LETTERS: We need to keep our public lands public

Keep and support public lands

To the Editor:
 Senator Ron Wyden's "7 Wonders of Oregon" tour brought us to what many believe is the most majestic part of Oregon — the Wallowa Mountains.
 Hunters and anglers — like me — come to these mountains for solitude. They are rugged and remote. When visitors come to hunt or fish in these mountains, they not only receive the mountain's bounty, but they give back to the community by supporting the local economy.
 It's crucial to hunters, anglers, hikers, and all outdoor enthusiasts that public lands remain open to all of us. Some in Congress have proposed selling our national public lands; we need to keep public lands in public hands. The Wallowas are the heartbeat of the economy here.

 And there are other attacks being launched in Congress. The Land and Water Conservation Fund is at risk of not being used for its intended purposes. Instead of investing in increasing access by sportsmen to our public lands, members of Congress are trying to use these funds to pay for general maintenance of national parks, among other purposes. Plus, we have only three months before the Land and Water Conservation Fund expires. Losing this resource would be devastating for conservation.

I thank Senator Wyden for being a champion of public lands and supporting the tools that protect our outdoor heritage and local economies. I hope his bill to reauthorize the Land and Water Conservation Fund is successful when he returns to DC.
