

1,500 acres blackened in Pine Mountain blaze

WEATHER

Fair; chance of thunderstorms;
highs 83-93; low near 55.

THE BEND BULLETIN

CENTRAL OREGON'S DAILY NEWSPAPER

59th Year

Ten Pages

Bend, Deschutes County, Oregon, Tuesday, July 24, 1962

Ten Cents

No. 194

Idaho Solon, Dworshak, dies at age 67

WASHINGTON (UPI)— Sen. Henry C. Dworshak, 67, who has represented Idaho in Congress since 1939, died at his home Monday night of a heart attack.
His son, Ward, said the senator was pronounced dead on arrival at Georgetown Hospital after collapsing while preparing for bed.
Dworshak, the 10th ranking Republican in the Senate in terms of seniority, was the fourth senator to die during this session of Congress. All were Republicans.
The others were Francis Case, S.D.; Andrew F. Schoepel, Kan.; and Styles Bridges, N.H.
One of the hardest workers in the Senate, Dworshak stayed out of the limelight and his sense of humor made many friends among his colleagues.

Shocks Senators

Sen. Frank Church, D-Idaho, said Dworshak's death "is a shock to all of us in the Senate. This very noon I lunched with him. He seemed well and hearty and in fine spirits. He was ever a gentleman who served his state honorably for many years. Idaho has lost a most distinguished citizen."
The senator's son said the lawmaker came home "feeling good" and shortly after dinner, decided to "go to bed early." He was stricken in an upstairs bedroom.
The son said he believed Dworshak was "tired from the long session of Congress. He was a hard campaigner all his life and was active in committee work as well as on the floor. Age just caught up with him."

Three-Year Term

The first was in 1946, when he was elected to a three-year term caused by the death of Sen. John Thomas. When that term expired, he was appointed to an unexpired term left by the death of Sen. Bert Miller.
His appointment by a Republican governor to replace a Democrat who had defeated him for re-election in 1948 caused a controversy.

Application Denied

Judge Foley had first given Mrs. Winegar a suspended 60-day sentence in the county jail, and placed her on six months probation. She had been divorced this past April 9, and married Winegar May 12, in Reno.

Not Contested

The divorce granted last April was not contested. Previously, the plaintiff had filed a divorce complaint against Dahlen on April 5, 1961. Dahlen contested that action, and a decree was denied by District Judge Joe Thalhofer, sitting for Judge Foley, on Aug. 7, 1961.

DCW JONES AVERAGES

By United Press International
Dow Jones final stock averages:
30 Industrials 121.74, off 0.82; 15 utilities 113.91, up 0.18; and 85 stocks 261.27, off 0.97.

DCW JONES AVERAGES

Sales today were about 2.56 million shares compared with 2.77 million shares Monday.

Socialized medicine . . .

Saskatchewan's one million residents to be taken emergency services. The College of Physicians and Surgeons, the medical profession's organization which had spearheaded opposition to medicare, called on the doctors to return to normal practice.

Compromise reached in Saskatchewan

Saskatchewan's one million residents to be taken emergency services. The College of Physicians and Surgeons, the medical profession's organization which had spearheaded opposition to medicare, called on the doctors to return to normal practice. The agreement removed many of the physicians' objections to the compulsory prepaid medical care insurance plan, but nonetheless left the law on the books.

Young School session held by directors

Members of the District No. 1 School board met Monday night with a group of residents of the Young community northeast of Bend. The session was held at the Young school house.

Under discussion was the suggestion that students in the fifth and sixth grades at Young be brought to Bend this next school year. The proposal had been made at an earlier board meeting when it was indicated that a serious crowding situation is faced at the school.

No decision was reached by the board at last night's meeting. Strong opposition was expressed to the plan by some Young area parents who attended the meeting.

Presiding at the board session was Bert Hagen, chairman. Other board members attending were Gordon McKay, Richard Wayman, and Carl Klippel. School officials who attended were R. E. Jewell, superintendent; A. W. Nelson, assistant to the superintendent, and William Armstrong, head teacher at Young School.

