25 but stayed in a coma until he died. With only a 10,000 to 1 chance of survival at the time, Benny began to make slight progress. To aid his breathing surgeons inserted a tube into his throat. He was reported to be making some slight progress until Monday when he contracted pneumonia. Paret's condition then began to worsen. Mrs. Lucy Paret, who flew here from Miami, Fla., after her husband was felled, reached his bedside too late. With her were Paret's mother, Mrs. Maximo Crespo, his brother, Antonio, and a Roman Catholic priest. Mrs. Paret collapsed on learning of her husband's death and was unconscious for about 15 minutes. Manuel Alfaro, Paret's manager told reporters, Alfaro was with the boxer when he died. The wife, the mother and the brother wept "uncontrollably and hysterically." "Please, I want to go with you," Alfaro quoted Mrs. Paret as saying as she stood beside her dead husband. "Take me along." He said then Mrs. Paret prayed, holding in her hand the gold cross she wears around her neck. Paret's son, Benny Jr., 2½, was with a friend and did not know of his father's death. Mrs. Paret had kept an almost constant vigil at her husband's bedside, leaving him only to nap on a couch in an adjoining room. Monday night she had gone to a friend's home for a rest. Mrs. Crespo had flown to her son's side last week from Cuba where she had been delayed by red tape in getting a travel visa. Paret's family refused to see anyone. "The mother is screaming," a hospital security officer told newsmen. "They're all crying. They don't want to see anyone. You know how it is." A spokesman said Paret's body would be taken to Bellevue Hospital for an autopsy to determine the exact cause of death.

OAS gunmen enter hospital, kill patients

ALGIERS, Algeria (UPI)—European gunmen of the outlawed Secret Army Organization invaded a Moslem hospital here early today, machine-gunned helpless patients in their beds and wrecked part of the building with a bomb. Early reports said 10 Moslems were killed and 8 wounded, most of them seriously. There was no immediate indication whether the terrorists were after certain Moslems in the hospital or whether the raid was a demonstration to show the OAS will stop at nothing to wreck the cease-fire and keep Algeria from becoming independent. There was no official explanation of the hospital attack. But it appeared to be the latest move in the continuing OAS campaign to provoke the Moslems to a point where they would launch mass onslaughts against the European sections of Algiers and Oran. This would compel the French army to intervene and thus break the cease-fire agreement. Since that pact was signed, the Moslem population has been restrained from any counter violence to European attacks. In other terrorist attacks, two Moslems were killed and three wounded. The attacks brought the 1962 casualty toll to 3,384 killed and 7,242 wounded. The attack on the Beaufraisier Moslem Hospital in the Algiers suburb of Bouzareah followed Monday night's mortar shelling of the Algiers Casbah in which seven Moslems were wounded. It came, too, shortly before the scheduled formal installation of the mixed Moslem-European 12-man provisional executive that will govern Algeria until independence, and in the wake of new plastic bombings during the night in Philippeville and other parts of Algeria. The attack on the hospital was carried out at 6:35 a.m. by a commando unit of about 15 gunmen. Witnesses said the OAS attackers wore stolen uniforms of the Republican Security Guards. About 100 patients were in the hospital at the time—mostly tuberculosis or lung cancer sufferers. The gunmen, who drove up in four small sedans, split into three groups. One group burst into the ground floor wards, firing submachine gun bursts point-blank at the patients lying in their beds. Another group invaded the wards on the floor above. The third took up position on a small hill alongside the hospital and machine-gunned patients as they fled screaming from the building. Male nurses, awakened by the sound of gunfire, rushed to help the patients. But they were too late. As the raiders withdrew, they exploded a 32-pound charge of TNT outside the director's office. The explosive was placed between an embankment and the hospital wall in order to increase the blast effect. The entrance hall of the hospital, the clinical examination room, the X-ray department and the operating block were gutted by the blast. On the second floor, walls of the wards collapsed, floors caved in and beds with blood-stained bedclothes could be seen hours afterward hanging over the void. The raid on the hospital ended a temporary lull in "hate" killings in Algiers.

