

Nursing home dedication draws 550

100 YEARS AGO March 11, 1915

A law suit tried last week before Justice A.B. Conway ... was an action brought by Mrs. John M. Fruitts against J. F. Head, formerly a miller at Joseph. She asserted that last fall she had delivered to Mr. Head 2290 pounds of wheat, on an understanding that later she was to receive half that weight in flour. After 500 pounds of flour had been delivered to her, she said she was unable to get the remainder due her. She sued for $20.96, the value of the flour due her. ... Judgment was given in favor of Mrs. Fruitts. ... Other suits are pending against Mr. Head. Two have been started in Multnomah county, in which an effort is made to recover grain delivered to Mr. Head, and which is said to have passed out of his hands. Construction work was begun the first of this week on the new brick shop and office of Rodgers Brothers. It adjoins on the north side the frame automobile garage of the firm. ... The new structure is 40x80 feet in ground dimensions. It will be of brick, with concrete floor, steel ceiling and metal roof, making it as substantial and as nearly fireproof as possible. The levels for this part of River street never had been run until the builders were ready to start work.

Pfc. Willard E. Barnes has been missing in action in France since Nov. 20, 1944, according to word just received by his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Ollie Barnes. He was previously reported "slightly wounded in action" on Nov. 10. Willard was born on March 22, 1921, at Paradise and lived in that community until he entered the service on October 28, 1942. ... His parents, other relatives and friends hope that he will be located and found to be all right.

50 YEARS AGO March 11, 1965

Beautiful weather Sunday drew a large crowd out of their homes to attend the dedication of the nursing home addition to the Wallowa Memorial hospital. According to figures compiled in the guest register book at the door of the new facility nearly 550 persons attended the dedication and inspected the facilities of the new home. The majority of the visitors were from the various communities within Wallowa county, however a large number also came from La Grande, Baker, Walla Walla and Elgin and there was some representation from Pendleton, Hermiston, Boise and Salt Lake City.

Plans were disclosed this week for the construction and operation of a new lumber mill in the Joseph area. The mill is being constructed by the Evergreen Mills, Inc. with Max Gorsline, J.R. Stubblefield and Lorin M. Ricker as incorporators and stockholders. Work got underway this week in setting the mill equipment up. The site of the mill is the land which is owned by the City of Joseph near the north end of the Joseph airport. The land has been leased to the mill company by the City of Joseph.

Author, editor, and historian Alvin M. Josephy, Jr., has been named as chairman of the board of trustees for the Smithsonian Institution's newest museum, the National Museum of the American Indian. Josephy, 75, a part-time resident of Joseph and well known authority on Indian affairs and U.S. and Western history, will oversee the world's largest collection of Indian materials. "It will be a wonderful memorial for the whole nation," Josephy said of the national museum, which will be housed in the last available space at the Smithsonian mall, next to the Space Museum.

After five years as Wallowa County Planning Director Curt Dreyer will spend his last day on the job Friday. Dreyer plans a move to Port Angeles, Wash., where he will begin working as the leader of a planning team involved in the siting of a destination resort planned by the Mitsubishi Corp. There is no lack of applicants for the seat Dreyer is leaving vacant in the basement of the courthouse, however. The position, advertised in Spokane and Boise newspapers, has attracted 11 applicants from a wide geographical area, including one from Minnesota, according to county court secretary Diane Shetler.

A 40-student increase in the Joseph School District's enrollment this year is good and bad news for the school system. The good news is that for the first time in history Joseph will receive a dollar back for every dollar its patrons put into the Education Service District. ... The bad news is that the school is squeezed for space, and the school board will ask its patrons to pay for an additional classroom and one full time teacher to relieve the overcrowding.

Free educational sessions offered to caregivers

ENTERPRISE — An free educational series for family caregivers begins March 17. Class size is limited and pre-registration is required.

"Powerful Tools for Caregivers" is intended to provide the tools that caregivers need to take care of themselves. The program helps family caregivers reduce stress, improve self-confidence, communicate feelings better, balance their lives, increase their ability to make tough decisions and locate helpful resources.

The program is a six-week series of weekly sessions, held every Tuesday, beginning March 17, from 10 to 11:30 a.m. at the Community Connection Enterprise Senior Center, 702 NW First St. Two experienced class leaders conduct the series. Lessons are interactive, with discussions to help participants put their "tools" into action. Participants also receive a book, "The Caregiver Helpbook," developed specifically for the class.

Classes will be free of charge, thanks to support from Community Connection of Northeast Oregon.

For more information or to register, contact Rochelle at 541-963-3186, rochelle@ccno.org, or Connie at 541-426-3840.
