

State bans weapons in the workplace

By PARIS ACHEN
Capital Bureau

SALEM — The state has adopted a new policy that prohibits state employees from having weapons in their workplace as a condition of employment, narrowing a preexisting policy that banned weapons in most state agency buildings.

The new policy, which took effect Jan. 6, prohibits weapons in the workplace unless having a weapon is part of the employee’s assigned duties.

The policy applies to all employees, board and commission members, volunteers and others working in an agency.

“It is a new HR policy, but it’s not a new requirement,” said Matt Shelby, a spokesman for the Department of Administrative Services.

“Since 1998, we’ve had a facilities policy of no firearms or weapons in our buildings unless you are essentially a police officer. That covers everybody, not just employees.”

Such facilities policies, which also ban visitors to the buildings from bringing in weapons, have been challenged in some instances around the country.

“For DAS we have a policy on file there will be no firearms in our buildings, but those have been challenged in other instances,” Shelby said.

Shelby could not immediately confirm whether those challenges were the impetus for separate HR policy.

House and Senate Republicans condemned the new policy Thursday.

“I am extremely concerned to learn that our state government has taken steps that limit employees’ rights to self-defense and believe that these actions may violate the Oregon Constitution,” said House Minority Leader Rep. Mike McLane, R-Powell Butte. “I will be asking Gov. Brown’s office to explain where they believe their power to take such actions is derived from and, if necessary, take swift action to restore the rights of Oregonians as soon as possible.”

Chris Pair, a spokesman in Gov. Kate Brown’s office, was not immediately available to confirm whether the policy change was ordered by governor.

Oregon law generally prohibits the possession of firearms in public buildings, but in most cases exempts individuals who have a license to carry a concealed weapon.

It was unclear at deadline how those laws relate to DHS policy.

Enterprise DMV field office scheduled to reopen today

The Enterprise DMV field office is scheduled to reopen today — Wednesday, Jan. 18 — after repairs from minor flooding caused by a burst water pipe between the office and neighboring businesses.

The Enterprise office, located at 200 W. North St., is normally open 9 a.m. to 5 p.m. Tuesday-Thursday, closing from 12:30 to 2 p.m. for lunch.

Business can also be conducted at OregonDMV.com.

Two proposals take aim at reducing PERS liabilities

By Claire Withycombe
Capital Bureau

SALEM — As lawmakers head into the 2017 legislative session, at least two proposed bills plan to address oft-tread territory: the state’s pension system.

In 2013, the Legislature approved a slew of changes to the system, referred to as PERS, only to have many of them rejected by the Oregon Supreme Court in 2015.

This time around, those legislators who have called for reforms to PERS — including members of an informal work group — say the Legislature needs to address the system’s $22 billion unfunded liability while meeting legal requirements.

Two proposals that have emerged thus far have co-opted some ideas floated at that work group, which is led by Sens. Betsy Johnson, D-Scappoose, and Tim Knopp, R-Bend.

SB 559 would increase the number of years used in calculating final average salary of public employees to prevent end-of-career spikes; and SB 560 would redirect employee contributions from an individual account program to the pension fund and cap the final salary used in the benefits calculation at $100,000 starting Jan. 1, 2018.

Both bills’ chief sponsors are Knopp and Sen. Jeff Kruse, R-Roseburg, who said that the two bills might not be the only proposals to expect from Senate Republicans this session.

“We’re still kind of dancing around a few things,” Kruse said Wednesday.

Currently, PERS beneficiaries who were hired prior to Jan. 1, 1996 — known as Tier 1 employees — are promised an assumed 7.5 percent rate of return on investment, credited to their regular accounts every year.

Kruse said changing that 7.5 percent rate, which the market has failed to match, could be legally permissible but that it and other ideas were still being vetted.

“We don’t want to propose anything that we don’t think would survive a legal challenge because it would be a waste of time,” Kruse said.

Legislative Counsel, in a memo to Knopp and Johnson in late August, noted that the court hasn’t addressed the method of calculating final average salary and whether it is a term of the PERS contract. If it is, they said, changes to the calculation are permissible “if the changes protect accrued benefits.”

Attempts at reform could face an uphill battle politically; some union representatives have already publicly questioned the legality of possible changes to the system.

