

Dominican strike at Haiti may be imminent

UN to parley on Haitian war dilemma

UNITED NATIONS, N. Y. (UPI) — Haiti today demanded a meeting of the Security Council to consider the war threat arising from its quarrel with the Dominican Republic.

SANTO DOMINGO, Dominican Republic (UPI) — President Juan Bosch convoked his cabinet today for a report from military chiefs, strengthening belief the hour for a Dominican strike against Haiti may be imminent.

The meeting lasted an hour but no official comment was forthcoming. However, Bosch summoned U.S. Ambassador John Barlow Martin to the palace, presumably to give him a briefing on the meeting.

An army spokesman said Dominican infantry now were in attack positions the length of the border separating the two countries on the Caribbean island of Hispaniola.

Bosch madeno secret of his plans to invade Haiti if necessary to topple the dictatorial regime of President Francois Duvalier.

The Organization of American States (OAS) stepped up its efforts to head off a war between the two nations which share the Caribbean island of Hispaniola, only 55 miles from Cuba.

President Duvalier vowed in Port-au-Prince he never would step down under pressure, he told his people:

"I am a revolutionary in every sense — not a sentimental type but one of the hard kind...I have for my companion my rifle."

In Washington, the OAS scheduled an emergency meeting to hear a report from three members of the fact-finding mission it sent to Haiti and the Dominican Republic. The mission members expressed doubt that Bosch would move against Haiti while the OAS was trying to solve the crisis.

Move Into Position
But Bosch moved troops, tanks and warships into position for an invasion, spurred on by a plea from Haitian political refugees in asylum in Port-au-Prince to save them from "savage assassination" by Duvalier's police.

Although no formal ultimatum was issued, Dominican officials hinted the attack could come at any time and might be preceded by heavy aerial bombardment of Duvalier's palace.

U.S. Marines aboard a Navy task force within 30 miles of Port-au-Prince were alerted to move in to evacuate 1,000 Americans in the Haitian capital if fighting broke out. The Navy said it was ready to move on 10-minute notice.

The British sent a Royal Navy frigate to international waters just off Haiti and the Admiralty in London said the ship would remove British residents if that became necessary.

Harrison's survivors are his wife, Elizabeth, Mountain Home AFB and three children, and his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Bruce Harrison, Wheelersburg, Ohio. Matthews' wife, Helen, lives at Mountain Home AFB with their 3-year-old son.

Parents protest

Missouri Catholics rap ruling on buses

JEFFERSON CITY, Mo. (UPI) — A political-religious demonstration against Missouri's refusal to provide public school bus transportation for parochial students was expected today to spread across the state.

Catholic parents indicated that thousands of students would withdraw today from church schools and enroll at public institutions. There is no apparent central authority in the demonstration, but there are 172,000 Catholic students in Missouri who could demand public education.

Massive enrollment by the students could spell "financial disaster" for Missouri, costing some $56 million more each year in state funds.

There were scattered demonstrations last Wednesday and Thursday which grew and widened Friday. Suburbs of St. Louis and Kansas City expected heavy enrollments today and some 1,500 Catholics said they would enter public schools today in this state capital town.

Kill Bus Measure
The Missouri House had a bill before it which would have extended school bus privileges to private and parochial schools. The House Judiciary Committee voted 19-3 Tuesday to kill the measure.

There had been heated hearings concerning the proposal, but when the bill died the protests exploded.

The Roman Catholic Church has not sanctioned the demonstrations. Some leaders said it was the right of the individuals to protest and others said they were dead against it. The main lobbyist for the bill, James Cox of Jefferson City, said there was no advanced planning in the demonstrations.

Parents at the tiny town of St. Martin, nine miles west of here, started the demonstration enrolling which spread rapidly.

Other Catholic parents said they planned to enroll their children in public schools next fall because "we can't afford to keep on voting bond issues for public schools and paying parochial tuition too."

Negroes plan new protests in Alabama

BIRMINGHAM, Ala. (UPI) — Negro leaders, encouraged by the first march on city jail in a 34-day campaign that did not result in mass arrests, planned more protests for today while federal officials sought to ease the explosive racial situation here.

More than 2,000 singing, chanting Negroes Sunday marched six blocks from a Negro church to a park across from the city jail. They were permitted by police to hold a 15-minute demonstration aimed at bolstering the spirits of more than 1,200 Negroes who remain in jail for previous demonstrations.

Burke Marshall, head of the Justice Department's civil rights division and considered the chief racial trouble-shooter of the Kennedy administration, met with local officials during the weekend in efforts to ease racial pressures.

Both sides remained tight-lipped about the negotiations. U.S. Atty. Gen. Robert Kennedy canceled a weekend trip to keep an eye on the tense situation in this Deep South industrial center.

Negro leaders predicted students who began skipping school by the hundreds last week to take part in the drive would play hooky en masse today to participate in the protests.

