

New strong man

Purkey keeping Reds in league with five wins

By Fred Down UPI Staff Writer The man who threw the pitch that started the Cincinnati Reds to their World Series downfall is firing the ones that are keeping the National League champions "in the league" this season.

He's tough, hard-bitten Bob Purkey and he's the new strong man of a Cincinnati pitching staff that has been hobbled by the slow starts of nominal aces Joey Jay and Jim O'Toole. Jay stands 3-3 and O'Toole is 2-4 but Purkey has reeled off five straight victories in which he has allowed a total of 14 runs.

Purkey, whose nine-inning go-pitch to Roger Maris gave the New York Yankees a 3-2 win in the third game of the 1961 World Series and was called the turning point of the classic, survived five errors Wednesday night to beat the Philadelphia Phillies, 7-4. As the new "stopper" of the Cincinnati staff, Purkey has ended losing streaks of two, three and four games this year.

Close To Leaders

The win lifted the Reds' season record to 13-13 — placing them in a position to overtake several of the teams bunched closely together behind the first-place San Francisco Giants.

The St. Louis Cardinals chopped the Giants' lead to three games with a 7-3 win, the Milwaukee Braves beat the Pittsburgh Pirates, 4-2, and the Los Angeles Dodgers routed the Houston Colts, 9-2, in other NL games.

The New York Yankees' late-inning "lightning" topped the Boston Red Sox, 4-1, the Baltimore Orioles defeated the Kansas City A's, 6-3, the Minnesota Twins shaded the Cleveland Indians, 2-1, the Chicago White Sox scored a 7-6 decision after losing, 9-3, to the Washington Senators, and the Detroit Tigers whipped the Los Angeles Angels, 6-3, in American League activity.

a 15-hit attack that included three singles by Frank Robinson and Wally Post's seventh homer. Eddie Kasko and Johnny Edwards also had three hits each for Cincinnati and Wes Covington homered for the Phillies.

Wins Fifth Straight

Curt Simmons, only 9-10 last season, pitched his fifth straight complete-game victory of the season with a nine-hit effort against the Giants. Carl Sawatski drove in four runs with a homer and two singles. Curt Flood weighed in with a triple and two singles and Stan Musial had two singles in the Cardinals' 12-hit attack. Musial's hits raised his lifetime total to 3,429 — one behind Hans Wagner's all-time NL lifetime record.

Joe Adcock's fifth homer and a single knocked in two runs as Ron Piche won his second game for the Braves. Bob Friend, routed in 4-3 innings, suffered his second defeat for the Pirates against four victories.

Johnny Podres' eight-hit pitching behind a 16-hit attack enabled the Dodgers to hand Houston's Dean Stone his second defeat. Jim Gilliam and Wally Moon had three hits each for the Dodgers and Merritt Ranew had three for the Colts.

Elston Howard's bases-filled double was the big blow of a four-run seventh inning after Boston's Bill Monbouquette held the Yankees hitless for 6-1-3 innings. Whitey Ford went the distance for the Yankees, yielding seven hits and striking out seven for his third win.

Whiffs 13 Batters

Milt Pappas struck out 13 and pitched a five-hitter for the Orioles, who routed Ed Rakow with six runs in the second inning. Big blow of the frame was a grand slam homer by Brooks Robinson — his second in as many games.

Jack Kralick went 7-1-3 innings to win his second game for the Twins who scored both their runs against Gary Bell in the first inning. Key blow of the rally was a run-producing double by Zolo Versalles. Johnny Romano homered for Cleveland.

Don Rudolph pitched an eight-hitter to win the first game for the Senators but Al Smith's three hits and two blows by Joe Cunningham enabled the White Sox to win the nightcap for Ray Herbert's second triumph. Jim Landis hit his eighth homer for the White Sox in the opener but it wasn't enough to prevent "Yankee killer" John Buzhardt from suffering the loss.

Al Kaline's ninth homer and a bases-filled triple by Rocky Colavito paved the way for Detroit's Jim Bunning to win his fourth game although he needed late-inning relief by Hank Aguirre.

Oregon eyes four-mile relay mark

By United Press International

Trackmen from the University of Oregon and Oregon State will have their eyes on several world records when they compete in the West Coast Relays at Fresno, Calif., Saturday.

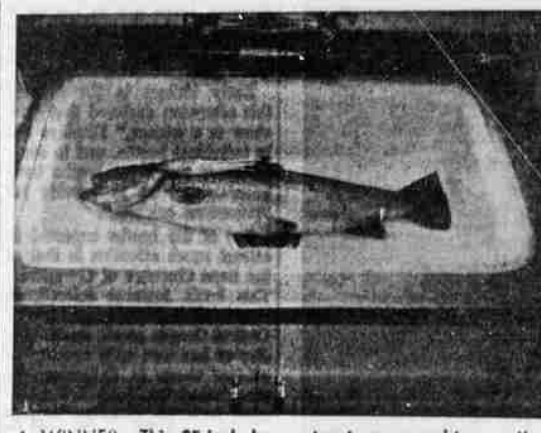

Oregon is entering only six men because the Ducks have a meet in Seattle with Washington the same day. The Duck delegation will include some of the school's best, however.

Oregon is sending a four-mile relay team composed of American mile record holder Dyrrol Burleson, Archie San Romani Jr., Vic Reeve and Keith Forman. They are after the world's record of 16:23.8 set by a New Zealand team last year.

