Texas 13-point pick to wrap up SW bowl spot

NEW YORK (UPI)—The odds-makers have established Texas as a 13-point favorite to knock off Texas A&M Thursday and wrap up the best berth in the Cotton Bowl.

The Longhorns will enter the nationally televised game at Austin, Tex., as the Southwest Conference pacemakers with a 5-0-1 record. Their record against all comers is 8-0-1. Texas A&M is 3-3 in the conference and 3-6 overall.

In other holiday features, Virginia Tech is favored by 6 points over VMI and North Carolina State is a 12-point choice over Wake Forest.

Wisconsin's Rose Bowl-bound Badgers are 6-point favorites over Minnesota in Saturday's battle for the Big Ten Conference championship and Southern California, the nation's No. 1 team, is a 14-point choice to defeat UCLA and clinch the Big Six title.

Oklahoma, needing a victory of a tie to clinch an Orange Bowl berth, is favored by 11 over Nebraska in the Big Eight. Duke, the Atlantic Coast Conference leader, is a 13-point pick to beat North Carolina and clinch its third straight league title.

In other leading games Saturday:

East: Dartmouth, Ivy League champion, 12 over Princeton; Syracuse 13 over West Virginia; Penn State 8 over Pittsburgh.

South: Auburn 4 over Florida State; Clemson 5 over South Carolina; Tennessee 6 over Kentucky; Northwestern 1 over Miami (Fla.).

Midwest: Iowa 1 over Notre Dame; Missouri 6 over Kansas; Purdue 11 over Indiana; Ohio State 18 over Michigan in a nationally televised game; Michigan State 11 over Illinois.

Southwest: SMU and Baylor, even; Rice 5 over Texas Christian; Arkansas 20 over Texas Tech.

West: California and Stanford, even; Oregon 2 over Oregon State; Washington 11 over Washington State.

Baker nation's offense leader

NEW YORK (UPI)—All-America candidate Terry Baker of Oregon State is the nation's total offense leader, NCAA statistics showed today.

Baker has gained 2,159 yards in nine games. He took over the lead from Eldon Fortie of Brigham Young, who has 1,963 yards.

Baker is third in forward passing with 104 out of 186 for 1,648 yards.

Vern Burke of Oregon State is first in pass receiving with 66 catches for 987 yards.

Oregon State ranks second

NEW YORK (UPI)—Oregon State was ranked second in total offense with 300.4 yards per game in NCAA major college football statistics.

Arizona State was first, Oregon was fourth with a 367.2 average.

Big Six honors Hugh Campbell

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI)—End Hugh Campbell of Washington State, who tied an all-time college record last weekend, was named Monday as the Big Six "Lineman of the Week."

In the Cougars' 22-14 victory over Idaho Saturday, Campbell caught four passes for a total of 83 yards and one touchdown and also snagged a two-point conversion pass.

PLAYER BREAKS ANKLE
BUFFALO, N.Y. (UPI)—John Kemmer will be lost to the Canisius College basketball team until at least Jan. 1 because of a broken bone in his right ankle.

The 6-4, 220-pound junior from New York City suffered the injury during a scrimmage Monday.

WHAT MAKES SAMBO'S RUN?

Hungry folks just like you keep Sambo's on the run! From 6 a.m. to 10 p.m. daily we're on the go, treating our guests to such delicacies as Tiger Pancakes (the finest west of the Congo) and choice steaks and tempting salads. People tell us every meal's a pleasure here. We'd be delighted to show you what they mean! How about right now?

Paul said the sale of the club already has been approved by the board of directors and now must be okayed by the stockholders. A meeting for this purpose is to take place next week.

Paul said there would be no drastic changes in policy. He said the main purpose would be to "improve the Tribe and make it into a winning team."

Paul already had taken a step toward this goal even before he became an owner. During the World Series, he enticed Birdie Tebbetts to take over as Tribe manager.

Another rumor, not as authoritative, has it that Milton-Freewater is considering playing only nearby teams in northeastern Oregon and southeastern Washington.

