Flouridation discussion due

Special to The Bulletin
PRINEVILLE — How best to approach the public on the question of local flouridation of Prineville water will be a topic of discussion for city councilmen at their next luncheon meeting, April 25.

It had been planned to present the issue in the form of a ballot in the May primary election, but this was found to be impracticable when Mrs. Hazel Powell, county clerk, notified city officials that the flouridation issue would make the seventh ballot for voters on that day, in the Prineville area.

Councilmen are now expected to consider the alternate plan of holding a special election to determine public opinion on flouridation. To carry out the program, it would be necessary to install separate flouridation - distributing equipment in the five deep wells which now furnish the city with water. The wells are owned and operated by the Pacific Power and Light Co.

That was pretty obstinate fire

Some fires are just darn obstinate.

A few days ago there was a brush fire at the Rim Rock Riders Club, just north of Sawyer Park. Well, that fire rekindled shortly after noon Friday, with Bend firemen answering the call.

But that fire still had a little life yet, and firemen were called to check a new brush blaze at the Rim Rock Riders Club at 3:39 p.m.

In between Rim Rock calls, they halted a brush fire at the Walter Berger farm.

Realtor Week being planned

Plans for the observance of National Realtor Week, May 20-26, were considered by members of the Central Oregon Board of Realtors at a meeting in Prineville Thursday. Barbara Johns, Madras, was named chairman of advertising for the week.

Judge's verdict favors Rices

Mr. and Mrs. Charles Rich operators of a Western Auto Associates store at 903 Wall Street, were victors in an equity suit this week against Mr. and Mrs. R. J. Mannheim and the John Wetle Co.

Judge Arno H. Denneck of Multnomah county, who tried the case, gave a verdict in favor of the plaintiffs, entitling them to purchase the Mannheim Building, which the Mannheims had agreed to sell to the Wetle firm.

John M. Copenhaver and Joseph Larkin, copurchasers of the Rices, said today that his clients are prepared to meet the $45,000 price agreed to by the Wetles. The Wetles had assent of a loan and made arrangements to pay the difference.

The suit was based on a clause in the Rices' 10-year lease agreement, which gave them option to purchase the building by matching an offer.