Burleson's best time this year is 4:01.2, San Romani's is 4:03.8, Reeve's 4:05.5 and Forman's 4:06.2, for a total of 16:16.7. The Webfoot team also will take a shot at the distance medley record of 9:35 set by the Santa Clara Valley Youth Village in 1960. Oregon set a collegiate record of 9:36.2 in that event earlier this year.

The other Oregon runners competing at Fresno will be Harry Jerome in the 100-yard dash and defending NCAA champion Jerry Tarr in the high hurdles.

Jerome has run two 9.3 100s this spring, only one-tenth of a second off the world record. Oregon State will enter a full team, headed by Dale Story, who is after a world's record in the 5,000 meters. Story is credited with the best three-mile time in the nation this spring, 13:41.5. The world's record is 13:35 by Vladimir Kuts of Russia in 1937.

A WINNER—This 25-inch brown trout was caught recently at Suttle Lake by Jonas Hammack, Sisters, trolling a hotshot behind a spinner. The fish weighed 6 pounds, 10 ounces. It is shown in comparison with an 8-inch kokanee, also caught at Suttle. When the brown was opened, there was a 7-inch kokanee inside.

Suttle rated fair to good

Suttle Lake continues fair to good for kokanee and rainbow on bait, the Oregon Game Commission reported today. Deep troll has been the best method for catching brown trout.

Blue Lake is reported good for rainbow, with a few kokanee now entering the catch. Best results have been produced via bait angling (single egg).

Wickiup Reservoir is currently fair for kokanee on either troll or bait. Best catches of rainbow and brown have been produced on troll with spinner and worms or flatfish.

Crane Prairie Reservoir has been fair to good for rainbow and kokanee on bait or small lures in the Cultus and Deschutes river channels. Fair results for rainbow have been obtained on troll with spinner and worms.

The water is reported clearing at Prineville Reservoir where fishing is good for rainbow on bait in the upper reservoir. Catfish taken on troll are improving.

Metolius River fly fishing is reported fair, with wet fly patterns producing best results.

The Deschutes River below Bend is low and clear to the confluence of Crooked River and is reported fair to good on flies and bait. Salmon flies are out.

Deschutes River below the confluence of Crooked River is clearing and is fair to good on bait. Fly fishing is also improving. Above Bend the Deschutes is fair on troll or bait.

At Fall River fair to good catches have been reported in the upper section of stream, with best results obtained on bait.

INJURES THUMB

RICHMOND, Va. (UPI)—Jake Gibbs, third baseman for the Richmond Virginians, has been sidelined for a week to 12 days because of a thumb injury. The $100,000 New York Yankee bonus player and former Mississippi All-America football player hurt the thumb while fielding a grounder against Syracuse last Sunday.

Jr. Olympics set June 2

The oft-postponed Bend Rotary Junior Olympics for first through ninth graders had a new date today — Saturday, June 2.

The meet, first scheduled for Saturday, April 28, was postponed until this Saturday, May 12.

The meet was moved to June 2 when inclement weather was feared. High school and junior coaches will also be free from other duties for this activity.

Some 700 youngsters have signed up for the meet to be held at the new Bend High track.

Drag hunt busts up no-hitter try

NEW YORK (UPI)—There goes the no-hitter, there goes the pitcher, and there goes the ball game. That's one of baseball's saddest refrains, and it never applied more perfectly than it did Wednesday to dispirited Bill Monbouquette and the Boston Red Sox.

"Imagine breaking up a no-hitter with a bunt!" muttered Monbouquette, who held the New York Yankees hitless for 5 1-3 innings, then fell victim to four unearned runs that cost him the ball game, 4-1.

Monbouquette departed for a pinch-hitter in the eighth, but all the damage had been done by then.

Fielder Drops Ball Center fielder Gary Geiger then dropped Roger Maris' liner for an error that enabled Tresh to take second, and after Mickey Mantle struck out for the third straight time, Yogi Berra walked to fill the bases. Elston Howard's double cleared them and Bill Skowron singled home the final run.

Monbouquette replayed Tresh's bunt over and over again in the Red Sox' clubhouse.

"Even after I finally got the ball, I knew I couldn't get him," said the Red Sox pitcher. "He runs pretty good."

Geiger's error followed, but with runners on first and second Monbouquette still figured he had a chance for a double play that never materialized.

Makes No Excuse The Boston centerfielder had no excuses for his miscue on Maris' wicked line drive.

"I saw the ball all right," he owned up. "It sunk a little, hit the heel of my glove and then hit me in the stomach. I can't remember that ever happening to me before."

Red Sox manager Mike Higgins possibly surmised it up best. "Make one mistake against them (the Yankees) and it's fatal," he said.

Shepard quits as Salem GM

SALEM, Ore. (UPI)—Maury Shepard resigned suddenly Tuesday as general manager of the Salem Dodgers of the Northwest Baseball League.

He announced he quit because members of the club's board of directors had criticized the financial condition of the club and the handling of certain player contracts.

Shepard said the financial condition of the club has never been better.

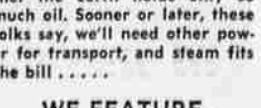

Ask any expert about the possibility of the revival of automobile powered by a steam engine, and, like as not, he'll look at you as if you were in need of psychiatric attention.

Spite of this, however, there is a school of thought which feels that the steam-powered car did not die out with the Stanley Steamer. This group of steam addicts holds that a revival is just around the corner. One reason they give is that certain types of transport vehicles wear too rapidly because of constant idling; this would hold true of taxicabs and delivery trucks.

Still another reason given is that the earth holds only so much oil. Sooner or later, these folks say, we'll need other power for transport, and steam fits the bill.
