Convicted judge spared prison time

100 YEARS AGO
Jan. 28, 1915

J.A. French, former county judge was paroled, conditionally, from the penitentiary January 11, and is now in the Willamette valley. The condition was that he repay to the county the $2800, for the misappropriation of which he was indicted and sentenced on his plea of guilty. Ever since Mr. French went to Salem reports have come back to this county from time to time to the effect that he was not incarcerated in the state prison at all. Disclosures made at Salem in the last few days show such was the case.

More weather records, for continued cold, have been made in Enterprise during the week past. During the seven days the temperature has been at or below zero every morning the lowest being 18 below, Friday morning, January 22.

Two fire scares in one week have made life exciting for Sam Litch. Last Saturday he was trying to clean out a chimney of his house in town. R.L. Day suggested pouring oil on an old gunny sack and placing it in the chimney, saying this would remove all the soot. Mr. Litch tried this and shortly flames were spouting from the chimney top at such a rate that the fire department was called out. No harm was done, however. While H.P. Rowe was trying to thaw out a frozen water pipe at Mr. Litch's fine house on Alder Slope Tuesday morning, the wall caught fire and burned fiercely for a time. Mr. Rowe chopped boards away and got at the flame and extinguished it just in the nick of time.

charge of having untagged elk in his possession during the recent elk season resulted in a hung jury which stood 7-5 for the conviction. Two other defendants under indictment on the same charge were not tried at this time. ... It was the contention of the defense that Kelly killed the elk in Union county and that the regulation requiring immediate tagging of elk when killed is unreasonable.

Andy, son of Mr. and Mrs. Walter Brennan, arrived on last Saturday's stage and was met by his parents and taken to the Brennan ranch. Andy, on furlough from the south Pacific, has 21 days plus traveling time. He and his parents plan to leave here Jan. 29 for Hollywood where Mr. Brennan will make another picture. The trip will be made by plane.

Four suspicious-looking characters who had been spotted in Wallowa were trailed to the county seat, where they were not hard to locate as they parked their car on Main street and traveled from tavern to tavern. Finally the officers were ready to spring their trap. ... Three suspects gave up without a struggle in the face of overwhelming odds, but one dived out the rear door and sprinted down the alley, tossing an object in a garbage can as he fled over the ice. Officer Harrison ... overtook the fugitive near the Safeway store. ... The suspects were hauled off to police headquarters for investigation. Approximately $600 in currency was found on them and $112 in nickels, dimes and quarters. The object taken from the garbage can was a wool sock full of coins. ... Word came over the wires the next morning that a string of public telephone pay stations had been robbed along a route from Medford to Pendleton.

Plans for the construction of a $250,000 chipper and barker at the Joseph sawmill were announced Saturday night by Bill Patterson, manager of Boise Cascade operations in this region. Patterson said that the contract has been let and it is expected that work will start almost immediately with the new equipment to be ready for operation by some time in May. About four additional full-time men will be hired.

The U.S. Forest Service has mismanaged Hells Canyon and the Wallowa Mountains and should be replaced as the agency in charge, an environmental group claims. Members of the Hells Canyon Preservation Council on Friday called for a federally funded study on their proposal to combine the Hells Canyon National Recreation Area and Eagle Cap Wilderness in a combined national park and preserve. ... A meeting in Baker City, attended by about 130 people, included a heated exchange between Ric Bailey of Enterprise, spokesman for the HCPC, and union representative Paul Moorehead of Joseph, who said his group would fight the proposal "to the bitter end."

There were fewer people working but also fewer people looking for jobs last month than in November, bringing the Wallowa County unemployment rate for December down to 5.0 percent.

The local ad campaign was tied in with the Super Bowl, coming up Sunday.