Woman fined for re-marrying before 6 months

A woman found in contempt of court, for re-marrying before the six-month waiting period elapsed after the granting of a divorce decree, was fined $100 by Circuit Judge Robert H. Foley Monday afternoon in circuit court.

The plaintiff, formerly Jacqueline Dahlen, now married to Ray Winegar, was addressed as "Mrs. Winegar" when the judge pronounced the sentence. The $100 fine was substituted for a suspended jail sentence, when attorneys for the parties pointed out that the law prescribes a fine of "up to $100" for this particular contempt of court.

Judge Foley had first given Mrs. Winegar a suspended 60-day sentence in the county jail, and placed her on six months probation. She had been divorced this past April 9, and married Winegar May 12, in Reno.

Swimmer due in Portland

PORTLAND (UPI)—Marathon swimmer Spencer Campbell will be the guest of honor at ceremonies here today, after swimming about three miles down the Columbia River.

Campbell, 24, is swimming the 557 miles from his home at Orofino, Idaho, to Astoria. He covered more than 29 miles down the Columbia Monday before battling for the night about three miles upstream from the river-side restaurant where his well-comers awaited him.

He spent the night in a private yacht on the Columbia, and said he won't set out on the final leg of his trip until Wednesday.

Jet bomber hits mountain in Montana

LIVINGSTON, Mont. (UPI)—Rescue workers at the scene of the crash of a B47 jet bomber in southwestern Montana reported today they were unable immediately to find any bodies in the smoldering wreckage.

The plane crashed in a ball of flame at the 8,500-foot level of Emigrant Mountain 35 miles south of here Monday night.

Park County Sheriff Albert Nickelson radioed from the crash site that an unopened parachute pack was among the items found in the chunks of twisted metal.

The Forest Service said there was a possibility that some or all of the four-member crew ejected before the four-engined bomber plowed into the mountain. It was also possible the men were burned up in the flaming wreckage, the Forest Service said.

Identification Made
The plane was positively identified as an Air Force B47. The wreckage was strewn over the side of a cliff. Positive identification came from part of a wing and a 25-foot section of the tail.

The wreckage of the plane was first reached by two Forest Service employees at 2:30 a.m. It was burning fiercely and they were unable to get close enough to conduct a thorough search.

The plane plunged into the southwest side of the mountain and spilled down a ridge. Wreckage was scattered for more than a thousand yards. The plane hit the mountain on a 60-degree slope and burst with an explosion that was visible for more than 20 miles.

Forest service crews and volunteer ranchers continued to battle a forest fire in the Gallatin National Forest set by the burning plane. A spokesman at the Park County sheriff's office in Livingston said the fire was "in a heavily timbered area."

The crash of the plane, believed to be from Dyess Air Force Base at Abilene, Tex., occurred at approximately 9:50 p.m. The plane was first spotted when the sheriff's office sent a light plane over the area to check on the fire.

Maintain Great Falls, Mont., refused to confirm that the plane was the B47. However, a spokesman at Dyess Air Force Base said there were several B47's in the area and that one of them was "unaccounted for."

The Texas B47 was carrying four persons. Air Force Personnel were expected to arrive from Malmstrom a scene of the fire at daybreak today.

"MOMENTS OF GREATNESS" — Ready for the weekend Mirror Pond Pageant that will have as its theme "America's Moments of Greatness," a great arch has taken final shape on the Deschutes River in Bend. This is an upstream view of the arch, surmounted by a replica of the Statue of Liberty. Testing of illumination started last night. Lighted was the towering

New deaths are reported in Algeria

ALGIERS (UPI)—Four Europeans were slain Monday night in a gunbattle which erupted in Algiers following a military capitulation of the Algerian Provisional Government (GPRA) to dissident Deputy Premier Ahmed Ben Bella.