If that one is true, it would leave only nine teams in the conference and full round-robin plan would appear the only logical solution in football.

Otherwise, there'd be only Pendleton, Hermiston, Baker and La Grande left to fight it out for the eastern subdistrict title.

IC grid champs bogged down by gooey sea of Salem mud

Prep ramblings...

They played the Pendleton-North Salem playoff game in a sea of Salem mud last Saturday afternoon, and once again the quarter-final jinx that has plagued Intermountain Conference teams for three-plus years took its toll.

"Pendleton fans turned out several hundred strong, and virtually every one of them thought PHS would have won on a dry field," sports editor Nolan Skiff wrote in the Pendleton East Oregonian.

But in Salem they build "mud-ders," — they have to. And this team was primed for one of the muddiest fields of all time.

"The recipe was simple," observed Salem Capital Journal sports writer Jim Close: "One football field (Bennett), generous amounts of water daily for seven days and the competitive stir. It came up instant mud pies."

"North Salem Coach Spike Hillstrom had hoped for a slightly muddy turf to offset the passing attack of the Bucks. He got his mud — almost too much of it."

Even in the closing moments of the game, despite leg weariness occasioned by a frustrating fight against mud and attempts to run with pounds of mud carried on jerseys, pants, socks and clinging to shoes, the Bucks managed to successfully fight off a final attempt by the 200 pounders to grind out a second score," Skiff wrote.

The Bucks, not counting the mud, were outweighed 25 pounds per man.

If all the rumors floating this way are correct, there's a chance Intermountain Conference directors will return to a full round-robin football schedule at the December 1 league meeting in Arlington.

We've heard there's a change of feeling by school directors at two eastern subdistrict schools. The Dulles, in the western subdistrict, is also reported leaning toward full round-robin play.

All three voted for the subdistrict type of play last year. The vote favoring the subdistrict football plan was 6-4 in favor. Thus, if three schools change their mind, it would be more than enough to tip the scales back in favor of the full round-robin plan.

On the other hand, Prineville school official Lloyd Lewis has given some indication that he likes the present subdistrict plan. Prineville, along with Bend, Hermiston and Pendleton, voted for the full-district plan.

Another rumor, not as authoritative, has it that Milton-Freewater is considering playing only nearby teams in northeastern Oregon and southeastern Washington.

If that one is true, it would leave only nine teams in the conference and full round-robin plan would appear the only logical solution in football.

Paul heads $6 million Tribe sale

CLEVELAND, Ohio (UPI)—The sale of the Cleveland Indians for an estimated $6 million to a 19-man syndicate returned a "one-man" operation to the city's baseball front.

Gabe Paul, a transplanted National League player who spent many years with Cincinnati as general manager, not only will act as general manager, but will be president and treasurer of the new group.

In addition, he assumed jobs once held by Nate Dolin and George Medinger, members of the old owners. Paul will have the final say when it comes to the player deals, operations at the stadium and radio and television contracts.

Paul, who introduced the new owners at a press conference Tuesday, said the composition of the group means that the "Indians will stay in Cleveland."

"The sale of the Indians to a group mostly comprised of Clevelanders will dispel any future rumors that the Indians are leaving Cleveland," Paul said. "This group is composed of civic-minded Clevelanders interested in keeping the Indians here."

Paul said the sale of the club already has been approved by the board of directors and now must be okayed by the stockholders. A meeting for this purpose is to take place next week.

Paul said there would be no drastic changes in policy. He said the main purpose would be to "improve the Tribe and make it into a winning team."

year after it was learned the Bend High cafeteria wasn't available.

But the Elks Club, in okaying the use of their dining room, saved the day. This is a big night for the local gridlers, one that shouldn't be denied them.

The feed is sponsored by the Bend Athletic Association, and, prior to the Elks Club solution, there was talk of a tentative all-sports banquet at the end of the school year.

Now that the football feed is scheduled, the BAA has dropped plans for the all-sports banquet. But we think the latter idea has merit, too.

