

As Yanks win eight straight

Angels refuse to do 'el foldo'

By Fred Down
UPI Staff Writer

Those Angels with dirty faces from Los Angeles apparently have never read the American League script because they're simply refusing to fold up in the face of the New York Yankees' "pennant drive."

The Yankees have reeled off eight straight victories in a show of muscle which traditionally is supposed to "kill off" their rivals.

But the Angels aren't folding — in fact they're off on a four-game winning streak of their own which is enabling them to stay very much in the race 3½ games behind the Yankees.

The Angels were presented with a gorgeous opportunity to do an "el-foldo" Friday night when the Cleveland Indians took an early 3-0 lead over them. The Yankees had already whipped the Washington Senators, 3-2, and a Los Angeles loss would have given New York a 4½-game lead. The next order of business in the AL would have been condolences and flowers for all and some brave talk about trying again next year.

The Angels, however, staved off talk of a Yankee runaway for at least another day with an eight-run fifth-inning rally — biggest inning in the team's history — that produced an 8-3 triumph, Lee Thomas clinaxed the frame with a three-run homer and a succession of Los Angeles relief pitchers held the Indians at bay to hand them their eighth straight loss.

Mickey Mantle hit his 19th homer and two singles and Whitey Ford and Marshall Bridges combined in a seven-hitter for the Yankees. Hector Lopez also honored for the Yankees as Ford picked up his ninth win, Mantle's three hits lifted his batting average to .346.

The Minnesota Twins defeated the Baltimore Orioles, 7-5, in 10 innings, the Detroit Tigers romped over the Kansas City Athletics, 10-3, and the Boston Red Sox topped the Chicago White Sox, 6-4, in other AL action.

The Los Angeles Dodgers maintained their one-game lead in the National League when they beat the Chicago Cubs, 3-2, while the San Francisco Giants downed the Pittsburgh Pirates, 6-3. The Cincinnati Reds edged out the New York Mets, 3-1, the Houston Colts shaded the St. Louis Cardinals, 4-3, and the Philadelphia Phillies scored a 3-2 triumph after losing the first game of a two-night doubleheader to the Milwaukee Braves, 7-5.

Earl Battey's two-run homer lifted the Twins to their fifth straight win after the Orioles tied the score in the eighth on Dick Williams' sacrifice fly with the bases filled. Ray Moore won his fifth game while Hal Brown was tagged with his third loss.

The Tigers hit six homers—two by Norm Cash and one each by Chico Fernandez, Bill Bruton, Dick McAuliffe and Bob Farley—to earn Don Mossi his eighth win, and snap their seven-game losing streak. Jerry Lumpe homered for the Athletics.

Carl Yastrzemski drove in three runs with two homers and a double to lead a nine-hit Boston attack that routed Johnny Buzhardt in the first inning. Don Schwall pitched two-hit ball for eight innings and Dick Radatz provided strong relief when he faltered in the Sox' four-run ninth.

Drives in 10th Run
Tommy Davis drove in four runs, increasing his season total to 100, and lifted his average to .349 with two singles in the Dodgers' easy victory. Stan Williams, aided by Ed Roebuck's late relief help, won his ninth game while Bob Buhl dropped his eighth decision for the Cubs.

Willie Mays' 27th homer and Willie McCovey's 13th of the season paced the Giants' attack on Vern Law and four Pirates successors. Jack Sanford went 6 1-3 innings to win his 12th game. The loss was Law's fifth against eight victories.

Gordon Coleman's two-run homer and Joey Jay's eight-hit pitching were all the Reds needed to hand the Mets' Roger Craig his 14th defeat. Frank Thomas homered for the Mets' run.

Roman Mejias' two-run ninth-inning single brought the Colts from behind and enabled Dick Farrell, who yielded seven hits and struck out 12, to win his sixth game. Lindy McDaniel, ace St. Louis reliever, dropped his fifth decision.