Police could not determine immediately what caused the shooting — the city's first major violence in three weeks — but it appeared to reflect the tension that has been building up in the power struggle between Ben Bella and Provisional Premier Ben Youssef Ben Khedda.

Informed sources said the GPRA had agreed to go along with Ben Bella's seven-member political bureau if the National Council of the Algerian Revolution (CNRA) ratifies it.

Ratification was a foregone conclusion. The CNRA had been prepared to go last May but the GPRA members prevented a vote by walking out of the meeting.

Just when the 72-member CNRA would meet was not certain but it was clear that Ben Bella had seized the initiative and was rapidly gaining political support.

GPRA Minister of State Rabah Bitat became the latest to defect from Ben Khedda's ranks. He left Algiers Monday for Tiemcen to assume his appointment to the political bureau along with Ben Bella and two others already in Tiemcen.

The GPRA was further weakened by the resignation of its foreign minister, Saad Dahlab, who said the confused political situation prevented him from serving his country.

The political bureau in effect would prepare the country for general elections which the French-Moslem provisional executive set for Aug. 12 but Ben Bella said Monday he wanted to postpone the elections for an indefinite period.

Largest ever Pageant arch lights tested Monday night

Illumination of the Mirror Pond Pageant arch was preliminarily tested Monday night as flags high over the portal waved in the wind of a dying electric storm.

It was a storm that caused some concern to arch designers and boat makers in the early evening as nature put on its own illumination show: lightning flashed in the east to light towering thunderheads.

Fair board sets special meeting

REDMOND — Deschutes County Fair board is holding a special meeting tonight at 7:30 p.m. at the fairgrounds office to iron out final details pertaining to the fair.

Manager Mac Tink stresses that all those who have questions or any last-minute matters to discuss are invited to attend the meeting. Heads of granges, farm bureaus and other agricultural agencies will be on hand, as will extension service officials.

Queen Joannice Smith and Princesses Cheryl McCarthy and Trudi Allen were scheduled to accompany fair board members today to the regular noon luncheon of the Chamber of Commerce. Hook also was to be on hand to bring Chamber members up to date on fair activities.

The fair court and secretary Laddie Jordan rode in the grand entry Sunday at the Horse Trading Days rodeo at Christmas Valley. The queen's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Marion Smith of Redmond, and Trudi's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Virgil Allen of Terrebonne, hauled the horses to Christmas Valley. The girls were taken to Portland Friday by Mr. and Mrs. Jordan for an appearance on the Heck Harper show. They were in Gearhart July 14 and 15 for the Clatsop County Rodeo. Both the board and court have announced they will ride in the Water Pageant parade this weekend in Bend.

Foreign aid bill receives House okay

WASHINGTON (UPI)—Despite a squall of last-minute complaints the House today handed President Kennedy a major legislative victory by giving final congressional approval to his $4.6 billion foreign aid bill.

The vote was 221 to 162. The authorization measure now goes to the White House for the President's signature. The Senate passed it late last week.

The House action came after a series of angry complaints that a House-Senate conference committee gave the administration just what it wanted when it came to a choice of legislative restrictions on the chief executive.

The conference committee ironed out differences in the separate aid bills passed earlier by the House and Senate.

Voting for the bill on final approval were 163 Democrats and 58 Republicans. Opposed were 65 Democrats and 97 Republicans.

Temperatures

High yesterday, 92 degrees. Low last night, 50 degrees. Sunset today, 7:35. Sunrise tomorrow, 4:55.

College housing is sought here

Central Oregon College housing officials report an increasing demand from students desiring to attend COC and live in the community, according to information from President Don Pence.

Roy L. Sailer of the COC staff is in charge of housing and student employment.

He said college officials are in the process of developing a system of approved college housing. Persons interested in renting to college students, who would be interested in boarding and rooming the students should get in touch with Sailer, Pence said.

Telephone of the college office is EV 2-4601, and Sailer's home telephone is EV 2-4752.