groups. One group burst into the ground floor wards, firing submachine gun bursts point-blank at the patients lying in their beds. Another group invaded the wards on the floor above. The third took up position on a small hill alongside the hospital and machine-gunned patients as they fled screaming from the building. Male nurses, awakened by the sound of gunfire, rushed to help the patients. But they were too late. As the raiders withdrew, they exploded a 32-pound charge of TNT outside the director's office. The explosive was placed between an embankment and the hospital wall in order to increase the blast effect. The entrance hall of the hospital, the clinical examination room, the X-ray department and the operating block were gutted by the blast. On the second floor, walls of the wards collapsed, floors caved in and beds with blood-stained bedclothes could be seen hours afterward hanging over the void. The raid on the hospital ended a temporary lull in "hate" killings in Algiers.

groups. One group burst into the ground floor wards, firing submachine gun bursts point-blank at the patients lying in their beds. Another group invaded the wards on the floor above. The third took up position on a small hill alongside the hospital and machine-gunned patients as they fled screaming from the building. Male nurses, awakened by the sound of gunfire, rushed to help the patients. But they were too late. As the raiders withdrew, they exploded a 32-pound charge of TNT outside the director's office. The explosive was placed between an embankment and the hospital wall in order to increase the blast effect. The entrance hall of the hospital, the clinical examination room, the X-ray department and the operating block were gutted by the blast. On the second floor, walls of the wards collapsed, floors caved in and beds with blood-stained bedclothes could be seen hours afterward hanging over the void. The raid on the hospital ended a temporary lull in "hate" killings in Algiers.

Reno hotel ruins combed for victims

RENO (UPI)—Fire caused by an explosion destroyed the Golden Hotel here today. Fire Chief William Sorenson said at least one person was killed and three were injured. Firemen were picking their way through the ruined upper floors of the four-story hotel to determine whether there were other victims of the blaze. Flames shot 50 to 75 feet in the air above the structure. The fire broke out at 7:15 a.m. and quickly spread through the building, which until World War II was considered the leading hostelry in the state. Bartender Vic DiMaggio, working in a bar directly over the explosion, said he heard a "dull thud."

"I felt the floor shake," he said. "I could then see smoke coming through cracks in the floor and through the inside doors to the basement." He said he did not know of anybody working in the basement. Dealers and bartenders, garbed in the gay nineties motif of the hotel, were asked to go through the upper floors to help tenants leave the building but the smoke was so thick they could not do so. Firemen in a crane moved along the outside of the building to rip off aluminum panels used to enhance the building's appearance during recent remodeling. Stretchers were sent up to remove the victims. Owner Bill Tomerlin said the blast apparently came from an acetylene tank in the basement. "I know there are people up there," he told firemen who during their first check could find no one trapped upstairs. Tomerlin plunged into the smoke and came out minutes later carrying four bags of money. It was currency. Thousands of silver dollars used in the casino were left in the ruins. As firemen battled the flames, curious onlookers poured out of neighboring casinos to watch. Generally, however, casino operators said business continued as usual and most gamblers were unaware of the seriousness of the blaze.

Dealers and bartenders, garbed in the gay nineties motif of the hotel, were asked to go through the upper floors to help tenants leave the building but the smoke was so thick they could not do so. Firemen in a crane moved along the outside of the building to rip off aluminum panels used to enhance the building's appearance during recent remodeling. Stretchers were sent up to remove the victims. Owner Bill Tomerlin said the blast apparently came from an acetylene tank in the basement. "I know there are people up there," he told firemen who during their first check could find no one trapped upstairs. Tomerlin plunged into the smoke and came out minutes later carrying four bags of money. It was currency. Thousands of silver dollars used in the casino were left in the ruins. As firemen battled the flames, curious onlookers poured out of neighboring casinos to watch. Generally, however, casino operators said business continued as usual and most gamblers were unaware of the seriousness of the blaze.

Dealers and bartenders, garbed in the gay nineties motif of the hotel, were asked to go through the upper floors to help tenants leave the building but the smoke was so thick they could not do so. Firemen in a crane moved along the outside of the building to rip off aluminum panels used to enhance the building's appearance during recent remodeling. Stretchers were sent up to remove the victims. Owner Bill Tomerlin said the blast apparently came from an acetylene tank in the basement. "I know there are people up there," he told firemen who during their first check could find no one trapped upstairs. Tomerlin plunged into the smoke and came out minutes later carrying four bags of money. It was currency. Thousands of silver dollars used in the casino were left in the ruins. As firemen battled the flames, curious onlookers poured out of neighboring casinos to watch. Generally, however, casino operators said business continued as usual and most gamblers were unaware of the seriousness of the blaze.