Art Mahaffey pitched a six-hitter and struck out 11 for the Phillies after a homer by Roy McMillan and Jack Curtis' seven innings of shutout relief pitching paced the Braves to their opening-game triumph.

U.S. cindermen have strength for quick lead

STANFORD, Calif. (UPI) — The United States had a chance to take a quick lead over Russia today in the opening session of their international dual track meet thanks to a schedule that listed five events which America has dominated in the past.

While an overweight Wilma Rudolph tries to make it four consecutive wins for America in the women's 100 meters, the United States males will seek to maintain their superiority over Russia in the 100 meters, 110 meter hurdles, 400 meters and 400 meter relay.

Coach John Oelkers of the United States thinks that a world record might fall in the 400 meter relay which will be handled by Hayes Jones, Bob Hayes, Homer Jones and Paul Drayton.

And he was emanating confidence while Gavriel Korobkov, the Russian coach, played it close to his ample chest.

"I don't want to sound cocky," Oelkers said. "But I think we will win this meet."

"I haven't seen the United States team," the genial Korobkov fenced. The Soviet coach also doubled as a diplomat, promising a Sacramento, Calif. housewife that he would deliver her written letters to Premier Khrushchev asking that her brother be released from prison.

In other leading events today, Ralph Boston of the United States squared off against Igor Ter-Ovanesyan, who had leaped a world record 27 feet, three inches.

But Ter-Ovanesyan only has taken one jump all week and spent the rest of the time undergoing heat treatments for a sore leg.

"How is he?" smiled Korobkov. "He is all right. He has some sore muscles but that happens to every athlete at one time or another."

First game tonight Bend host to area one semi-final test

This is it. And as far as the Bend Legion team is concerned, that regular season win-loss record doesn't mean a thing.

For Bend, the only team in its district, hosts The Dalles, an easy winner in its district in a best-of-three area one semi-finals series starting 8:30 tonight at Municipal Park.

If you look at strictly win-loss records, The Dalles would rate the favorite. They've a lofty 19-3 season's mark, two of their losses coming to Pendleton — the latter hosting Ontario this weekend in the other area one semi-finals.

But Bend, around .500 for most of the season, has played more and tougher games. And the locals, bolstered by four Prineville players and former all-state high school catcher Andy Cleveland, can't be compared with the Bend team earlier in the season.

That one, especially on road trips, was a young outfit with several freshmen and sophomores in the starting lineup.

But this Bend team is an all-veteran one and, on paper anyway, stacks up well with the strongest Legion teams to represent this area in the past few years.

Bend held a long workout under the lights Friday night, and appears in good shape for the series.

Cleveland will undoubtedly get the catching nod, with Dick Nicholas at first and Mike Genna almost a sure starter at short.

Ready for duty at the other infield spots will be Dave Shelton, Mike Clark, Jerry Wede and Mike Barrow.

Kurt Larson is due to start in center with Mike Love, Bobby Warrington, Val Lewis and Pete Migun all possibilities for the other two positions.

Migun, Love and Barry Hebert head the mound corps and are all well rested.

Should Bend beat The Dalles in this series, the locals will host the Pendleton-Ontario winner in a best-of-three series here next weekend.

But The Dalles, beaten two straight by Bend in the area one semi-finals last year, will be eager to pull an upset.

And they could have the horses to do it with a veteran club built around Jerry Piland, George Vass, Larry Emmons and pitchers Ben Blount, John Leo and Mark Jensen.

Doug Ford, 39, takes over lead in PGA tourney

By Leo H. Petersen
UPI Staff Writer

NEWTOWN SQUARE, Pa. (UPI) — The lavender and old lace mob clung grimly to the lead in the PGA golf championship today with 39-year-old Doug Ford carrying a one-stroke advantage into the third round.

It was 50-year-old John Barnum on the head end in the first round and when his "nerves just gave out," Ford hit the young upstart with a 33-36-69 and a 138 total which put him on top.