Why couldn't school officials pick up the ball and sponsor this one? And, in the spring, there's a much better chance of bringing in a main speaker.

Awards could be presented to outstanding athletes in all sports. We've often wondered why Bend High has a football banquet, but doesn't have a banquet to honor participants in wrestling, basketball, baseball and track.

An all-sports-banquet could include all of the major and minor sports — from football to bowling, skiing and golf. And why not shoot for a name speaker — like Casanova, Prothro, Owens, Sutherland, Slat Gill, Bowerman or the like?

It might be a start in reviving some athletic interest among students and adults alike.

Church, city cage meets set

Junior high and senior high church league basketball representatives will meet 7:30 p.m. Monday, November 26, in the city recreation department.

Last year's program drew nine teams in the junior high level and six senior high teams.

City league basketball representatives will meet 8:30 p.m. Monday, following the church league meeting.

December practice dates are planned for teams in all three leagues, with official play starting after the first of the year.

NEW YORK (UPI)—That's three down and one more to go to make Mickey Mantle the "most" valuable player of all time.

Mantle, who honestly felt that Yankee teammate Bobby Richardson would win this year's award, was named the Most Valuable Player in the American League Tuesday for the third time in his career.

No one in either league has ever won the award four times—but at 31 and at the peak of his career Mickey has a better chance to do it than anyone else.

The only other three-time winners are Stan Musial, Yogi Berra, Joe DiMaggio, Jimmie Foxx and Roy Campanella.

Runnerup to teammate Roger Maris the previous two years, Mantle was an easy winner this time, polling 234 points as compared with 152 for Richardson in second place.

Richardson Sparkplug Richardson, who drew five first-place votes, batted .302 this year, drove in 58 runs and had eight homers. But those figures tell only half the story. He kept rally after rally alive and was little short of magnificent around second base.

The only other players to attract any first-place votes were Harmon Killebrew of the Minnesota Twins and Yankee rookie Tom Tresh, each of whom had one. Killebrew finished third in the balloting with 99 points and Tresh 12th with 30.

Maris, who beat out Mantle by four points in 1950 and by three last year, failed to get a single vote this time.

Outfielder Leon Wagner of the Los Angeles Angels wound up in fourth place with 85 points and pitcher Dick Donovan of the Cleveland Indians fifth with 64.

Points were awarded on the basis of 14 for a first-place vote, 9 for second, 8 for third and so on down to one point for a 10th place vote.

Long said Oregon was a "great football team and we've got a real challenge on our hands."

McHugh said Terry Baker will be "by far" the best back Oregon has faced this season.

McHugh added he felt a wet field would work to the advantage of Oregon State. Long disagreed. "We want a dry field and think a wet field would hurt our chances," he said.

Long said tension was high in Corvallis. "The coaches are even irritable with each other."

Long also declined to talk about field chances. "We're thinking only of the Benton County bowl."

Bill Russell has 10,002 rebounds now

NEW YORK (UPI)—Bill Russell, who now has grabbed more than 10,000 rebounds, picked up 30 more Tuesday night to increase his National Basketball Association total to 10,002 while helping the Boston Celtics solidify their Eastern Division lead with a 113-106 victory over the Chicago Zephyrs.

Despite Russell's brilliance on the backboards, the Celtics still needed Bob Cousy's deft touch to win.

Sparked by rookies Don Nelson and Mel Nowell, the Zephyrs closed a 17-point gap to three points early in the final quarter.

Cousy then took over and increased Boston's margin to 91-83 and after Chicago moved to within two points with 46 seconds remaining, Cousy broke an all-court press to score and then wrapped up the game with a free throw.

PORTLAND (UPI)—Assistant coaches Jerry Long of Oregon State and Phil McHugh of Oregon gave sportswriters and sportsmen a rundown on their two teams here Tuesday, and each praised the opposition.

McHugh said Oregon has about forgotten about possibilities of a bowl game after losing 26-7 to Ohio State Saturday. He added "We feel it will take our best effort of the year to win."