Rev. Martin Luther King Jr., who predicted complete success for the protest movement in a sermon in Atlanta Sunday, was back here today to spearhead the drive.

Negro comedian Dick Gregory, active in a recent Greenwood, Miss., Negro voter registration drive, was to arrive later today by plane.

Police Commissioner Eugene (Bull) Connor had police keep a tight rein on the march Sunday and set up barricades complete with fire hoses around the park, but the demonstration was not broken up.

Tanks move in—but it was no blitz
Tanks moved into Bend this morning—but it was no blitz.

Five of them were on a string of cars that rolled into town from the north and were placed on a siding, preparatory to unloading in the old box factory area of the Brooks-Scanlon, Inc. ground.

Three of the tanks will be assigned to the Bend company of the second tank battalion, 303rd Armor, Oregon National Guard. Two will be moved "overland" to Redmond.

Bend, Redmond and Burns ONG companies were recently assigned to a tank battalion of the 41st division. The five tanks assigned the Bend and Redmond companies are of the medium type, with a big 90 MM gun mounted in front, and a machine gun. Each tank will carry a four-man crew.

The tanks were brought to Central Oregon on five flatcars from Fort Lewis, Wash. They have been used, but are in top shape. Captain Keith Molan, commanding officer of the Bend unit, noted.

The tanks lack some of their equipment, including periscopes, but will be fully outfitted in the immediate future. Then will come a period of intensive training for the tank crews.

The Bend tanks will be kept outside the ONG armory here, possibly in the compound. However, it will be impossible to get the tanks in the armory.

comment on his political future or the effect the marriage might have on his presidential aspirations. Before leaving Idlewild International Airport Sunday he told newsmen:

"I know that some of you would like to discuss politics. But I don't think that this is the time or place for it. There will be time for that later."

Both the governor and Mrs. Rockefeller, an attractive brunette, beamed with apparent happiness during their stops en route to the ranch. At Idlewild, Rockefeller said to newsmen it was "indeed a very happy occasion and a very great honor and pleasure to introduce you to someone you have been looking for for a long time."

Debate begins on constitution in Oregon House

Kiwanians nominate Bend man for Division 15A post

A Bend man, Bill Hudson, has been nominated for the post of lieutenant-governor of Division 15A of the Northwest Kiwanis Club District.

The action was taken at the spring conference of Kiwanians held in Bend over the weekend. Final action on the selection will be taken at the district convention in Anchorage, Alaska in August.

Division 15A is comprised of clubs in Central and Southern Oregon and northern California.

Highly Successful
Club officials reported that the weekend conference here was highly successful, with a total of 161 Kiwanians and their wives attending from 25 clubs. Division 15, comprised of clubs in the Willamette Valley, joined with Division 15A for the annual conference.

Sessions were held at the Bend Golf Club. The program concluded with an inter-club luncheon on Sunday with Norm Symons, president of the Bend Kiwanis Club presiding. Speaker at the luncheon was District Governor Bedri Saad of Spokane. Entertainment included a vocal solo by Bob Kircher, Redmond, accompanied on the piano by Lois Gumpert of Bend.

Memorial Message
At the opening of the conference on Saturday The Rev. D. L. Penhollow, Bend Kiwanian, delivered a memorial message in honor of the late E. Ron Rice of Medford. Mr. Rice was Pacific N.W. District Governor at the time of his recent death. His wife was an honored guest at the conference.

Presiding at the conference meetings were Lt.-Gov. Merle E. Foland, Division 15A and Lt.-Gov. Wade Young, Division 15.

Attending were officers from the following clubs: Alturas, Calif.; Ashland, Bend, Coos Bay, Coquille, Emerald Empire (Eugene), Eugene, Glide, Grants Pass, Clayton, Calif.; Klamath Falls, Linkville, Medford, Prineville, Redmond, River Road (Eugene), Roseburg, Seaside, Springfield, Spokane, Tulelake.

TRAFFIC HAZARD
PETERBOROUGH, England (UPI) — Walter Cornelius' ambition to match President Kennedy's challenge by walking 50 miles was frustrated today by police, who told him he would create a traffic hazard.

Cornelius, a 39-year-old life guard, had planned to walk all 50 miles on his hands.

NW Ski Patrol to meet here
The 1964 meeting of the Pacific Northwest Ski Patrol, a division of a national group, will be in Bend, with toboggan races to be held at Bachelor Buette.

This was the word brought here by Don Peters, first aid chief of the Bend Ski Patrol, and Buzz Silvers, who attended the annual meeting of the Northwest group in Yakima, Wash., over the weekend. Officials present included Charles Schobinger of Denver, Colo., National Ski Patrol chairman; Kurt Bean, Seattle, Wash., division chairman, and Dick Brunswig, Medford, regional chairman.