The younger brigade was having more than its share of troubles over the long Aronimink Golf Club course, what with favored Arnold Palmer shooting a two-over-par "nightmare round" of 72 which left him five strokes off the pace and U.S. Open champion Jackie Nicklaus carding a 74 for 145 and a seven-shot deficit.

Ford, who won this one seven years ago and before Palmer and Nicklaus were on the national scene, had as his closest competitors a trio consisting of 41-year-old Cary Middlecoff, 37-year-old George Bayer and youngster Gary Player. They were in a three-way tie, one shot back at 139.

Matches Barnum's Round
Middlecoff matched Barnum's opening round course record of 66 to move into contention. Player shot a 67 and Bayer chipped into the cup from 25 feet off the green on the final hole for a par round of 70.

Two strokes off the lead at even par 140 came Barnum and Bob McCallister. Barnum skidded to a 74 and McCallister a 66.

Bob Goaly, one of the younger tournament stars, was in solid striking distance at 141 while at 142 came five others: Frank Strahan, Marty Furgol, Julius Boras, Jackie Burke and Bobby Nichols.

The field was well bunched after that, with Palmer leading those at 143, who included former champions Jim Ferrier and Owen Finsterwald and former Open champion Jack Fleck and Dave Marr.

"It was a miserable round and I hope it's out of my system," said Palmer, who carded seven bogeys against three birdies and an eagle. His birdie on the 610-yard par five ninth and his eagle on the 541-yard par five 16th both came as result of picture shots with a three wood.

"Now I need a real good third round to get back in the running," Palmer said with obvious determination.

So, too, did those behind him. For one stroke back of him at 144 — six shots behind Ford — came Chick Harbert, who had a first round 68; Don January, Bill Collins and Pete Cooper. At 145 along with Nicklaus were Ken Venturi, Jay Hebert, Doug Sanders, and Sammy Snead, who started with a 33 but finished in 37 blows for a 70. Tommy Bolt was at 146; former champion Walt Burkemo and Art Wall at 147; Mike Souchak and Gene Litterer at 148, and Billy Casper at 150.

SET FOR LEGION SEMI-FINALS — Bend Legion outfielder Kurt Larson, center, is flooded with baseballs from mates Mike Genna, left, and Val Lewis. It's just part of horseplay prior to tonight's serious business when Bend hosts The Dalles 8:30 p.m. in first game of best-of-three area one semi-final series. Second game will be played 1:30 p.m. Sunday, with third game, if necessary, set for 8:30 p.m. Sunday

Tulelake 'share' plan pushed for waterfowl

WASHINGTON (UPI)—A House interior subcommittee was urged today to approve a Senate-passed bill calling for ducks and farm-ers to share the marshlands of the Tulelake, Lower Klamath and Upper Klamath wildlife refuges in California and Oregon.

Asst. Interior Secretary Frank P. Briggs told the reclamation subcommittee that the bill would go far toward reconciling "differences that have been plaguing us for years."

Daniel H. Janzen, director of the Bureau of Sport Fisheries and Wildlife, termed the legislation "extremely important" to the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service's waterfowl conservation program.

Janzen said the legislation also would provide "a reasonable and

Clay cools Lavorante

LOS ANGELES (UPI) — "After the second round I figured I had him."

That was the cool statement from cool Cassius Clay Friday night after he fulfilled his own prediction by knocking out Alejandro Lavorante at 1:48 of the fifth round in a scheduled 10-round bout at the Sports Arena.

This was Clay's 15th professional victory without a defeat. He has gained the name of the Louisville lip, but he proved against Lavorante that he can fight just about as good as he can talk.

Clay punched with speed that bewildered the 25-year-old Argentinian.

Lavorante took his fourth defeat in a pro career of 23 fights. This was the second successive time he had been knocked out. In his last previous fight, Lavorante was kayoed in the 10th round by Archie Moore.

Clay weighed 199 pounds against 200 for Lavorante.