In her inauguration speech Monday, Gov. Kate Brown called for “smarter government,” including better management of PERS, just over a month after she nudged Oregon business leaders to contribute ideas to address the state’s budget shortfall in the wake of the failure of Measure 97, a tax on corporate sales.

Supporters said the tax would have raised about $3 billion per year and could have fixed the state’s persistent budget shortfalls.

Brown said in her speech Jan. 9 that beside her proposal — outlined in SB 107 — to bring more investment functions in-house under a new Oregon Investment Department, she looked forward to “the other solutions proposed in the months ahead.”

“As we consider our next steps, let’s agree to keep our promises to retirees,” Brown said, according to her prepared remarks. “Let’s ensure that no one can (take) advantage of the system. And let’s seek solutions that are legally viable, so that dead ends aren’t left to languish in court while the challenge of PERS only continues to grow.”

In a phone interview in late December, Sen. Johnson said there was “very little political enthusiasm to engage in the discussion to find a solution or a partial solution.”

“In an ideal world, I would envision an omnibus bill that would have some revenue raising mechanisms done or agreed to with business rather than done to business,” Johnson said in late December. “The same omnibus bill would address the expenditure side of the ledger and include one or two strategic PERS reforms that would yield financial benefit to the system as well as survive any legal test.”

Student of the Week

Lewis Hunter is a kindergartener and new this year to the Enterprise SDA School. He is a bundle of excitement and energy, so recess and playing with his friends are his favorite parts of school. Lewis has worked hard on his schoolwork this year and is always willing to help a friend!

Lewis Hunter

ENTERPRISE SDA SCHOOL

Proudly sponsored by

Community BANK

Member FDIC

Joseph 432-9050
Enterprise 426-4511
Wallowa 886-9151

The Student of the Week is chosen for academic achievement and community involvement. Students are selected by the administrators of their respective schools.

ANTHROPOLOGY

GEOGRAPHY

COMPARATIVE LITERATURE

HISTORY

BIOLOGY

SOCIOLOGY

ROMANCE

PHILOSOPHY

CALCULUS

CHEMISTRY

Restocked!

CC Beanie Hats

Warm & Stylish!

Fleece-lined Leggings - $12

Stop by today!

Open 10am - 5pm daily

Uptown Clothing & Accessories in Downtown Joseph

12 S. Main St. • 541-432-9653

STILL RUNNING OUT TO FETCH THE PAPER?

6 months $26.00
1 year* $40.00
1 year, online $40.00

Subscribe to home delivery, and we'll deliver it to you for less than half the cost!

541-426-4567 • wallowa.com

* $40.00 is the in county price, $57.00 for out of county subscribers.

The Wallowa County Chieftain

SMART is celebrating 25 years of sparking a love of reading in Oregon kids.

Since 1992, SMART (Start Making A Reader Today) has been pairing adult volunteers with PreK through third-grade students across Oregon to get them excited about books and reading.

Join SMART's statewide 25th anniversary celebration by:

- Signing up to volunteer
- Making a donation to support SMART in your local community
- Purchasing our children's book, Oregon Reads Aloud

188,414 Students served

125,061 Volunteers

3,959,906 Hours spent reading

2.4 MILLION Books given

OREGON READS ALOUD 25 YEARS OF SMART

SMART START MAKING A READER TODAY

www.getSMARToregon.org/25years

This message presented in partnership with the Oregon Newspaper Publishers Association.

One Western Woman's Experience

Teaching Science to Girls in Saudi Arabia

Karen McFarlane Holman, PhD

Professor of Chemistry, Willamette University

2010 Oregon Professor of the Year

Thurs, Jan 26th 7pm

 Wallowa County SOROPTIMIST

Inspirations and Frustrations in Segregated Education

Wallowology!

Natural History Discovery Center

508 N. Main • Joseph • 541-263-1663 • wallowology.org

WALLOWA COUNTY CHIEFTAIN

wallowa.com

No matter what your business is, the Wallowa County Chieftain has the audience you need!

We have many options to market your business in an affordable and effective manner.

Call Jennifer Powell today!

541-426-4567 (office) or email jpowell@wallowa.com