Topic selected for discussions

"Great Decisions" topics for the 1963 series begin with "The Common Market," and conclude with "Peace."
Other weekly discussions will concern Red China and the USSR, Algeria, Spain, India, Laos and Vietnam, and the Alliance for Progress.

A planning meeting to secure discussion group leaders and determine time and place of the sessions will be held at a noon luncheon Tuesday, November 27 in the Pine Tavern, Bend. Representatives of several Central Oregon communities have been asked to attend. At that time Chairman, Bend, district chairman for Great Decisions, will preside.

Miss Janet Baker, Deschutes county 4-H extension agent, will be in charge of organization. Mrs. George McBride, Portland, will explain the Great Decisions program, how it is conducted, who sponsors it, and the opinion ballots that follow each session.
Burton Berger, Oregon State University Extension information specialist, will discuss the Foreign Policy Association, a nationwide educational agency serving the American people. It is non-partisan.

Community representatives at the luncheon will be asked to help secure discussion leaders and set up the February and March meetings in their own areas. The coming year will be the ninth consecutive for this nationwide project.

Great decisions programs are for everyone, says Hansen. Efforts will be made to schedule meetings to accommodate as many as possible. Study kits will be sold for nominal cost, each containing opinion ballots to be submitted after discussion meetings, says Miss Baker.

More misprints placed on sale

WASHINGTON (UPI)—The Post Office Department put another 1.5 million of the controversial Dag Hammarskjöld stamp misprints on sale today to meet a continued demand for the deliberate errors.

A court injunction proceeding brought by Leonard Sherman, Irvington, N.J., the irate owner of 50 of the original inverts, was dissolved Tuesday when he dropped his lawsuit.

Postal officials said they sold 100,000 of the intentionally inverted commemorative stamps issued in honor of the late U.N. secretary general in the hour after Sherman withdrew his suit from federal court at Newark, N.J.

This brought to 475,000 the number sold to an eagerly receptive group of stamp collectors, who didn't seem to mind that the government planned to print as many as the public would buy.