Dealers and bartenders, garbed in the gay nineties motif of the hotel, were asked to go through the upper floors to help tenants leave the building but the smoke was so thick they could not do so. Firemen in a crane moved along the outside of the building to rip off aluminum panels used to enhance the building's appearance during recent remodeling. Stretchers were sent up to remove the victims. Owner Bill Tomerlin said the blast apparently came from an acetylene tank in the basement. "I know there are people up there," he told firemen who during their first check could find no one trapped upstairs. Tomerlin plunged into the smoke and came out minutes later carrying four bags of money. It was currency. Thousands of silver dollars used in the casino were left in the ruins. As firemen battled the flames, curious onlookers poured out of neighboring casinos to watch. Generally, however, casino operators said business continued as usual and most gamblers were unaware of the seriousness of the blaze.

Dealers and bartenders, garbed in the gay nineties motif of the hotel, were asked to go through the upper floors to help tenants leave the building but the smoke was so thick they could not do so. Firemen in a crane moved along the outside of the building to rip off aluminum panels used to enhance the building's appearance during recent remodeling. Stretchers were sent up to remove the victims. Owner Bill Tomerlin said the blast apparently came from an acetylene tank in the basement. "I know there are people up there," he told firemen who during their first check could find no one trapped upstairs. Tomerlin plunged into the smoke and came out minutes later carrying four bags of money. It was currency. Thousands of silver dollars used in the casino were left in the ruins. As firemen battled the flames, curious onlookers poured out of neighboring casinos to watch. Generally, however, casino operators said business continued as usual and most gamblers were unaware of the seriousness of the blaze.

Hagen, Boese to run again for school board

Bert Hagen and Ralph Boese will be candidates to succeed themselves on the board of the Bend School Administration District. Hagen said this morning that he planned to pick up a petition at the administration office and obtain the necessary signatures today. Boese picked up a petition earlier, but had not returned it at noon today. Deadline for candidates to file is April 7, and petitions must be in the hands of the school clerk by 5 p.m. Friday, April 6. Hagen is one of two directors for the area inside Bend. Boese was appointed to fill the unexpired term of D. J. Ward. This director represents the area south of the Bend - Burns Highway and east of U.S. Highway 97 S. Hagen is currently chairman of the board. The election will be May 7.

THE BEND BULLETIN

CENTRAL OREGON'S DAILY NEWSPAPER

59th Year Eight Pages Bend, Deschutes County, Oregon, Tuesday, April 3, 1962 Ten Cents No. 100

5 convicts who fled S. Quentin are recaptured

SAN QUENTIN, Calif. (UPI)—Five convicts who escaped from San Quentin Prison early Monday were recaptured today in Santa Venetia, 10 miles north of the prison. The men, who had staged the biggest breakout in the prison's history, gave up without a struggle. A housewife, Mrs. Dorothy Worley, sighted three of the five outside her home at 8 a.m. after her dog had barked all night. She called Marin County sheriff's officers and all five convicts were taken into custody within 20 minutes. A van was sent from the prison to return the convicts to their cells after they had been at large 28 hours.

Recreation group opens session here

J. Herbert Stone, Portland, United States Regional forester, headed the largest group of forest representatives ever to attend a sectional meeting of the National Forest Recreation Association when the group opened its annual conference here today. The meeting was held at the B C Cafe and at noon the group joined in a luncheon there. Presiding at the conference was Richard Thompson of Mammoth Lakes, Calif., NFRA president. Veteran C. B. Morse, NFRA manager, was unable to attend this year's meeting in Bend. His home is in California.

John R. Edwards, Bend, is secretary treasurer of the group, which serves recreation permittees in the federal forests of western America. Accompanying Stone to the annual section meeting of the NFRA and joining in discussions were representatives from the Mt. Hood, Deschutes, Willamette, Winema, Rogue River and Umpqua National Forests. Most of the forests were represented by their supervisors. The conference was expected to last well into the afternoon. Current problems were to be discussed, and NFRA officials said they were more than the usual number this year. Also to be considered were plans for the 14th annual national meeting of the NFRA in Boise, Idaho, on Nov. 6, 7 and 8. Last year's meeting was held in Fresno, Calif.

Today's sectional meeting in Bend was one of the best attended since the organization of the NFRA.

