Internal, not external, changes seen as result of Italian voting

By Phil Newman
UPI Staff Writer

Italian voters gave Italian Communist boss Palmiro Togliatti a belated birthday present this year, but it seems too early for Moscow to do much celebrating.

The general elections which gave the Communists a record number of votes actually were a shakedown of Italian political sentiment and seem likely to have little effect on the "left-of-center" policy which Premier Amintore Fanfani launched in February 1962.

Any changes that do come about can be expected to be internal rather than external, having no effect either on Italy's NATO ties or on its membership in the European Common Market.

All this is based on the assumption that the political forces which made Italy's left-center government possible retain their ties and that the left-wing Socialists of Pietro Nenni do not heed Togliatti's siren call to join the Communists in a "new political course."

Political Chaos

To do so would be to plunge Italy into the greatest political chaos since World War II.

Past action makes such an event unlikely.

When Fanfani began his left-center government a little more than a year ago, it was in search of a political stability unknown in Italy since the post-war governments of Alcide de Gasperi.

Fanfani's own Christian Democratic party remained the largest in Italy but it was a patchwork of elements ranging from the moderate left to the extreme right. Since the war, Italy has had 22 governments.

Conflicting interests within the smaller parties such as the Neofascists, the Monarchists, the Liberals and others made successful coalition impossible.

Meanwhile, the left-wing Socialists who had joined the Communists in a popular front in 1946 and split with them two years later, were drifting steadily farther away from their former allies under the leadership of Nenni.

Coalition Formed

In 1962, Fanfani obtained agreement from his own party for his left-center experiment. His new government was composed of his own Christian Democrats, the Republicans and the Social Democrats.

It had the outside support of the Nenni Socialists in return for promises to nationalize the electrical industry, to decentralize state administration by creating regional governments, to institute school reforms and development plans especially for the south.

It alienated both the extreme right and the extreme left and it was anticipated that some votes would flee both the Christian Democrats on the right and the Nenni Socialists on the left.

GETS CONVENTION

PORTLAND (UPI) — Portland got word Wednesday it has officially been picked for the 1966 American Legion national convention. The convention is expected to attract upwards of 40,000 persons.

Boys admit part in car taking

City police Wednesday received written confessions from two Bend boys who admitted their guilt in taking and using a vehicle without the owner's permission.

They are Ronald Leo Giltner, 16, of 28 Allen Road, and Morg G. Hollamon, 15, of 1535 Awbrey Road.

Both youths explained they were with two other Bend boys who on April 1 drove away in a parked car belonging to William Tomlinson, Route 2, Box 35. Their companions signed confessions Monday.

The boys will await action by the juvenile court.

Municipal court fines assessed

Bert Dwayne Farris, 829 Delaware, paid the largest fine in municipal court Wednesday on a basic rule violation. He was assessed $100 plus court costs for driving 60 miles per hour in a 25-mile limit zone.

Fined $15 and costs for violation of the basic rule was Robert E. Allen, 654 Norton Street.

Carolyn M. Turner, 1626 H 111 Street, forfeited $2 plus costs for overtime parking, and Don Nored, South Highway 97, paid a $1 forfeiture plus a $1 impounding fee for having a dog at large.

FIRE CALL ANSWERED

Bend firemen answered one call Wednesday to the home of George Balltich, 502 E. Fourth, where a furnace flue overheated. No damage was reported.

SISTERS — Twenty-four eighth grade students, accompanied by Mrs. Burl Gilland, Mrs. Albert Demaris, and Mrs. Emille Sandoz, and their teachers, Gary Griivas and Barry Lawrence, enjoyed a trip in conjunction with their Oregon History studies, to Salem and Portland on Monday.

At the State Capitol Building, they sat in for a time at sessions of the Senate, and of the House of Representatives. They were shown the governor's reception room, and the paintings on the walls and the official seal in the main room of the Capitol.

The group went on to Portland after dinner to visit the Oregon Museum of Science and Industry and the zoo. They returned home in the evening.

James Earl Ludd, president of the Puget Sound College of the Bible at Seattle, Wash., and the traveling choir from the college will be guests and will have charge of the Sunday morning services and the Sunday School classes at the Sisters Church of Christ on May 5. A potluck fellowship dinner will follow the morning service. The public is invited to attend.

On Tuesday, the eighth grade class and their room mothers and teachers made a trip to the Painted Hills near Mitchell. They enjoyed a picnic lunch at noon, and returned home in the afternoon.

The nominees for student body officers at Sisters High School have been campaigning for the past week. Elections were held Tuesday morning and the following students were elected to serve for the coming year: president, Rick Jacobsen; vice-president, Pat Hammack; secretary, Kathy Roberts; and treasurer, Toni Steele.

Rock-hunting interest noted

Special to The Bulletin

PRINEVILLE — Inquiries about rock-hunting in the Prineville area, at Chamber of Commerce rock-hunting beds, are coming to the chamber's office at the rate of 25 to 40 a day, according to Ivan Chappell, chamber manager.

Chappell credits an article in the May issue, Gem and Minerals Magazine, about Prineville rock-hunting areas for the sudden burst of nationwide interest.

The article, he said, tells of the types of rocks and mineral specimens found here. It also lists the rock-hunting acreage which the chamber has secured by mineral claims for free public use.

Free maps, now available, are also described in the article, and Chappell is busy mailing maps to persons who have sent requests, together with the indication that they plan to visit the Central Oregon area this summer. The magazine is a southern California publication, and Chappell says he expects to see many visitors from that region.
