Thank You

I feel the need to thank the E.R. staff, the operating room staff, and Dr. Rose, plus all the wonderful and caring staff on the Nurses floor for taking such great care of me during my recent surgery at Wallowa Memorial Hospital. We are so fortunate to have this facility in our community. I just can't say enough about the wonderful care I received during my 4 day visit. I have no doubt my great care contributed immensely to my speedy recovery. Thank you all so much.

PROJECT: Director welcomes watershed inquiries

I welcome inquiries about Grande Ronde Model Watershed (GRMW) projects. The GRMW, together with the Oregon Watershed Enhancement Board, the Confederated Tribes of the Umatilla Indian Reservation, Nez Perce Tribe, Union and Wallowa SWCD's, Oregon Department of Fish and Wildlife, U.S. Forest Service, Wallowa Resources, several other agencies and many landowners, have over 20 years of history of using fish-dedicated monies to improve habitat in Union and Wallowa counties. Benefits associated with this investment don't stop in the rivers, but extends throughout the area in the form of strengthening tourism industries, enhancing ranch operations, and increasing local construction jobs. It is our goal to use restoration funds in a way which is mutually beneficial to local communities and native fish, both of which make this a wonderful place to call home.

Jeff Oveson, a Wallowa

County native, is the Executive Director of the Grande Ronde Model Watershed.

ROMBACH: PROGRAM: Ombudsman Do your thing represents resident interests

I almost threw away a pair the other day that got worn clean through in a few spots. Instead I got thrifty and sewed up the trouble spots. But I'm going to pull that stitching right back out and have those things appraised. We could all be literally sitting on denim gold mines. It's come full circle from Mr. Strauss making pants for gold miners.

I guess I'm overreacting. For a while there I thought paying someone to put the hurt on your pants was a sign to get ready for raining snakes and boiling seas. But I suppose city folk are just going to do their thing.

Hey, America, you go ahead and do your thing on your birthday. Cut loose. Try some cherry pie instead of apple for once. Go for a burger instead of a dog. Shake it up. Wear your brand new pants if you want. The ones without the grinder marks.

All you good people be safe with them fireworks. Except for the black snakes. Those you can go wild with. Maybe try lighting one off on the leg of your Carharts. That adds fifteen bucks in the LA market.

Jon Rombach is a local columnist for the Chieftain and breaks in Carharts real good after five years.

at home, in assisted living or in adult foster homes. Wallowa County, like other rural counties, does not have adequate support services such as home health, hospice and chore or respite services intended to meet specialized or temporary care needs. When these services are readily available, residents' needs can often be met in lower levels of care by complementing facility offerings. A facility determines the service offerings it chooses to provide and given this unique ownership/management situation, the community can help shape those to meet the needs of current and future residents.

The Ombudsman program is dedicated to improving the lives of long-term care residents and committed to assisting rural counties keep their elders in their communities. We believe solutions exist but will only be discovered and implemented by ongoing, transparent, and collaboration among stakeholders.

Please contact me at the Office of the Long-Term Care Ombudsman with concerns.

Todd Steele, MPA, and David Berger, JD, are with the Office of the Long-Term Care Ombudsman for the State of Oregon. Steele is Deputy State Long Term-Care Ombudsman, District 6, and Berger is Interim Agency Director and State Long-Term Care Ombudsman.