Robinson seeks COC re-election

Special to The Bulletin
MADRAS — William C. Robinson, co-publisher of the Madras Pioneer, announced today that he will be a candidate to succeed himself as a director on the Central Oregon Area Education Board. The new term will be for four years.

Representing Zone 1, Jefferson County, Robinson on the formation of the board was assigned the one-year position on the seven-member group administering the education district. His term expires on June 30. Time for filing for the post expires tomorrow, 30 days prior to the school election, set for May 5. Robinson said he plans to file today.

DOW JONES AVERAGES
By United Press International
Dow Jones final stock averages: 30 industrials 700.63, off 4.82; 20 railroads 142.60, off 0.68; 15 utilities 123.04, off 0.67, and 65 stocks 239.50, off 1.45. Sales today were about 3.35 million shares compared with 2.79 million shares Monday.

It's all over between Liz, Eddie Fisher

NEW YORK (UPI)—The marriage of Elizabeth Taylor and Eddie Fisher has ended, involving six—and possibly eight—children in another broken Hollywood union.

What started amid declarations of love, fealty, tenderness and obliviousness to a love-triangle scandal ended with the actress and her singer-husband 5,000 miles apart and a cool, 18 - word announcement from Liz' lawyer here Monday night. "Elizabeth and Eddie Fisher announce that they have mutually agreed to part," read a representative of attorney Louis Nizer. "Divorce proceedings will be instituted soon."

The other two convicts were caught nearby at the same time. At 1:50 a.m., customers at the Roundup, a bar in nearby Pleasanton, reported seeing the same two men there. Meanwhile, 200 police, sheriff's deputies, highway patrolmen and prison guards continued their search in Marin County, where the prison is located. That phase of the widening search was centered near Terra Linda, a suburban community five miles north of the prison, after a housewife there reported seeing five strange men walking over a hill near her home Monday.

Damascus Radio says revolt has been quelled

BEIRUT, Lebanon (UPI)—The Damascus Radio said today that the revolt of army officers in northern Syria was ended. In an Arabic language announcement broadcast over its domestic facilities, Damascus Radio quoted a statement "from the general command of the army and of the armed forces."

It said order had been restored in the northern city of Aleppo, seized earlier by pro-United Arab Republic forces, and that the rebel units and their officers had returned to their barracks. The Aleppo forces were said to have "declared their allegiance" to the Damascus command. The announcement by Damascus Radio apparently ended the counter-revolt by a group of officers who wanted Syria to rejoin President Gamal Abdel Nasser's U.A.R. This union was split by a revolt last Sept. 23. A new rebellion last week toppled the government set up in the wake of the September revolution, but the new leaders showed no sign of any immediate reunion with Egypt in the U.A.R.

The Damascus announcement came about eight hours after the army issued an ultimatum to the rebels in the Aleppo area to surrender or face the "severest penalties." Despite the fact the rebellious group at Aleppo wanted to reunite Syria and Egypt, the U.A.R. government in Cairo said it was treating the whole affair as an internal Syrian matter, although Nasser offered to mediate the dispute.

Probe continues in rape case

Special to The Bulletin
MADRAS — The investigation into the criminal attack on a 14 year old girl here Friday night about 11 o'clock continued today, but there were no developments. The girl, beaten over the head and criminally assaulted, remained in the Central Oregon District Hospital, Redmond. She told officers she was repeatedly struck over the head with a revolver. The girl had attended a show in downtown Madras and was walking to the home of her grandmother in the south part of town when the attack occurred, in a brushy area back of a real estate office in the Vista Addition. The girl made her home with her grandmother. Her parents are in Bismarck, N.D.

APPOINTMENTS SET
SALEM (UPI)—Gov. Mark Hatfield Monday announced four appointments to the hospital and medical facility survey and construction advisory council. Ovanda Emmert, Newberg, was named to succeed Elsie Isaacson, Coos Bay, and there were three reappointments—Sister Ernestine Marie and Shirley Mildred Thompson, both of Portland, and Dr. E. L. Burnham, Oregon City.

Big 3 holds major alert in W. Berlin

BERLIN (UPI)—The United States, Britain and France today held their biggest joint military exercise in West Berlin since World War II. At the same time, the East German Ministry of Defense announced completion of large-scale maneuvers by the East German army.

