A shop and barn belonging to H. C. Chenoweth, at the junction of the Enterprise-La Grande highway and the golf course road, burned down. The telephone operator had phoned the firemen stating that the fire was at the county shops. They went first to the new shops and then to the old county shops, but found no fire. By the time they arrived at the fire the flames were out of control and nothing could be saved.

Residents of the Troy area are determined to get electric power and daily mail service. Approximately 60 signatures for power service were obtained at a recent meeting in Troy.