To permit a further exchange of ideas, the group decided to reinstate the first aid and toboggan competition of earlier years, and under this program the toboggan teams from the Northwest will participate.

The Northwest meeting in 1964, about this time of year, will bring some 100 ski patrolmen to Bend. Discussed at the Yakima meeting were various ski patrol problems, first aid activities and other work that is increasing in scope as interest in skiing continues.

Assisting with arrangements for the 1964 meeting in Bend will be the newly elected leaders of the local ski patrol — Dr. John Say, Prineville, patrol leader; Bill Shenk, Bend, assistant leader; John Barton, Bend, secretary-treasurer, and Don Peters, first aid chief.

20-24 Demo votes forecast by Speaker

SALEM (UPI) — Debate on a new constitution for Oregon opened in the House today, with Democratic leadership predicting Democrats will supply more than half the 40 votes it needs to pass.

House Speaker Clarence Barton predicted the document would get 20 to 24 votes from the 31 Democrats in the House.

Republican Minority Leader F. F. Montgomery of Eugene declined to estimate how many of the 29 Republicans would vote for it. GOP Gov. Mark Hatfield, however, has endorsed constitutional revision.

If the document got a two-thirds vote of the House, and then of the Senate, it would go to the voters next May.

The proposed new constitution would replace Oregon's present one, written 106 years ago and amended 111 times.

Two Years Work
The Oregon Commission on Constitutional Revision, appointed by action of the 1961 Legislature, began writing a new document two years ago. The commission's work was submitted to the legislature this January.

House and Senate committees spent three and one half hours, meeting jointly, going over the document and revising parts of it.

The committees ended up with a draft a little closer to Oregon's present constitution than the commission had proposed.

There were only a few differences between the two committees.

The proposed constitution is less than half the length of the present one. It contains 14 articles, two of them transitional.

Changes Listed
The new document would do these things: Get rid of obsolete provisions in the present constitution. —Modernize language. —Shift some provisions, and many procedural details to the statutes, a change that would increase flexibility of the document for the future. —Make some substantive changes.

The major substantive change is that proposed in the executive branch, where the governor would be made the single executive statewide executive officer. He would be checked by an elective, "watch-dog" secretary of state with post-audit functions only.

Executive agencies, boards and commissions would be gathered into 20 departments.

Senate Uncertain
Even with House approval, the new constitution would face an uncertain future in the Senate.

Senate President Ben Musa told newsmen a few hours before House debate began, "I'm not enchanted with it. I'll vote against it and let it go at that. I haven't polled Senate members on their views, and there will be no arm twisting..."

Rocky, bride honeymoon at ranch in Venezuela

CARACAS, Venezuela (UPI) — Gov. Nelson A. Rockefeller and his bride began a two-week honeymoon at a sprawling family cattle ranch today, remote from the political controversy stirred by their marriage back home.

Rockefeller and the former Mrs. Margaretta Fidler (Happy) Murphy settled down in relative isolation on the 14,000-acre ranch and potato farm 125 miles west of Caracas.

The newlyweds were overwhelmed by Venezuelans at an impromptu airport reception here Sunday when they arrived from New York. Later they flew by private plane to Rockefeller's ranch near Valencia.

"We came here for a honeymoon because we love Venezuela," the governor told the South Americans on hand to greet him at Caracas Airport.

GOP Starts Reappraisal
Back in Washington Republican leaders began reappraisal of their possible presidential candidates in light of Rockefeller's sudden remarriage Saturday. They found themselves in almost total disagreement about the political effects of the move.

Some felt the New York governor, who had been considered the strongest contender for the 1964 GOP presidential nomination, had committed political suicide by his marriage. Others said it would have no effect.

Rockefeller, 54, who was divorced last year by his wife of 31 years, married Mrs. Murphy, 36, in a quiet ceremony Saturday. The bride, a mother of four, divorced her husband, Dr. James R. Murphy, 35 days ago.

The ceremony at the Rockefeller estate at Pocantico Hills, N.Y., climaxed a romance nobody admitted but which had been whispered about in cafe society and hinted at in international society columns for months.

Rockefeller himself refused to comment on his political future or the effect the marriage might have on his presidential aspirations. Before leaving Idlewild International Airport Sunday he told newsmen:

"I know that some of you would like to discuss politics. But I don't think that this is the time or place for it. There will be time for that later."

Both the governor and Mrs. Rockefeller, an attractive brunette, beamed with apparent happiness during their stops en route to the ranch. At Idlewild, Rockefeller said to newsmen it was "indeed a very happy occasion and a very great honor and pleasure to introduce you to someone you have been looking for for a long time."

Mrs. Rockefeller appeared slightly nervous as she faced a bank of microphones and said "I'm very happy, and I know you'll understand that I'm slightly overwhelmed at this moment."