The Big Three Western Allies alerted their 12,000-man Berlin garrisons for a six-hour operational readiness test and sent about 10,000 troops onto the city's streets. Some West Berlin police units also were alerted for the biggest test yet of Western Allied defense plans. Informed sources, meantime, reported that Russian were stepping up their dangerous game of harassment in the Berlin air corridors without announcing the flights at the four-power Berlin Air Safety Center.

In Corridors
The sources said Russian jet fighters and military transports were flying along and across the corridors and taking off and landing in them. They said such unannounced flights were even more dangerous to Western commercial and military aircraft using the airways.

The East German Defense Ministry said the East German army maneuvers were held under modern battle conditions and showed the high morale and combat readiness of the 100,000-man "people's army." It said that the games were witnessed by Russian, Polish and Czech generals.

The maneuvers apparently began about March 20 and sent East German tanks and troops close to the West Berlin border.

Guard Positions
The joint Allied exercise rolled Western troops into the streets before dawn to guard strategic positions throughout the city. A Western spokesman said the maneuver was a "routine operational readiness test designed to see how the shelters react to various situations."

The spokesman said the soldiers were awakened without previous notice and dispatched by trucks and jeeps to posts they would defend in case of attack. They included communication centers, air fields, bridges and other strategic positions. Tanks also took part in the exercise.

'Desecration' Morse upset over Capitol Hill booze

WASHINGTON (UPI)—President Kennedy went to Capitol Hill Monday night to help his old Senate colleagues "christen" the new reception room while Sen. Wayne Morse, D-Ore., protested imbibing in those hallowed halls. Morse stood in the Senate chamber denouncing the practice while Democrats and Republicans assembled in the newly finished formal room just across the corridor.

Morse said drinking on congressional premises should "be stopped forthwith." He said millions of Americans would feel that drinking alcoholic beverages in such places "constitutes desecration." Most of the Kennedy cabinet preceded the President to the room, built so that the old Supreme Court chamber, most historic room in the Capitol, would no longer be used for social affairs. Kennedy stayed for 20 minutes. He did not eat or drink but kept busy with greetings and conversation. Then, without warning, he walked to the private area behind the Senate chamber for the first time since he became President. He walked about four feet into the chamber, leaned over and said something in a low voice toward Morse, who was still declaiming away. It brought a cheer from the galleries, but Morse grinned and continued his speech. Kennedy said later he told Morse "that's the way it was when I left the Senate"—a reference to Morse's habit of long speeches late in the day.

Plans underway for course in democracy, communism

SALEM (UPI)—The Oregon Education Department said today it has postponed a proposed democracy vs communism course in Oregon public schools until next year. One school, Parkrose High, taught the six-week course earlier this school year, and described the pilot project as "very successful." Parkrose school officials drew up the course two years ago and the state became interested. Some months ago, the Oregon Education Department published a number of copies of the teacher's guide upon which the course is based, and sent copies to various groups and individuals for comment before authorizing it for general use in the public schools. Dr. Leon P. Minear, state superintendent of public instruction, said the response was tremendous. Also, there were so many "very good suggestions" for changes in the teaching material that the material will be rewritten, Minear said.

The hope is to have it ready for general use in the next school year. Dr. Ben Simmons, state director of curriculum, said there were about 100 replies from individuals, and from groups such as the State Bar to the American Legion. The department has solicited comment from a range of patriotic groups, among others. Minear said the postponement doesn't mean that the existing material is undesirable, but "we're not in any hurry, and we want to do it well and adopt many of the suggestions." Minear said several history and social studies teachers will be hired by his department this summer to do the actual rewriting. "I was pleasantly surprised at the interest and enthusiasm evidenced by the responses that we received," Minear said. "It showed me that we have a number of intelligent, sincere, thoughtful people who took up the task of determining what your youngsters should know about communism and the foreign aims in general."

Still critical

REDMOND — Tony Palomarez, 17, Culver, remained in critical condition today at the Central Oregon District Hospital. He received severe head injuries in an automobile accident near Culver early Sunday morning. Hospital attendants said the victim has never regained consciousness.

OLYMPIC PRACTICE—Terry Becker, sixth grader at Allen School, throws the five-pound indoor shot outdoors in sunny weather yesterday as his physical education class practices for the annual Rotary Olympics to be held Saturday, April 28, at the new Bend High School field. Events are scheduled for boys and girls from grades one through nine.