Learn about nature on a Discovery Walk

Ever wonder about the name of some of the trees or plants in the area? Now's your time to learn. Wallowology Natural History Discover Center in Joseph has announced a full schedule of free discovery walks between now and September. Walks are held on two days:
 • 10 a.m. to noon Fridays, leaving from Wallowology, 508 N. Main, Joseph. Hikes led by adventure guide Kathy Bowman visit the Wallowa Lake Moraines, Hurrigan Creek Trail or Iwetemlaykin State Site. The destinations are guided by participant preference.
 • 4-6 p.m. Wednesdays and 9-11 a.m. Sundays, leaving from Wallowa Lake Lodge on Wallowa Lake. Participants explore plants, animals and geology of the Nez Perce Tribe's Conservation Easement on the lodge grounds, the upper Wallowa River, Wallowa Lake State Park and other locations. The walks are designed to be hands-on interaction with animals, plants and nature, according to Bowman.
 "The pace is slow because we stop to examine, discuss, photograph and think about what we observe," she said. "We welcome families and children of all ages."
 She noted that groups can find interesting plants like sweet sage and yarrow, which have some traditional uses, and see her pretending to be a hanger for bird feeders, with children acting out tipping it to spill the seeds.

OBITUARIES

Rocky Wilson
 Jan. 17, 1950 — June 10, 2016

Rocky Wilson

Bruce Rockne "Rocky" Wilson, 67, of Wallowa, a former long-time reporter for the Wallowa County Chieftain, died Saturday, June 10, at Wallowa Memorial Hospital. Rocky was born Jan. 17, 1950, at Oregon City, the son of Donald and Eileen Wilson. He moved with his parents and older sister Christine to Wallowa as a small child when his father became a teacher and coach at Wallowa High School. He was a 1968 graduate of Wallowa High School, where he was the quarterback of the WHS state champion football team. Rocky started writing for the Chieftain in high school and returned to the reporter's desk more than once during his life, retiring from the Chieftain for good two years ago. During his eventful life, among other adventures, he was also a student at Humboldt State University, owned and published a two-county newspaper in Condon, Ore., traveled as part of a Christian acting troupe, was a landscaper in Hawaii, reported for the Spokane Journal of Business and worked as a Spokane taxi driver. Outside of his journalism career, Rocky was a prolific writer, the author of three novels and two nonfiction books, including his autobiography. He enjoyed the theater, and locally starred in "Damn Yankees" many years ago, as well as acting in a more recent production of MidValley Theatre Company. He was a dedicated Christian and a member of the Enterprise Christian Church. Rocky is survived by his wife, Megan Wilson of Wallowa; son, Christopher Williams of Spokane; sister and brother-in-law, Christine and Mike Chandler of Gig Harbor, Wash.; niece Becky King and nephews Seth and Adam King; and other extended family members. He was preceded in death by his parents. A memorial service will be held later this summer.

Barbara Louise Thompson
 Feb. 17, 1921 — Aug. 15, 2016

Former Wallow resident Barbara Louise Thompson passed away Aug. 15, 2016 in Lewiston, Idaho. She was born in Fremont, Mich., Feb. 17, 1921, the daughter of Fred and Nettie Pratt Obits. She came west after college to teach English at Wallowa High School. She met Allen Thompson, a local gentleman, and married him on Dec. 29, 1946. She taught school at Wallowa in 1949 and again 1957-61. She is survived by her daughter Betsy Cooper, grandchildren, Jhasen and Mandy, a brother Wallace Obits and her sister Lorraine. A celebration of life was held Sept 10, 2016, in Lewiston. She was buried privately at the Wallowa Cemetery May 7, 2017.
