

Oregon FFA, Les Schwab team up to fight hunger

By Tori Suto
For The Chieftain

Oregon FFA partnered with Les Schwab Tire Center of Oregon to fight hunger in local communities. Through the month of October, Wallowa, Enterprise and Joseph FFA chapters took part in helping decrease the problem of statewide hunger. Since the recession in 2008, the Oregon Food Bank has seen a 41 percent increase in the need for food-box distribution, and our state's FFA programs were more than happy to lend a helping hand.

Joseph FFA would like to thank Les Schwab Tire Center for partnering with the FFA organization and for helping Oregon FFA chapters make a difference. "Living to Serve," is an important part in the official FFA Motto. "Learning to Do, Doing to Learn, Earning to Live and Living to Serve," is our core purpose.

OUT OF THE PAST

Items of interest from the pages of The Chieftain from this week in years past.

100 YEARS AGO Nov. 2, 1916

As Mrs. Walter Buzzard was working in the kitchen of the family home at the Buttes on Sunday, her dress caught fire. She had her baby in her arms and was petting it, standing with her back to the stove. It is supposed her dress was sucked into the stove thru the draft, and so was set on fire. She ran out of the house to prevent it catching fire and into the yard where she managed to extinguish the flames, but not until she was fearfully burned.

The house of Adna W. Haggerty on his homestead on Trout creek burned down Sunday morning, the fire starting a short time after he had gone out to do some work. It is supposed the fire caught from the stove. A Imnaha school children had quite a Halloween again this year. After school they all went up to the Dayton Rowbury ranch where they had hotdogs and all the trimmings. Then, in the school bus, accompanied by A.L. Duckett as driver, they started at the Imnaha River Woods and tricker-treated down the river to the Bridge and up Big Sheep to the Borgerding ranch. Then A.L. returned them all to their homes.