Schools visited by committee

Members of a special school building committee organized here earlier this summer were taken on a tour of various school buildings in the Bend system this morning.

The tour was conducted by R. E. Jewell, superintendent. Committee members were transported to the various buildings in a school bus.

Prior to the tour, the group met for a breakfast and discussion session at the Pine Tavern. Pat Williams, chairman of the committee, presided.

Members of a special school building committee organized here earlier this summer were taken on a tour of various school buildings in the Bend system this morning. The tour was conducted by R. E. Jewell, superintendent. Committee members were transported to the various buildings in a school bus. Prior to the tour, the group met for a breakfast and discussion session at the Pine Tavern. Pat Williams, chairman of the committee, presided.

Weary fire fighters face new threat

By Phil F. Rogan
Bulletin Staff Writer

A fire that blackened 1,500 acres of rangeland in the north-east Pine Mountain country some 30 miles east of Bend late Monday was "contained" today, but new trouble was building up for weary control crews.

Even before noon, thunderheads were rolling up in the southern sky and forecasters were warned by forecasters that intensive lightning is expected this afternoon.

Crews not on fire lines were alerted early in the day, and at Redmond and Lakeview borate bases, planes were ready to strike. Late Monday evening, planes from the Redmond base roared over Bend, their prime target a potentially dangerous blaze in the Luna Butte area.

The lightning-caused Luna Butte fire, some 12 miles south of Bend and east of Lava Butte, spread over about 20 acres before it was checked.

Shortly before noon today, at least three fires were burning out of control on Bureau of Land Management land in Oregon — out of more than 50 triggered by the Monday afternoon series of electric storms.

Largest of all fires in the state Monday evening was the 1,500-acre grassland blaze about six miles south of Millican and directly east of Pine Mountain. The lightning-sparked fire apparently started on the Roy Moffitt ranch and spread into Bureau of Land Management acreage. The fire was contained late in the night. Apparently the lines were holding this afternoon.

The BLM moved men and considerable equipment into the fire area, with the U.S. Forest Service assisting. In the initial phase of the fire, it was whipped toward federal timber by gusty winds, but did not reach the Forest Service lines. A wind change whipped the fire into the south-east.

The BLM moved men and considerable equipment into the fire area, with the U.S. Forest Service assisting. In the initial phase of the fire, it was whipped toward federal timber by gusty winds, but did not reach the Forest Service lines. A wind change whipped the fire into the south-east.

Call for Men

The BLM this morning issued a call for men, to assist in the mop-up of the Millican fire.

Today, three fires, each more than 500 acres in size, were blazing through dry sagebrush and grass in the Vale District of Malheur county. The Vale district fires stretched out from the Jordan Valley to Ironside near Baker county.

The series of electric storms Monday moved into the region following a day of intensive heat, with Bend recording 92 degrees, highest mark of the season.

This morning, the Forest Service received a forecast indicating a 75 per cent chance of "more intensive lightning" this afternoon in the Deschutes county.

A total of 15 fires were started in the Deschutes woods by yesterday's storm. All but the Luna Butte fire were small. Only light rain fell. Crescent measured 0.17 of an inch. A local, heavy shower fell north of Three Creeks Lake.

The storm that passed over the high desert east of Bend reached the Ochoco, but lost most of its fire before getting there. Only three spot fires were reported in the Ochoco National Forest, up to this morning.

Rusk, Gromyko hold meeting

GENEVA (UPI)—Secretary of State Dean Rusk and Soviet Foreign Minister Andrei Gromyko met for four hours on the Berlin question today but Rusk said later there had been no real change in the East-West positions.

The two met over lunch at Gromyko's villa and later sat on a bench in the garden talking animatedly.

Rusk told newsmen on leaving they had had "a good lunch and an interesting talk" and that Berlin and "matters arising from this morning's disarmament conference" had been discussed.

The two men did not set an immediate date for a new meeting today but it was believed they would meet again before they leave Geneva.